Water Moratorium In Marin Protested

Construction Workers See Jobs In Jeopardy

By PAT ANGLE

Charging that a moratorium on water connections will precipitate economic disaster, about 200 persons staged a protest yesterday at the Marin Municipal Water District office in Corte Madera.

The men — most of them from the construction trades — carried signs opposing the ban, which the water district board approved on a temporary basis April 30 and is now considering making permanent.

Directors who favor the proposal claim the district is in the throes of a serious water shortage and that such a freeze — which would halt most development in the county — is necessary to protect existing water users.

"No water, no jobs, no money," one sign read. "I like beauty myself, clean water, green grass, clean air, but I need work," proclaimed another, and others carried similar messages.

The protestors marched in front of the district office for almost an hour, then jammed — and overflowed — the district's meeting room as the board met to consider the freeze further.

Those who had expected some action on the matter yesterday were to be disappointed, since the board declined to act, or even indicate its intent, on the controversial question.

Instead, directors agreed to think about making some minor changes in the moratorium ordinance, then act on it at a special meeting June 7 at 7:30 p.m. at a place to be announced.

The redrafted moratorium currently under consideration is slightly less restrictive than that originally proposed, ordering an immediate halt to all new connections, except for those already approved. The newest plan, for example, would give property owners, who do not require pipeline extensions to obtain water, 90 days to make applications for their projects, providing construction will be completed with 18 months of the time the ordinance goes into effect.

Pipeline extensions — other than those approved by the board before April 30 — will not be allowed under the moratorium, meaning that almost all large development in the county will be impossible.

The ordinance does provide a variance procedure for those who would suffer "unnecessary and undue hardship" as a result of the freeze, such as individuals who may need new connections because their homes have been destroyed by fire.

But the regulation clearly states that "financial hardship alone shall not constitute grounds for a variance."

There was some dispute among directors as to how long a moratorium, once imposed, would last. Board member John MacPhail Jr. warned it could continue for up to five years, until the district develops new sources of water supply.

Director Jack R. Felson hinted it might be lifted in November, if voters approve a bond issue for additional supply which the district plans to place on the ballot at that time.

Despite some disagreement over the "fine print" in the ordinance, there was no indication that any serious opposition to the ban had developed on the board since it unanimously approved the temporary freeze on connections.

$500,000 Medical Overspending

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County Department of Health Services has overspent its authorized Medi-Cal budget for psychiatric care by more than $500,000, the Independent-Journal learned late yesterday.

The discovery follows closely on the heels of a move by the department to refuse payment claims submitted after May 9 by three local facilities offering psychiatric services to indigent Medi-Cal patients.

According to Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, director of health services, the cut-off was imposed because the county is "exceeding the gross Short-Doyle Medi-Cal budget" of $538,000 approved by the state.

County health officials made no public report that spending had nearly doubled the authorized allocation, instead treating it as an "in-house matter."

The deficit was discovered following an anonymous phone call to the I-J that employees were being laid off at Ross General Hospital. That led to discovery of Cooke's May 9 letter.

Cause of the large deficit is unclear as is its ultimate effect on the county and those agencies supplying psychiatric care — Ross and Marin General hospitals and the Marin Child Development Center in Tiburon.

Ross General, which has about $400,000 in outstanding Medi-Cal bills with the county —the bulk of the deficit —is no longer accepting indigent patients at its 54-bed psychiatric facility. Marin General and the development center are. They have about $50,000 in outstanding claims.

County health officials met yesterday in Sacramento with officials of the state Department of Mental Hygiene not only for funds to cover the budget overrun but for an emergency allocation to keep programs running until July, the start of next fiscal year.

A spokesman for Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, today told the Independent-Journal "the state is swimming in mental health money," and he foresaw no problem in funding the deficit.

"Statewide the problem is finding facilities" willing to accept Medi-Cal psychiatric patients, he said, adding many counties will return surpluses to the state this year.

The cause of the deficit is unclear.

County officials, such as Dr. Cooke and his assistant in charge of community mental health, Dr. Robert Taylor, blame Ross General.

Ross General Administrator L. C. Johnson and members of his board of directors and staff blame the county.

Both Johnson and Cooke said they were certain money would be forthcoming from the state.

Under the Medi-Cal payment procedure in Marin, Cooke's office, in consultation with the hospitals and development center, last year estimated a $538,000 budget need for psychiatric care this fiscal year.

The three agencies offering services share the same pot, submitting their bills to the county, which in turn processes and forwards them to the state.

Cooke said today that the estimate proved too low, because Ross General expanded its psychiatric services, creating a greater than expected drain on the county's Medi-Cal allocation. He estimated the deficit to be "approximately $400,000."

Taylor, whose mental health

Suit Seeks Halt In Redeveloping

A cup manufacturer in Corte Madera's redevelopment area yesterday filed suit in Marin Superior Court to halt a regional shopping center east of Highway 101 until a more thorough environmental impact report is prepared and considered.

The suit is the second in a week seeking to prevent any further work on the multi-million dollar project of Ernest W. Hahn, a Southern California shopping center builder. On Friday attorney Joel Shawn, who resigned as head of the town's general plan study committee in a dispute with the town council, filed suit claiming the impact report was inadequate.

Echoing the allegation was the suit filed yesterday by San Francisco attorney Philip B. Bass for J. Patrick Hunt and Peter J. Hunt, partners in Fiberplastics, Inc. Fiberplastics owns Handi-Kup Co. at 195 Tamal Vista Boulevard, which is directly across Highway 101 from the proposed center.

The suit contends that the impact report by consultants Sedway and Cooke of San Francisco "fails plainly, understandably and objectively to set forth all of the adverse consequences the proposed project will have on the environment and on the citizens."

Furthermore, according to the suit, the report "represents by sham and deception an effort to obfuscate the facts and mislead and confuse the public" to believe the project is in the town's best interest.

The suit lists 14 specific areas in which it claims the impact report is deficient and so not in compliance with law.

The report fails to deal adequately with the impact of fill and hauling it to the site, traffic

McCord Is Refused Chance For Rebuttal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate committee, refusing to get "bogged down" in lawyers' quarrels, today rejected a demand from star witness James W. McCord Jr. for a chance to refute a charge that he was "out to get the President."

At the same time, the committee announced it would add three more days of hearings to its previously announced schedule, apparently because it has been sidetracked this week from its probe into the bugging of Democratic party headquarters last spring and alleged related acts of political espionage.

The extra hearings will be June 5, 6, and 7, after Congress returns from a Memorial Day recess next week.

McCord, one of the seven men convicted for the Watergate bugging, who has charged high-level involvement in the plot in two days of testimony before the committee, demanded that he be permitted to come back to the witness table today.

McCord made the demand late yesterday after his former lawyer, Gerald Alch, testified that McCord's current attorney, Bernard Fensterwald, recently had told him: "We are going to get the President of the United States."

But the committee, meeting prior to today's televised hearings —the fifth session since the series opened a week ago — rejected McCord's demand and a similar request by Fensterwald.

"The committee does not intend to get bogged down in a controversy between lawyers, neither one of which has personal knowledge of the matters this committee is investigating," Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., announced before questioning of Alch began today.

Ervin said both men could submit sworn statements if they chose and meet with the committee privately, and might be called to testify later if the committee felt it would be useful.

Fensterwald's face fell as Er-

Mrs. Kitty Oppenheimer Dies At 76

Kitty Oppenheimer, Marin radio personality and long a figure in county music and theatrical circles, died in her sleep yesterday at her Kentfield home after a short illness. She was 76.

Mrs. Oppenheimer had been associated with radio KTIM in San Rafael since 1948, and was best known as the venerable and cheerful moderator of the "Marin Sounding Board" program, a weekly discussion of local and regional issues.

Until six weeks ago, when she became ill and continued to live in her home at 202 Kent Avenue, Mrs. Oppenheimer had moderated 1,108 consecutive broadcasts of the show, going back two decades. In 1960, "Marin Sounding Board" won the Gold Medal Award at the California State Fair as the top public service program by a nonmetropolitan radio station.

The San Francisco-born Mrs. Oppenheimer, a resident of Marin since 1926, also helped form

Hearing On Toll Hike Will Be In Plaza Office

The Golden Gate Bridge District board will hold a hearing at 8 p.m. today in its toll plaza office on a proposal to raise bridge tolls from 50 cents to 75 cents.

An editorial in yesterday's Independent-Journal erroneously said the hearing would be at the Marin County Civic Center.

Dale W. Luehring, bridge district general manager, said today that if the crowd is too large for the toll plaza offices, which can accommodate up to 150, another hearing might be scheduled at another location.

Light Showers Fall On Marin, Southern Sonoma

May showers fell on Marin and Southern Sonoma counties last night and today. It was the first time since 1971 that rain fell in May.

The rainfall was little more than enough to spot auto windshields — .03 of an inch in Ross and .02 of an inch in San Rafael, the Chevy Chase area of Larkspur and in Petaluma. Only a trace was reported in rain gauges elsewhere in the two counties by 8 a.m.

Though many residents had put away their raincoats and umbrellas until fall, it's not too late in the year for showers, according to Carrol Snyker of Ross, veteran weather recorder. He said in some years, more than three inches of rain have fallen as late as June.

Records from Crocker Bank in San Rafael indicate .41 of an inch of rain fell in May 1971 and 5.52 inches in May 1957. The record total for a May was 6.82 inches in 1915.

Today's showers were generated by the fringes of a vigorous late-season storm sweeping southeastward from the Gulf of Alaska, federal weather forecasters said. Continued cloudiness was predicted for tomorrow.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Watergate Spreads

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers flew into Argentina to attend a presidential inauguration but found his Latin American hosts more immediately interested in the Watergate affair.

He told newsmen yesterday before he left Brazil for Argentina, the seventh of eight visits in a 17-day Latin American tour, that the Watergate affair was not a "favorable development," but he predicted it would not damage America's image abroad.

"It will not have any effect at all," Rogers told newsmen.

Beirut Relaxes

BEIRUT (UPI) — The government relaxed a state of emergency it proclaimed 17 days ago at the height of fighting between the army and Palestinian guerrillas, but left in force today a six-hour curfew in Beirut and other cities.

Data On Blast

RIO BLANCHO, Colo. (UPI) — Preliminary data from last week's underground nuclear blast in western Colorado shows it did not damage the vast oil shale deposits in the area, scientists said yesterday.

"Preliminary data indicates that the shock effect at the well extended more than 150 feet, but less than 600 feet down," Dr. Charles Williams of the Atomic Energy Commission said.

The Project (Rio Blanco) detonation — equal to 90,000 tons of TNT — was designed to create a cavern more than a mile underground and free natural gas trapped in the tight sandstone formations.

Russian Popularity

MOSCOW (UPI) — The government newspaper Izvestia said yesterday that pollster George Gallup believes Americans now admire Russians and their government more than at any time since World War II.

"Never since the second world war have Americans liked the Russians and the Soviet government as well as they do now," Izvestia said of Gallup's findings.

Test Disruption

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

A spokesman for a peace organization said yesterday in Auckland, New Zealand, that an American yacht has moved into position near an isolated South Pacific island in an attempt to disrupt forthcoming nuclear tests by France.

The yacht Fri, said Barry Mitcalfe, national coordinator of the Media Research Organization, is stationed about 140 miles east of the Mururoa atoll used for the French tests. Mitcalfe did not list the number of persons aboard or their nationalities.

Push Repulsed

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Government troops trying to push their way up Highway 5 northwest of Phnom Penh were beaten off today by Communist mortar and recoilless rifle fire. Bad weather kept U.S. jet fighters from flying support missions in the area.

Field reports said the government troops, operating with about 30 armored personnel carriers, fell back under an onslaught of 75mm recoilless rifle and 60 and 82mm rifle fire.

Rioting Subsides

BELFAST (UPI) — Two days of sporadic rioting in Roman Catholic districts of Londonderry subsided early today, but British commanders warned new violence could break out when troops move in to tear down street barricades.

Commanders said they would order troops using armored bulldozers into the districts and said they were prepared in case Irish Republican Army snipers attack — as area residents warned.

Violations Fall

SAIGON (UPI) — Alleged Communist cease-fire violations today dipped to 55 in the past 24 hours, the lowest number since the Vietnam truce began, but fighting was reported within eight miles of Saigon for the second time in two days.

In one of the incidents, four government militiamen were killed and four others wounded yesterday afternoon near Nhon Trach district, town and about eight miles east of Saigon.

Richardson Wins Senate Approval

ELLIOT RICHARDSON
Confirmed by Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate overwhelmingly confirmed Elliot Richardson as attorney general yesterday despite some doubts his nominee for special Watergate prosecutor might not have enough freedom to fully investigate the scandal.

The vote came during a three-hour meeting at the Justice Department between Archibald Cox, the Harvard professor appointed by Richardson last week as the Watergate prosecutor, and the current Watergate prosecution team. Cox was informed of the vote by telephone during the meeting.

Although the vote frees Cox to begin working actively on the investigation, sources said yesterday "it's going to be several more weeks before indictments come" because Cox will need time to read the federal grand jury findings. The grand jury has been working on the Watergate case for about 11 months.

The confirmation of Richardson, former defense secretary, also opens the way for President Nixon to nominate CIA Director James P. Schlesinger as defense secretary and move William B. Colby into Schlesinger's job. Richardson will take the oath of office later this week.

Despite the overhwleming confirmation vote, some senators said they still fear Richardson is too close to the administration to have ultimate authority over the Justice Department during its eraWatergate investigation.

Leader Robert C. Byrd, speaking for himself and other liberals on the Senate Judiciary Committee, said he voted for the confirmation with reluctance. The committee approved the nomination unanimously.

Byrd said he never questioned Richardson's personal integrity and would have supported him fully under different circumstances. But, he added, the appointment of Richardson in the midst of the Watergate scandal gives "every appearance of the administration investigating itself."

"It goes to the appearance that Mr. Richardson might conceivably participate in a cover-up," he said.

Byrd said he decided to go along with the nomination because "time is of the essence" and the Senate might receive "no better nomination" if Richardson were rejected.

The three senators voting against Richardson were Democrat Sens. Joseph R. Biden of Delaware, Harold Hughes of Iowa, and Mike Gravel of Alaska.

"Mr. Richardson's duty will require the investigation, the indictment, and prosecution of some of his friends and associates of many years," Gravel said. "As attorney general, he will carry the same burden that compelled his predecessor to resign."

Grecian Coup Try Thwarted

ATHENS (UPI) — The Greek military government announced today it had foiled an attempted coup by two retired admirals and a handful of officers. Those named were known to be loyal to self-exiled King Constantine who was once involved in a coup attempt himself.

Government spokesman Vyron Stanatopoulos, a deputy minister, said the government had also broken up an alleged seditious organization, directed from outside Greece, which aimed at penetrating the ruling forces.

He said the plot was directed by self-exiled Greeks abroad and blamed the coup atmosphere on a recent statement by former Premier Constantinos Karamanlis asking for formation of a national unity government to restore political normalcy to the country.

Greek newspapers which printed the Karamanlis statement were seized.

Stanatopoulous linked the navy plot with an illegal organization known as E.A.N. (Greek initials for Greek Anti-Dictatorial Youth) whose members were arrested earlier in the week.

Stamatopoulos said the mutiny was led by two retired admirals and "a number of active officers counted on the fingers of one hand."

Marijuana Taken

DENVER (UPI) — Burglars broke into the Colorado Bureau of Investigation headquarters yesterday and escaped with 400 pounds of marijuana being held as evidence. It was worth $50,000.

Ford Plans To Meet Demands Of Argentine Terrorist Group

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. said today it has made contact with leftwing terrorists who threatened to kidnap employes if the company did not send $1 million worth of medical equipment and supplies to Argentine hospitals.

In Detroit, the company said Wednesday it would meet the demands.

A Ford spokesman in Buenos Aires said "conversations" already have started with the leftist People's Revolutionary Army (ERP), accused in several other kidnapings and attacks

The organization said its gunmen shot two Argentine employes of the company Monday as they left a suburban plant.

The employes were Luis V. Giovanelli, a cost analysis director listed in critical condition, and Noemi Baruj de Da Rin, supervisor of social welfare programs, who was slightly wounded in a machine-gun attack.

The ERP said the shooting occurred during an unsuccessful kidnap attempt and warned it would make more attempts if Ford did not pay "compensation" of $1 million to hospitals, ambulance services and other medical institutions.

A Ford spokesman said in Detroit that the company received a telephone call from an ERP representative that led to contacts with the guerrillas.

"We have no idea what precipitated the attacks," said Edgar R. Molina, vice president of Ford's Asia-Pacific and Latin American automotive operations.

"Ford Argentina had not been contacted with threats or ransom demands prior to the shootings," he said, but added the company received a telephone call from an unidentified man who said more attacks would occur if demands were not met.

"The caller demanded," Molina said, "that Ford provide 22 ambulances for each of seven provinces in Argentina and direct donations to hospitals in the area for operations and equipment.

"The material demanded is valued at about $1 million. Ford Argentina has responded affirmatively and expressed its willingness to meet the demands. We believe under the circumstances we had no choice but to meet the demands."

President Alejandro Lanusse, who leves office Friday, forbade the Italian automobile company Fiat to negotiate with the ERP last year when that group kidnaped the president of its Argentine operations, Obardan Sallustro.

Lanusse refused to bargain with what he called "common criminals" over their demand for for release of political prisoners and he would not let Fiat donate a ransom to needy schools.

BUGGING

vin announced his decision and McCord, sitting behind him in the jammed hearing room, looked grim. Fensterwald quickly issued a statement written to the committee in which he said he just wanted to "see the truth come out," but did not deny making the remark to Alch about being out to "get the President."

"If having the truth brought out means implicating the President or some of his top staff, so be it," the Fensterwald statement said. "I do not apologize for this approach to seeing the truth come out, and neither does Jim McCord."

Ervin and other committee members questioned Alch closely through the morning, particularly about a possible connection between Watergate and the CIA and about alleged offers of executive clemency to McCord.

But Alch stuck by his testimony yesterday that he had never suggested to McCord, a retired CIA agent, that his personnel records could be "doctored" with the aid of CIA Director James Schlesinger to show him still on the payroll at the time of the June 17, 1972, Watergate raid.

McCord had testified Alch told him that could be arranged.

Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., began his questioning of Alch with a warning that because of the obvious conflicts in testimony by Alch and McCord, if the committee could find evidence of perjury he would see that a copy of the testimony went to the proper U.S. attorney for prosecution.

say words to the effect, 'Let me think about it.' And days would pass, then I would get a definitive response."

The committee's chief counsel, Sam Dash, questioned Alch about two areas in which Alch appeared to differ with McCord —whether Alch ever suggested that McCord base his defense on CIA involvement, and whether Alch ever participated "in exposing McCord to an offer of executive clemency."

Alch testified that he did not suggest blaming the break-in on the CIA, and was told by the head of his law firm, F. Lee Bailey, that if McCord should insist on such a defense, Alch should withdraw from the case.

Alch said he had asked McCord whether there was "a factual basis" for establishing CIA involvement, but denied again today he ever said he could have CIA records doctored.

"It escapes me how such an allegation could be a misunderstanding," Alch said. "I didn't say it."

Alch said that in a later meeting with McCord, McCord said he would have nothing to do with any defense that would blame the plot on the CIA. That made it unnecessary, he said, to tell McCord of Bailey's order for him to drop the case if McCord wanted a CIA defense and no factual base could be found.

Dash told Alch of two incidents that Dash said could have helped McCord believe that Alch was proposing a defense implicating the CIA — incidents that Dash got Alch to acknowledge he had omitted from his emotional 90-minute, 26-page statement Wednesday.

One, Dash said, was when Alch remarked to McCord that a District of Columbia policeman had observed that the men arrested inside the Watergate were CIA veterans.

The other, Dash said, was Alch calling McCord's attention to a book by Victor Marchetti critical of the CIA. Alch replied that McCord had told him that Marchetti was "not in good graces at the CIA."

Asked by Dash why McCord could not have concluded Alch was involved since he was the one who told McCord to expect a telephone call from a friend, Alch replied:

"If he made that conclusion, it was factually false ... this was at a point in time when I thought we had a very fine relationship, so why wouldn't he come up to me and tell me about that phone call?"

Asked then if he thought McCord was a "suspicious individual," Alch answered:

"I hesitate to use the word suspicious. There were times I would communicate with him and ask him for positions or information on particular topics and he would not give me immediate responses. He would

Street Plan Approved For Cotati

The Cotati Parks and Recreation Commission agreed last night that the city should begin improving the Delano Street extension for a neighborhood park.

Chairman Lee Gray said that commissioners want to install water facilities, do drainage and grading work and plant trees as the first improvements on the 60-by-700 foot site.

Eventually, other facilities such as picnic areas and a backstop are planned, she said. Commissioners plan to discuss costs of initial work at their June 13 meeting.

In other action, the commission endorsed the conservation and open space element for the city's general plan as prepared by city planning staff.

Mrs. Gray said the commission was interested especially in archaeological sites mentioned in the plan, especially one which may be the original site of the Indian village "Kotate."

The commission also made further plans for Cotati Community Days, being sponsored jointly with the chamber of commerce on June 2 and 3. Festivities on June 2 will include dedication of the new bandstand in the city plaza at 2 p.m. and an all-day art show in the plaza.

Mrs. Gray said that the police department has agreed to sponsor a "dunk a pig in the park" dunking tank booth.

circulation at peak hours and congestion if the state does not improve the interchanges at Tamalpais and Williams Avenues, according to the suit.

Furthermore, alternatives like improving the existing Corte Madera Center or locating the center in another city are not considered, the suit says.

Also not fully considered are the impact of a ferry terminal on the San Quentin Peninsula on traffic, long range transit plans or the possible relocation of other businesses due to the project.

Fiberplastics itself has been warned that it could conceivably have to move if Highway 101 is realigned to make room for the shopping center, but town officials said such warnings were sent to all businesses within redevelopment boundaries.

Town treasurer Frank Bigley said today it is not yet known if any business will be displaced and called Fiberplastics' concern premature.

The suit is the latest salvo in a running development fight, which has split the town. Controversy boiled first over plans for 528 units on 75 acres near the Koch luggage plant and spilled over to the nearby shopping center project.

Mayor Holmes S. Norville and Councilmen Harold B. Wagstaff and Edward W. Colthurst are facing recall by antidevelopment forces angry at their allegedly prodevelopment stands.

The lawsuit by Fiberplastics names all five councilmen, the town and the redevelopment agency, which is governed by the council.

Bill Will Open Most Meetings

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Most of the California Legislature's committee meetings would be open to the public under a measure winning unanimous Assembly approval today.

Assemblyman John Burton, the San Francisco Democrat who authored the constitutional amendment, told his fellow legislators in brief floor debate that the measure "is the type of thing the people of California expect from their elected representatives."

Burton said his plan wouldn't apply to legislative committee meetings dealing with personnel and some legal and security matters.

Shrimp Fishing Season Closed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Commercial shrimp fishing was halted yesterday in waters off San Mateo, San Francisco, Marin, Sonoma and southern Mendocino counties by the state Department of Fish and Game.

The season, which normally extends until October 31, was closed early because fishermen were nearing the allowable quota of 250,000 pounds of shrimp, the department said.

Quotas are established to avoid overfishing.

LONG CAREER — Kitty Oppenheimer, who died yesterday, spent many hours at the KTIM microphone as moderator of the "Marin Sounding Board" program. She also long worked in music and theatrical circles.

OBITUARIES

and took active part in a number of music and theater groups in Marin. She was a founding member of the Marin Music Chest and its long-time executive secretary; a founding member of the Ross Valley Players and a board member of the Mountain Play Association, a group with which she long was associated.

Other activities included membership in the Marin Zonta Club, on the board of the Ross Psychiatric Clinic and work in conservationist circles, having been an ardent hiker and an original member of the Tamalpais Conservation Club.

Mrs. Oppenheimer also was known as the "voice" of the former Marin Art and Garden Fair and the Sunny Hills Grape Festival.

She was the widow of Melville Oppenheimer, a manufacturer's representative, who died in 1945. They had met before World War I while both were working at a San Francisco manufacturing firm, Mrs. Oppenheimer as an office employee and her husband as a young executive.

After living in San Francisco about a decade following their marriage, the Oppenheimers moved to Ross. They soon became heavily involved in community activities.

During World War II, Mrs. Oppenheimer engaged in civil defense and Red Cross work. Three years after her husband's death, in 1948, she was surprised by an offer from KTIM to go to work as a commentator on a show of classical music.

"I was flabbergasted because I had never previously undertaken anything remotely like broadcasting," she once told an interviewer. Mrs. Oppenheimer accepted, beginning her long radio career.

She also conducted other programs during her KTIM career, among them the "Open House" and "Women's Page" interview shows. But she was best known as the winsome and purposeful "Sounding Board" moderator, who sometimes was called upon to cool tempers which boiled over controversial topics.

And, at the conclusion of each show, there always was an admonition to the Independent-Journal reporter assigned to cover the program. With a wave of the finger and in a polite but firm voice, she would say, "And don't forget to mention the moderator."

Survivors are two daughters, Joan Kaehler of Palo Alto and Nona Kaufmann of Strawberry, and six grandchildren.

No funeral is planned.

The family requests memorial contributions to the Kitty Oppenheimer Scholarship Fund of the Marin Music Chest, c/o Robert Woodward, Box 47, Novato 94947.

FUNDS

staff is responsible for handling the claims, said the deficit amount had not yet been determined but resulted from the hospital's expanded service and delay in submitting bills to the county.

Had the hospital submitted claims in a timely manner, Taylor said, the overage would have been noticed before it mushroomed.

He added, however, that his office was not aware it was to monitor the funds even though it received a memorandum some months ago from the state saying that is a county responsibility.

"It was in the memorandum but it was not emphasized with quote marks or anything," Taylor said.

Another county health official, who asked not to be named, said "there are real problems" in the monitoring system which is done "by hand" and not by computer. He said a delay in billings from Ross General aggravated the problem.

Ross General administrator Johnson, meanwhile, acknowledged that his hospital had exceeded its original estimate of dollar needs because of expanded service. But, he continued, the hospital has been submitting claims monthly and that it was up to the county to monitor those claims against the state's $538,000 allocation.

He was joined by the hospital's psychiatric staff and board Chairman Carroll A. Russell, who sent a joint letter to Dr. Cooke criticizng his health department.

"If, in fact, there has been an overutilization of funds for psychiatric hospital care," the letter said,"this should have been apparent weeks or months earlier."

The letter also criticized the county's move to cut off funding without prior notice.

Currently, there are about 15 Medi-Cal patients in the Ross psychiatric ward who are continuing to be cared for at about $100 per day each.

Johnson called untrue a growing rumor that the hospital, owned by Hospital Corporation of America, which owns 40 other hospitals, may be forced to close if the funds are not forthcoming.

County Administrator John F. Barrows said he was "aware of a problem" in the county's Medi-Cal budget but considered it an "in-house matter that the department" should try to solve.

He said he did not expect Cooke or other county department heads to run to him or the board of supervisors with such problems unless they prove unsolvable at the department level or involve county policy.

Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste said no report of the deficit had been filed with his office and he was aware of a problem in the Medi-Cal budget only through press reports. He said he plans to look into the matter.

Golfrey Connally Raps President

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Golfrey M. Connally, the younger brother of presidential adviser John B. Connally, said yesterday President Nixon is moving the country toward a police state and should resign.

"I think there ought to be a lot of pressure on the President to resign," the third of the five Connally brothers said. "Regardless of the outcome, even assuming he's never directly implicated, his competence has been very clearly questioned.

"How can he admit he didn't know this? It's just proof he didn't do his job. That's enough reason for asking him to resign."

Bill Would Change Rule For Primary

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's Democratic winner-take-all presidential primary would be abolished under legislation approved 5-0 today by the Senate Elections Committee.

Land Is Designated

Bothersome details maybe, but all very important to the protection of your property. And preferably arranged through the expertise of your Realtor. When you buy a home, have a professional handle your affairs. And if you're selling a home, place it on Multiple Listing. Fire Season Is Declared Open

The North Coast District of the California Division of Forestry, which includes Southern Sonoma County, has declared the wildland fire season open.

Deputy State Forester George Grogan said, "firefighters have already answered many fire calls," about as many as "last year's early responses which were almost 100 per cent above normal."

"Spring north winds caused rapid drying to occur once the winter's rains tapered off," he said.

He urged rural residents to check with their local forestry or fire district officials on burning regulations before attempting any outside burning.

Gambler Favors Nixon's Chances

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, well known sporting odds-maker, has given the morning line on Watergate—with the longest odds against President Nixon being impeached.

Snyder figures impeachment is a 1,000-to-1 shot.

In response to inquiries, Snyder said Wednesday he estimates 200-to-1 odds against Nixon resigning, and 100-to-1 that Nixon will finish his full term.

The odds against former Attorney General John Mitchell being convicted are 5-to-1, Snyder said.

Rezoning Approved By Petaluma Board

Rezoning for a 96-unit town house development next to the Washington Square shopping center in Petaluma has been granted to Quantas Development Corp. by the Petaluma Planning Commission.

The company plans to build condominium units first and then a larger subdivision, including single-family homes.

The rezoning, approved by the commission Tuesday, changed the designation of the property on McDowell Boulevard from planned community district to planned unit development.

Quantas representatives objected to a recommendation that a bicycle path be included in the plans and the commission agreed to let this matter ride until plans for a park, partly on Quantas property and partly outside, are made.

The commission, however, told the developer to construct a pair of two-lane bridges over Washington Creek at McKenzie and McGregor avenues.

In other action, the commission approved site design for a medical center at 1580 East Washington Street and a shop and warehouse addition to Western Motors at 1221 Petaluma Boulevard North.

Ruling By Court Hits Gas Firms

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A utility company cannot shut off service without prior notice, the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled.

In a case involving Columbia Gas Co., the three-judge panel said sudden termination of service is "clearly offensive to even the most elementary notion of what constitutes due process."

The opinion said a utility must personally notify an adult member of the household before shutting off service. If this is impossible, the customer must be notified by registered mail.

Year-Round Plan Voted For Schools

The new year-round school plan will start July 9 at John Reed and Waldo Rohnert schools in Rohnert Park, according to a decision made Tuesday by the Cotati-Rohnert Park School District board.

About 1,600 pupils will be involved, according to Supt. James H. Davidson, who said children will attend school for 45-day periods and then have 15-day vacations.

Staggering of classes so that children attend schools during different weeks will allow fuller use of the crowded schools, he said.

About 1,200 pupils will start July 9 and the others later.

In other business, the school board granted a 10 per cent across-the-board raise to the district's teachers. The superintendent's office did not yet know total cost of the raises.

Permissiveness Has Made Many Traps

LONDON (AP) — Permissiveness and sexual sophistication among children has put many traps in the path of teachers, according to "The Teacher."

The weekly newspaper of Britain's National Union of Teachers advises young teachers to avoid being alone with a child of either sex and warns them to refrain from unnecessary physical contact with pupils.

THE RIGHT KIND OF EXPOSURE

Most photographs are taken in the sun, using the exposure information that comes with the film box. But sometimes that information isn't enough. That's when an exposure meter becomes a necessity.

The simplest type is a reflected light meter. It measures the light reflected off the subject. The built-in light meter of most cameras is of this type. They are very accurate and in general reliable. The other type is the incident light meter, which measures the light falling upon the subject. Extremely accurate, this type is used in motion pictures and TV studios because of its reliability. Both meters are useful and, with proper care, rugged.

The meter most often used in cameras is the CdS meter, a reflected light type that uses a cadmium sulfide sensing device and is powered by mercury batteries. This is the most sensitive type now available and can give readings in darkened rooms. The spot-meter is used to obtain exposure readings from distant subjects and is the most expensive type, owing to its lens system and motor driven dial.

With a quality built-in meter, most cameras give accurate exposure information at the turn or twist of a dial. So the camera does most of the work for you, while you have all the fun. Stop in and we'll gladly show you the variety of automatic cameras you have to select from in every price range. Or see us about the exposure meter you need for your present camera. Whatever it is, we have it!

Water Board Campaign Costs Told

Dr. Martin Griffin Jr., winner of a seat on the Marin Municipal Water District board in the April 17 election, spent $4,723.60 on his campaign, according to his statement filed with Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer.

His outlay exactly matched contributions to his campaign, the statement said.

Ross S. Shade, who finished last in the three-way contest, received no contribution and spent $268.37, according to his statement.

Jerome C. Hauke, second-runner, failed to file the required statement by the deadline Tuesday, Meyer's office said. On April 27, he filed an incomplete statement indicating contributions of $500 from the Marin County Board of Realtors, $100 from the Marin Council for Civic Affairs and $2,000 from himself — but no expenses.

Griffin received 4,205 votes; Hauke 1,370 and Shade 211.

Aqueduct Plan Is Proposed Again

The old idea of importing Russian River water into Marin was dusted off yesterday, as a consulting firm recommended that the Marin Municipal Water District look to that river as a source of supply.

The lengthy report, presented to the district board yesterday, contended that importing water is more economical, practical and less environmentally damaging than using local water sources.

The recommendations came from the San Francisco firm of Cornell, Howland, Hayes and Merryfield, Clair A. Hill and Associates, which has been studying water supply and possible projects for the past several months.

Their report, which will form the basis for a November bond issue for additional supply, cost the district about $35,000. (In November of 1971, district voters rejected another plan to bring Russian River water to Marin — the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct — by a 9-1 margin. The aqueduct project was a much larger one than that now being proposed.)

Yesterday, consultant Daniel Hobe told the board that the most desirable water supply project would be one from the Russian River furnishing the district approximately 16,000 acre-feet annually.

It would be best if the district could share that project with the North Marin and Sonoma County water agencies, but, if this is not possible, the district should proceed on its own to tap the Russian River, according to the consultants.

Marin Municipal can go for a local project, Hobe said, by constructing a dam and reservoir on Walker Creek, in conjunction with the proposed North Marin Intertie. This plan would bring in about 13,000 acre-feet of water a year.

But Hobe said the Walker Creek proposal would result in higher cost per unit of water received. In addition, it would also have significant, and particularly desirable, environmental impact on the Walker Creek area in North Marin and the tidelands around Tomales Bay, into which the creek flows.

Any Walker Creek project will necessitate a reservoir which will inundate part of the creek's canyon and change the waterway's flow characteristics, according to Hobe.

Also, he said, the creek diversion will change the natural balance of the Tomales Bay tidelands and what the effect of such change would be has not been determined.

In recommending a Russian River project, the consultants also mentioned that the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct will be built by the other agencies, whether or not Marin participates, and so costs like water treatment would be eliminated.

In addition, they said the district could more easily build a northern water project in states and that it would take less time to complete than any local project studied.

In conjunction with other water agencies, a Russian River supply project ould cost Marin Municipal $23.3 million, or $134 for each acre foot of water. Without the other agencies, it would cost $27.2 or $147 per acre foot.

The Walker Creek project, on the other hand, could be built for $24.9 million, but since it would bring in less water, the cost per acre-foot would be $153.

The board took no action on the proposal, but agreed to study it further.

Several directors wanted to find some way to insure that the amount of water imported would not exceed the amount necessary to keep growth within limits set by the countywide plan.

They asked their attorney, Tom Thorner, to see if it might be possible to obtain state legislation which would limit the amount of water which the district could bring in each year, even if the project built was capable of providing more water than the amount required by growth limits in the plan.

MacPhail Raps Water District Choice Of New Board Attorney

The appointment of a new attorney for the Marin Municipal Water District drew fire yesterday from one district director who said the man chosen by his fellow board members is not qualified for the post.

John MacPhail Jr. said he had "strong objections" to the board's selection of Tom Thorner to replace Robert W. Elliott as district counsel. (Elliott was ousted May 9 by the board's three-man conservationist majority in a conflict over philosophy).

"He (Thorner) has no experience in the specialized field of water law and no experience in municipal and government law," MacPhail said. "We will be paying Mr. Thorner between $35,000 and $40,000 in the next 12 months, plus substantial fees for defending the district and individual directors against suits recently filed and suits yet to be filed against the district. I think we should be able to get a more experienced counsel for that money."

MacPhail, who voted against Thorner's appointment at a special meeting Monday, also based his objections on the fact the attorney "has been, and possibly still is, a vocal and vehement critic of the district."

In addition, he said Thorner was "one who was responsible" for the resounding defeat of the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct at the polls in November of 1971, "a proposal, which, in modified form, is again before the board." A consulting firm having recommended the district tap the Russian River for additional water.

He charged his fellow directors with appointing a counsel "to implement their own philosophy of controlling growth. Thorner will not, indeed cannot, represent the entire board."

MacPhail said the appointment showed him that "the harmony and unity" which will be necessary to pass a water supply bond issue which the district plans to present to voters in November "is not important to the majority of the directors.

"I am concerned that the major order of business of the district will not be the planning of the community's water supply, but rather an attempt to pioneer in the field of environmental law at considerable risk and expense to the consumers of the district," he added.

Director Ronald T. Stafford, a Thorner supporter, countered by saying that MacPhail's statement indicated little desire for harmony with his fellow directors.

"The board was hardly harmonious when we had an attorney to your liking," he added.

Stafford went on to say he believes Thorner is "extremely competent" and quite capable of representing all board members.

Board nember L. Martin Griffin said he does not feel Thorner needs to be desended. "His past and future actions will reflect his integrity," he said.

AUDIENCE — Tension is mirrored in the faces of those attending Marin Municipal Water District board deliberations on a proposed moratorium on new connections. Construction workers, developers, owners of single lots, declaring a vital stake in the ultimate decision, thronged the district office in Corte Madera, yesterday. Their jobs, their businesses, the homes they hope to own may be lost if the moratorium is adopted, they warned district directors.

Pickets Protest Water Link Ban

rin County (the construction industry) will drop dead in the next 90 days," developer Nathan Jones of Tiburon warned.

Jones claimed the ban will have no significant effect in preventing a water crisis, since it will save only between 500 and 1,000 acre feet of water a year, according to district figures. "We will simply run out of water one or two days later," he said.

James La Force, who will need water for a lot in north San Rafael, was one of many who questioned the board about variance procedures. Most of the inquiries about individual situations and problems were referred to the district staff.

Kevin Miles pointed out the plight of the individual trapped by a moratorium when he told the board it had taken five years of "blood, sweat and tears" to plan for the home he is building in Woodacre. "I don't hate anyone; I just want to know if I can have a water meter," he said plaintively.

Miles was informed he can obtain service — since no pipeline extension will be required — if he applies within the 90-day period and completes construction in a year and a half.

David Greenlee, manager of the Marin Builders Exchange, charged that some members of the district board have created the water shortage themselves, by refusing to give the go-ahead to projects like the North Marin Intertie, which would have alleviated it.

There were also forecasts that about 15,000 jobs in the county would be eliminated by a moratorium. "Who's going to support those families?" one man asked angrily.

"A lot of people are not too concerned about keeping golf courses green and watering lawns when their paychecks are about to disappear," said another.

Some persons, like John Baumann of Corte Madera, said anything with as much impact as the connection ban should be put to a vote, rather than decided by five board members. However, directors did not seem to favor that plan.

Robert Goodwin, a Santa Barbara attorney appointed by the board to draw up the ordinance, said the results of the ban may not be as serious — or as immediate — as some say.

Goodwin, attorney for the Goleta County Water District which enacted a similar moratorium in December, said it had not spelled economic disaster for the Santa Barbara area. "We found there had been no pinch on the construction industry for about six months," he said.

Lion Mauling Suit Settlement Made

DENVER (UPI) — An out-of-court settlement was approved yesterday in a suit filed by the parents of a 4-year-old boy who was mauled by a pet lioness last August.

The $21,500 settlement was okayed by Probate Judge David Brofman in favor of Timmy Digiacomo, who was standing outside a fence when the animal, named Ingrid, jumped a fence despite being bound by a 20-foot chain and attacked him.

James Hoehl, 21, Ingrid's owner, has already pleaded guilty to charges of harboring a wild and dangerous animal and paid a $300 fine — the maximum for the charge.

High Military Court Given Calley Appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's highest court of military law has decided to hear the appeal of 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr.—but only on three of the 30 legal points raised by his defense.

The Court of Military Appeals —composed of three civilian judges—said one of the points it will hear is the defense contention that the tidal wave of pre-trial publicity prevented a fair trial.

But the court barred further consideration of one major defense point—that "command influence" had prejudiced the court-martial.

The defense contended that numerous high officials, including President Nixon and then Army Chief of Staff Gen. William C. Westmoreland, pursued a policy of punishing Calley "in order to cleanse the Army of any guilt."

Calley, 29, was convicted two years ago of murdering at least 22 Vietnamese civilians in the village of My Lai. He was sentenced to life but that sentence was later reduced to 20 years. He is under house arrest at Fort Benning, Ga.

Terra Linda Library Branch Has Support

Two dozen Terra Linda residents attending a San Rafael Library Board meeting last night, expressed almost unanimous endorsement of locating a branch of the city library in their community.

The board met at the Terra Linda Recreation Center to sound out neighborhood opinion regarding such a branch.

Andrew James Ring III, library architect, explained the branch facility would be about 7,000 square feet in size — roughly two-thirds the size of the present San Rafael Library. Its construction, if undertaken, would be in connection with expansion of the main library.

One Terra Linda group, the Santa Margarita Home Owners Association, already has gone on record in favor of a branch library through vote of its board of directors, the board was told. Bruce Leeb, president of Mont Marin Homeowners Association, reported the board of that group "felt the idea worth exploring" but had taken no stand.

Only opposition to the proposal was voiced by Helene Guinther, who questioned whether San Rafael should go into a branch library system and suggested that, if it did, there would be demand for other branches in such areas as Peacock Gap and the canal district.

"I would rather see the money spent, not on buildings but on books," she said.

At the request of board chairman James H. Mayer for a show of hands, all but four in the audience indicated they are in favor of a Terra Linda branch library.

There was less agreement as to location. Two proposed sites on city-owned property — at the recreation center and at Oleander Park — both drew some objections.

A new site possibility, on unused Catholic church property adjoining St. Isabella's Church, was put forward by two members of the audience. Mayer said he would ask the city to investigate its availability.

Next board meeting will be May 31 at 7:45 p.m. in the library, to review bids for earthquake-proofing of the structure.

John Schmitz Returns To GOP

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — John Schmitz, presidential candidate of the American Independent Party in 1972, returned to the Republican party this week, saying it needs new leadership following Watergate.

Schmitz was once a Republican congressman, representing the district that includes the Western White House, but lost a try for renomination in a primary fight. He said President Nixon backed his opponent because Schultz opposed Nixon's foreign policy. He became AIP candidate and drew about one million votes in the presidential election.

Now a history professor at Santa Ana College, Schmitz said he came back to the GOP because, "President Nixon and the entire country need men in the Republican Party whose integrity is unquestioned and who are still devoted to what it once stood for."

Actress Killed In Auto Accident

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI) — Jannine La Lanne, a summer stock actress and daughter of television personality Jack La Lanne, was killed last night when her car overturned on a highway about seven miles east of here.

Three other persons, all members of the same troupe, were injured in the accident.

Miss La Lanne, 21, who was to have appeared in summer stock performances at the Barn Theater in nearby Augusta this summer, died at Borgess Hospital.

GOVERNOR'S PROMISE

Politicians generally kiss babies during campaigns but Gov. Ronald Reagan was not in that role yesterday as he posed for a picture taking session with Natalie Randolph Natasha Collier, infant daughter of Sen. Randolph Collier, 70, and his wife, Barbara, 34. Collier said he had received a promise from Reagan several weeks ago to have the baby's photograph taken with the governor just as his son's picture was made with former Gov. James (Sunny Jim) Rolph in 1931.

Senate Approves Remapping Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Prodded by the State Supreme Court and what one angry senator called "the whip of selfishness," the legislature has taken a giant step toward resolving the politically sensitive issue of reapportionment that has dogged it for nearly three years.

The Senate yesterday passed a bipartisan "last chance" redistricting bill supported by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

It creates a flying bat-shaped "Chicano" district in Southern California and abolishes the northern district of Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton. It is designed to protect every incumbent senator planning to seek re-election next year and preserve the current 20-20 Republican-Democrat split.

The redistricting would leave Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, with both Marin and Napa counties. He would lose part of Solano, however, instead picking up Pinole, Hercules, Rodeo, Port Costa and Crockett in Contra Costa County. The change for Behr in Solano County would mean a loss of a small area north of Dixon and east of Travis Air Force Base.

The bill (SB195) went to the Assembly on a 25-13 vote.

Behr is one of 15 Republicans who voted for the bill.

Just last Thursday, the Assembly passed a bill reapportioning its districts. That plan protects most incumbents and realigns the house with 47 Democrats and 33 Republicans. The lineup now is 48-27 with five vacancies.

The next step is for each house to approve the other's redistricting plan. Although some opposition is expected, each house traditionally has permitted the other to reapportion itself.

The two plans then would go to Reagan, who has promised to sign the Senate bill but is critical of the Assembly's. That could set up a veto override attempt.

The legislature legally was supposed to have reapportioned itself in 1971, based on the 1970 census. But Reagan vetoed the redistricting bills, charging Democratic gerrymander. And the State Supreme Court upheld him. The court gave the legislature until the end of 1972 to write new plans, but the lawmakers failed. Now they are striving to devise plans acceptable to the court.

"If we don't take this bill all the way through (the legislature) it will be our last chance for a meaningful reapportionment," the senators were told by Republican caucus chairman John L. Harmer of Glendale. He is co-author of the plan with Sen. George N. Zenovich, D-Fresno.

Short, who plans to retire, vehemently protested the abolishment of his San Joaquin County district.

He told his colleagues a "whip" had been used to push the bill "and the whip is selfishness."

"They've given enough of these legislators what they want in their districts to get the bill," said Short, apparently speaking to the gallery. Turning to Harmer, he added: "You've lined up enough votes on the basis of pure selfishness to get this bill passed. But I'm sure as hell going to vote no."

The "Chicano" district would stretch 70 miles from East Los Angeles to the city of San Bernardino. Its population would be 42.2 per cent Mexican-American.

Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, complained this was not a "true Chicano district" because it wandered through two counties with different "political climates."

Dymally, the Senate's only black, also charged that his Watts district had been made a "dumping ground" for area Negroes, thus handicapping blacks who might want to run for the Senate.

Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, objected to his newly carved district. It resembles a sphinx squatting across the San Joaquin Valley with doubled-under legs hooking over the coastal mountains and through Santa Maria and the University of California at Santa Barbara.

The district of Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, would crown California like a horseshoe, with the west end extending from the Oregon border along the coast past Sonoma, and the east end dipping through Hallelujah Junction just north of Reno.

Collier's district would contain the smallest population, 453,000, a difference of 16 per cent from the largest, 533,000, represented by Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach.

Sens. George Moscone, a Democrat, and Milton Marks, a Republican, would represent the same at-large district in San Francisco and a portion of San Mateo County.

The bill was supported by 15 Republicans and 10 Democrats. It was opposed by four Republicans and nine Democrats.

Assembly Pushes For Passage Of Budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Democrats today pressed for swift passage of the largest state budget in the nation—a $9.4 billion proposal representing $460 for every man, woman and child in California.

The 1973-74 budget —$143 million more than Gov. Ronald Reagan originally requested — was expected to clear the Assembly with little difficulty, capping one of the chamber's most peaceful years of budget negotiations in recent history.

One of the few disputes erupted yesterday when Assemblyman William T. Bagley, the chief GOP budget expert, criticized Democrats for "fiscal flimflam" when they stripped federal revenue sharing from the budget. The San Rafael Republican charged the move was designed to hold the federal funds as "ransom" for an undisclosed future legislative deal.

Democratic Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., Ways and Means Committee chairman, said he would "rip into" Republicans if they tried to stop the budget bill (AB110). He contended the legislature should consider federal revenue sharing money in a separate bill.

The Assembly version of the budget is 22 per cent higher than the current $7.7 billion budget. It contains big pay raises for state employes, an extra $530 million in property tax relief and money for a new governor's mansion.

The Senate, meantime, is expected to vote on its version in about two weeks. The final budget will be ironed out privately in a two-house conference committee and then sent to the governor.

Senate Passes Bill To Delay Increase In Taxes

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill delaying for 30 days the scheduled June 1 state sales tax increase has been voted final passage by the Senate and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure (AB137) by Assemblyman Joe A. Gonsalves, D-La Mirada, was aimed at giving Reagan and the legislature until July 1 to attempt to resolve differences over proposals for a long-term postponement.

After a brief floor debate yesterday, the Assembly-approved bill was passed on a 29-5 vote. Reagan was expected to sign the measure swiftly with the planned boost now only eight days away.

"This bill doesn't cost the state any money," argued Sen. Raph Dills, D-Gardena. "We simply won't extract the $50 million in sales tax from the people. Let's delay this tax until we get our fiscal house in order."

The increase, from five to six cents on the dollar, was voted late last year to help finance the state's new property tax relief and school aid program.

But an unforeseen budget surplus, projected at $852 million, has since emerged, triggering calls for a delay in the sales tax increase.

Reagan has passed a Democratic-sponsored rival to postpone it until July 1 of next year.

The five "no" votes on Gonsalves' interim measure were cast by Democratic Sens. Anthony Beilenson of Beverly Hills, Mervyn Dymally of Los Angeles, George Moscone of San Francisco, Nicholas Petris of Oakland and Albert S. Rodda of Sacramento.

Details Lacking In Sinking Of Cruiser

A Coast Guard spokesman said today that details still were lacking in the sinking Sunday of a 41-foot cabin cruiser off the Golden Gate. Its two crewmen were rescued the next day from a life raft.

The Coast Guard said the vessel was a new one, as yet unnamed. It was being taken from a boatyard in Vancouver, B.C., to Newport Beach for sale. It was not a Grand Banks trawler-style craft as earlier reported. Neither of the crewmen was a Bay Area resident.

Skylab Crew Launch Set Tomorrow

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The three Skylab 1 astronauts have a go for launch tomorrow morning to intercept their damaged space station in orbit and attempt to shade it from the baking heat of the sun.

Project officials said Skylab may have ripped metal, wires and rods hanging from its golden skin, but they expressed confidence the pilots could mend the station without undue risk and stay aloft for a record 28 days.

Ground crewmen worked quickly today to load three different types of sunshades and debris clearing tools aboard the modified Apollo spaceship the astronauts will ride to the historic meeting with Skylab 271 miles high.

The countdown rolled along smoothly and space veteran Charles "Pete" Conrad and his two rookie crewmen, space doctor Joseph P. Kerwin and aeronautical engineer Paul J. Weitz, were ready. The weather forecast was good.

The leaders of the emergency Skylab salvage effort reviewed all aspects of preparations at a meeting that ended late Wednesday night in Huntsville, Ala. NASA said the officials confirmed Friday's 9 a.m. EDT launch time.

The orbiting Skylab, they concluded, was completely stripped of its aluminum sun-meteoroid shield shortly after launch May 14 with only debris left in its place.

Engineers also believe one of Skylab's two main electric power generating wings was lost as the ship rocketed through the still-thick atmosphere 63 seconds after liftoff. The other power wing is believed to have started to unfold before being jammed by debris. Skylab's electricity is now coming from four smaller panels that convert sunlight into power.

The astronauts were given the okay to try to clear away the debris and attempt to nudge the remaining wing open. They would do this by reaching from the open Apollo hatch with a long pole.

Project director William C. Schneider said there was "a relatively low probability" the stuck wing could be freed.

The loss of half its power generating capability is serious, but Skylab's most critical problem is overheating from the sun. The interior of Skylab is like an oven and must be cooled to be habitable.

One of the three sun shades is expected to solve the problem and lower interior temperatures from the mid 120s to the 70s.

Electrical Brownouts Said Coming In State

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Electrical brownouts will strike California cities within five years unless the state acts soon to resolve a growing energy crisis, two assemblymen warned in proposing legislation to create a powerful new state commission.

The commission would have sweeping authority to ration electricity in emergencies, regulate household appliances to make sure they are efficient, and approve power plant locations.

The ambitious legislative package was unveiled yesterday by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti of Van Nuys, a contender for the 1974 Democratic gubernatorial nomination; and Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, who headed up a lengthy investigation of the electrical "energy crisis" in California.

Warren, who sides with environmentalists on most issues, said his committee found that to satisfy accelerating energy demands California must double its electrical resources every decade.

Unless something is done soon, Warren told a news conference, "we will start experiencing brownouts or blackouts in the next four to six years. They will not be isolated incidences and they conceivably could occur for a period of years."

Moretti said that "unlike other energy problems—such as the alleged oil shortage, which involves the federal government, oil imports, international companies and foreign governments—our electrical energy problem and its solution can be dealt with within the borders of California."

Under the act, a five-member State Energy Resources Conservation Commission, appointed by the governor, would have power to:

—Determine how much electrical energy California needs.

—Eliminate "wasteful, inefficient, unnecessary or uneconomical uses of electrical energy." This could be done by pricing, limiting electrical advertisements, improving home designs and making appliances more efficient.

—Certify power plant locations. Except for coastal zone commissions, the energy commission would have sole state authority over power plant sites.

—Conduct research and development of energy sources, particularly geothermal and solar.

—Ration electricity during brownout emergencies.

—Impose a tax on energy to pay for the project.

Warren said California in the future must rely "heavily" on geothermal energy — underground steam.

He also said because safeguards have not been perfected, "it appears foolhardy" to believe the electrical energy crisis can be resolved by building enough nuclear reactors.

And he said "traditional" means of producing electricity won't work because "there are few remaining dam sites, and environmentally acceptable fossil fuels, such as natural gas and low sulphur oil, will either not be available or in short supply."

Crash Victims Still Confined To Hospital

Three Stinson Beach residents, one of them a baby, who were injured last Tuesday in an accident in Sonoma County remained under treatment today in Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital.

Suzanne M. Bayer, 26, was reported in poor condition; Darius DeBelgodere, 1, was in satisfactory condition and his father, Bernard DeBelgodere, 30, was in satisfactory condition.

According to the California Highway Patrol, the westbound Bayer car and an eastbound car driven by Harvey G. Miller of Santa Rosa collided on Highway 12 west of Shaw Avenue in Kenwood.

Piano Workshop Performance Set

A group of students of Amelia Faustini, instructor emeritus at Dominican College in San Rafael, will perform in a piano workshop at 7:30 p.m. today in Angelico Hall on the Dominican campus.

Phases of piano study will be performed from the second grade to the college graduate level. A reception with refreshments will follow the workshop, according to Mrs. Faustini. The event is free and open to the public.

Sonoma State Will Concentrate On Depression Era During Fall

The fall semester at Sonoma State College will be called the "Thirties Semester" in a pilot project aimed at stimulating student interest in the recent past and broadening their outlook on education.

Its promoters hope also that the emphasis on the 1930s will lead to improved relations with neighboring towns, where many remember well the great depression.

In a news conference yesterday, the cochairmen for the project; a new endeavor for Sonoma State but one which has been done at other colleges, described the reasons behind the semester theme.

Professors William Lee of the English department and Daniel Markwyn of the history department said that the 1930s had been chosen for special emphasis because "it was an exciting decade" and because of similarities to the present era.

Lee said that despite the difference between the economic conditions of the present and the 1930s, both eras have been noted for radical movements and protests.

Professor Markwyn said many students, although they "have heard much about the depression from their parents, have not even heard of the Spanish Civil War" and other events of the decade.

The pilot project will feature some 15 courses, not all of them new, including studies of the literature, history, politics, music and sociology of the period.

In addition to credit classes, art and photography exhibits, concerts, speakers and film presentations from the 1930s are planned.

Lee and Markwyn said they hope students will realize that these various aspects of the culture arose from the same background and come to appreciate the "validity of connected knowledge."

Lee said he had seen a similar program work successfully at the University of Connecticut.

College publicist Carl Campbell said announcement of the 1930s theme was received enthusiastically recently at a meeting of the Rohnert Park Chamber of Commerce, where members began to reminisce about their own experiences.

Tanker Driver Gets A Fill-Up

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — The driver of a 7,000-gallon gas tanker pulled into a cut-rate service station and said, "Fill 'er up."

"A customer's a customer," shrugged the gas station owner, Robert E. Majka. "He happened to be a customer."

He had adjusted his prices from 41.9 cents and 37.9 cents per gallon to 37.9 and 33.9 cents for high-test and regular-grade gas. He advertised the rates with a sign in front of his Atlantic Richfield station that said, "Gas sale. Lowest prices anywhere."

House Fails In Attempt To Override Nixon Veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the third time this year President Nixon has made his veto stick with Congress without it being overriden.

House proponents of a bill to make the present director of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), Roy Ash, and deputy director Frederic Malek subject to Senate confirmation failed by 40 votes Tuesday to muster the two-thirds needed to override Nixon's veto of the Bill.

But they said they may start all over again with a revised bill which would apply only to future holders of the two offices, not Ash and Malek.

The vote was 236 to 178. A day earlier the Senate voted 62 to 22 to override the veto, but this now doesn't count.

Congressmen from both parties have been generally unified in their criticism of OMB for impounding funds appropriated by Congress and killing or cutting back their programs.

During House debate, Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., leader of the override effort, turned to his Republican colleagues accross the aisle and said that the bill were "prospective rather than retroactive, I wonder if you gentlemen would support it."

Several Republicans nodded or said yes and several said outright during the debate that they would.

Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, told Holifield, "Then I hope you come right back with such a bill because at the rate of resignations in this town lately, we may have a crack at the Budget Bureau."

Holifield gave no indication whether he would, but the Senate Government Operations Committee revealed after the veto was sustained that Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., its chairman, had been prepared to do just that.

Rep. Alan Steelman, R-Tex., who lost an effort, 263-130, to amend the original House bill to remove the retroactive feature, noted that he had received the support of 124 Republicans for such an amendment.

If he can be assured Holifield's House Government Operations Committee, will act on the issue again, he would introduce a prospective bill quickly, Steelman said.

Trustees Hit Budget With Cuts

Reed School District trustees last night tentatively approved reducing next year's proposed $3,147,000 budget by about $11,000, then asked for a list of suggested additions to the spending program.

Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello said he was instructed to draw up a priority list for items which would add about $40,000 to the budget.

These items, including heating, drainage and maintenance work, will be studied further by trustees when their priority is established, said Giovanniello.

He also said he reminded trustees that the proposed budget makes no provision for increasing salaries beyond normal step increases, and asked the board to consider this a high priority item.

Giovanniello said trustees seemed agreeable to adding the post of instructional coordinator to the budget at an estimated cost of $17,000 to $20,000, if hiring such a person does not bring the number of teachers above 106, a limit previously set by the board.

The coordinator, if hired, would be in charge of administering special programs in math, reading and language arts. Giovanniello said money for consultants in those projects, budgeted at $12,000 this year, could be eliminated if a coordinator is hired.

The $11,000 in budget reductions consisted of several items, including $2,800 for textbooks and supplies, $3,000 in anticipated vandalism and numerous other small subtractions, said the superintendent.

The board agreed to hold special meetings Tuesday and June 12 on the budget and other subjects and held a closed session to interview one applicant for principal at the Reed complex of schools — Reed, Belvedere and Tiburon — but made no decision, said Giovanniello.

Size Increases Balding Chances

LONDON (AP) — Tall men tend to lose their hair sooner than shorties, and if they're chubby as well the chances of baldness increase.

That's the finding of Mrs. Betty Roney, who runs a London hair clinic. She believes that the bigger you are the greater the task of your blood supply to give nourishment to the roots of your hair.

College Board Takes First Look At Budget

The Marin Community College District board last night began work on a draft of a preliminary fiscal 1973-74 budget of $11,073,386 — about $750,000 higher than this year's total of $10,365,809.

District business manager Norman D. Bird said the total is a "very rough estimate" and the capital outlay section isn't yet complete.

This year's total required a tax rate of $1.065 per $100 assessed valuation, but Bird said he hasn't computed a tax rate on the 1973-74 total because it will undoubtedly be changed as the board goes through budget sessions.

The $11 million total includes all salary requests from district employees, said Bird, which is a district practice in preliminary budgets.

The faculty has asked for a 13 per cent raise, the classified employees for 10 per cent, and administrators for 8 per cent. If granted in full the raises would add $700,000 to this year's salary costs.

Bird said the board — with trustee Robert E. Oliver absent through illness — reviewed the draft budget and set another budget workshop session for 8 p.m. Thursday in room 101 of the office center. That session, which will be followed by discussion of district reorganization, will be preceded by a closed session at 7 o'clock, when the subject will be San Rafael redevelopment.

In other action the board awarded a contract for fencing the Indian Valley Colleges construction site to the Alcorn Fence Company of Hayward, low bidder of three at $10,432.

Pentagon Cuts Enlisted Aides

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After congressional criticism of the practice of using enlisted men as servants to generals and admirals, the Pentagon has decided to reduce the number of GI dog-walkers, baby-sitters and lawn tenders by 28 per cent.

Elliot L. Richardson, in one of his last acts as defense secretary, and on the day of his Senate confirmation to be attorney general, announced there will be 1,245 such enlisted aides to officers instead of the present 1,722.

No one explained why that particular number was picked. Sen. William D. Proxmire, D-Wis.' has been complaining about the use of enlisted men for such duties at a cost estimated at $21.3 million yearly.

Girl Attacked

A 15-year-old Terra Linda High School girl reported to police that as she was leaving the school and walking across the football field about 10 p.m. yesterday, a man, about 18-years old, grabbed her. She screamed and ran and he fled, according to police reports.

Condition Reported Following Accident

Thomas Lee, 23, of San Francisco, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital with a dislocated left hip and cuts and scrapes suffered Sunday in a motorcycle accident on Shoreline Highway near the Green Gulch Ranch in Southern Marin.

The California Highway Patrol said Lee was northbound at 8:05 a.m. when he rounded a curve in the left lane and his motorcycle collided head-on with a pickup truck driven by Amadeo Banducci Jr., 38, of the Banducci Ranch, Muir Beach.

FORTIES FROLIC FOR COLLEGE OF MARIN

In a rousing climax to their 1940s style tap dancing revue, College of Marin students raise their arms in the traditional "it's great to be alive" finale. The young dancers delighted an audience of hundreds in the student center this week in part of the college's annual Spring-It festival. They're enrolled in Bea Blum's experimental studies program tap dancing class — a course that's been a runaway success this semester, attracting dozens of boys and girls who yearn for the uncomplicated America of 1940s movies.

Sewage Ponding Area Still Is Being Sought

A survey by Cooper-Clark Co., soils engineers, disclosed that the original site has "potential instability," according to James D. Fritz, chief engineer for the district.

Directors agreed Tuesday night to investigate another site in the same area, Fritz reported.

Occupancy of Coast Guard housing at Point Reyes Station by families has been delayed, pending installation of a sewage system, Fritz said.

Bachelor quarters are occupied and sewage from the quarters is now being hauled out daily in a tank to the Novato treatment plant, Fritz said.

He estimated the site change could delay progress on a sewage system up to four weeks.

The North Marin County Water District Also:

WATER USAGE — Heard a report that water usage last month was 15.5 per cent higher than in April, 1972, partly because of more consumers and partly because of dry weather.

PLANNING — Requested that Novato planning doesn't include extending Vineyard Road through the Stafford Lake area, and advised that development of the Rebello land southeast of the lake would threaten the water supply, if development drained into the reservoir.

PIPELINE — Awarded Ameron Pipe Products Group, a low bidder, to install 1,000 feet of 24-inch steel pipe at Crossroads Unit II, at Highway 101 and South Novato Boulevard, at a cost of $13,750.

NEW JOB — Authorized the hiring of an additional draftsman for the engineering department at a salary range of $710 to $850 a month.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to 8 p.m. June 5 at the district office in Novato.

Confidence Man Cannot Marry

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Confidence man David Te Huia has been forbidden to marry for three years under terms of probation imposed by a magistrate here.

Te Huia admitted three charges of theft totaling $6,993 from a 70-year-old widow. He told her he would invest her savings at a higher rate of interest than paid by her bank.

Stipendiary magistrade John H. Murray imposed fines of $360 and forbade Te Huia marrying or having responsibility for the maintenance or support of any women or children while on probation.

Divorce Filed By Wife Of POW

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — The wife of an Air Force officer held prisoner by the North Vietnamese for 5 ½ years filed suit Tuesday to end their 18-year marriage.

Lt. Col. Robert L. Stirm, 41, a fighter bomber pilot, was shot down over Hanoi Oct. 27, 1967, and was freed March 13. He is now at the Travis Air Force Base medical center.

Mrs. Loretta Stirm's suit to dissolve the marriage asked custody of the couple's four children: Lorrie, 15, Robert Jr., 14, Roger, 12, and Cynthia, 11.

Philippine Diplomat Is Refused Asylum

SEN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service Tuesday refused to grant political asylum to Philippine diplomat Ruperto Baliao, who has accused President Ferdinand Marcos of being "a new Hitler."

The service said it would be simpler for Baliao, former acting consul general of the Philippines in Los Angeles, to merely apply for resident alien status.

New Deadline For Updated Plans Possible

The Larkspur Planning Commission has been advised by City Attorney Joseph Forrest that pending state legislation might extend the July 1 deadline for cities to update their general plans and component elements.

City planning director John Roberto said the attorney also advised commissioners on methods of open space planning at their meeting Tuesday.

The commission told staff to give a draft slope policy to Forrest for his comments, said Roberto. The policy, subject of a public hearing at a date to be announced in June, will apply to all Larkspur property having a slope of more than 10 per cent, except land zoned for planned development.

In other action the commission approved a variance for Anthony Compagno to construct a swimming pool in his front garden at 65 Orange Avenue surrounded by a six feet high fence, because his home is backed by a cliff.

Premium Prices Given For Lambs

The higher price was paid through the Grand National Foundation, aimed at encouraging young people to go into the livestock business.

Police Action Ends Long Run Of 'Deep Throat' In Petaluma

"Deep Throat," the X-rated movie already banned in San Jose, abruptly ended a 24-week run in Petaluma last night when authorities somewhat belatedly seized the film.

Police, armed with a search warrant signed by Judge Alexander J. McMahon of Southern Sonoma Municipal Court, went to the State theater in the downtown section of Petaluma at about 5:45 p.m.

Sgt. William Reed, whose earlier viewing of the movie had led to the search warrant, said the theater operator, Alan Finley, turned over the film after looking at the warrant.

Another X-rated movie, "Behind the Green Door," went up on the marquee and presumably was shown last night.

"Throat," ensconced today in the police department's evidence locker, was due to be shown soon to Judge McMahon, who is to decide whether it is pornographic under the law.

If he says it is, the district attorney's office will file criminal charges, a spokesman said.

Petaluma, whose reputation has never included being a center for erotic entertainment, has come increasingly annoyed at the type of movies being shown both at the State and at local drive-in theaters.

The city council earlier this week introduced an ordinance which would ban films showing "explicit sex" at outdoor theaters.

The action against the State theater followed discussions with the district attorney's office over what could be done to get rid of "Throat."

Sergeant Reed's affidavit describing the movie, and which led to the search warrant, was an "exhaustive" description of scenes in the film, Judge McMahon said today. He added he does not yet know when he will hold his "private screening."

In the meantime, several residents commented today to the Independent-Journal, that everyone in town had a chance to see it first, any way.

Standard Drops Trading Stamps

Standard Oil Co. of California announced Wednesday it has withdrawn stamps from its 268 company - owned stations in California because they were no longer needed for sales promotion.

"We felt it was a bad position to be taking promotion steps to increase gasoline sales at a time when we have a shortage," said a company spokesman.

Lawsuit Asks End To 'War'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two antiwar congressmen filed federal suits yesterday asking the courts to declare U.S. military activities in Cambodia unconstitutional and to order their halt.

Reps. Ron V. Dellums and Fortney Stark Jr., both Democrats from the east side of San Francisco Bay, brought the nearly identical suits against the Secretaries of Defense, Air Force and Navy.

They asked the U.S. District Court to issue injunctions prohibiting the Pentagon from continuing "bombing of Cambodia or otherwise engaging in warfare in Cambodia."

Stark's suit said the Cambodian bombing constituted "war" under terms of the U.S. Constitution.

Nicasio Teacher -Trustee Retires

MARIE ROGERS
Retiring trustee

By PAUL LIBERATORE

She was the district's only teacher for 38 students in kindergarten through eighth grade.

The assignment was a step up for her in responsibility. Before that, from 1925 to 1928, after graduation from Dominican College, she was the sole teacher at Dixie School in San Rafael, with an enrollment of 11.

After two and one half years at Nicasio School, she worked at West End School in San Rafael for six months before marrying dairyman George Rogers, now the honorary mayor of Nicasio.

She left teaching to settle down on Rogers' 871-acre farm in Nicasio and to raise three daughters, all of whom became teachers.

Appointed to the school board in 1952, Mrs. Rogers, a youthful-looking 70, will retire June 30 after 21 years as a district trustee. Nicasio residents, present and former board members, teachers and friends gathered last night at Rancho Nicasio for a retirement dinner in her honor.

During her years in education, Mrs. Rogers has seen the district change and grow, but not much.

Although the picture postcard schoolhouse still stands, classes have been moved to a larger, more modern school down the road. There are now about 50 students and three teachers, one of whom also serves as principal.

"Because of my background in teaching, I have always been interested in seeing that the district hired good teachers," Mrs. Rogers said yesterday. "Most of the time we were successful, but sometimes we weren't."

She recalled the controversy that swirled in the district in 1967, when the then teacher-principal Garnet E. Brennan disclosed in an affidavit to a San Francisco court that she had been smoking marijuana daily since 1949.

Mrs. Brennan was fired by the board and the incident grabbed headlines nationally, putting tiny Nicasio School District on the map.

"The decision to fire her wasn't difficult at all," Mrs. Rogers remembered. "It wasn't a question of whether pot was harmful or not. Teachers are supposed to set an example for their students and uphold the law."

Reflecting on her more than two decades on the board, Mrs. Rogers pointed proudly to the lack of dissension between trustees and to the quality of the school program.

"We have an excellent school now," she said. "We are in a unique situation. We have all the advantages of a large school, but without the problems."

Growth, however, will be one facet of education with which future board members will have to contend, she said.

"This year there is a decline in enrollment, but in the next year or two new people will be moving into the valley and the school population will increase."

After her final term, Mrs. Rogers plans to "still be a part of the community," and although she doesn't plan to be active in school activities, "I will always be interested in what's going on."

Course In Study Skills Scheduled

A course on how to study in college will be held from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. June 18 through 21 in Olney Hall at College of Marin, according to Sheryl Barnard, program director of the Marin YMCA.

The course, limited to high school graduates, will be taught by Professor Robert F. Schwartz of Purdue University, who has been teaching classes in college study skills for 18 years.

Reservations for the class may be made by contacting the Marin YMCA office in San Rafael.

Agenda Released By School Board

The San Anselmo School District board will consider a timetable for reassignment of children enrolled at Isabel Cook School when it meets at 7:30 p.m. today in Red Hill School.

The board has decided to phase out the school because of sagging enrollment in the district.

The board will meet in closed session to discuss salary proposals by employees, consider a school calendar for 1973-74, and consider appointing a committee to study a proposal for a 12-month school year.

June 29 Set For Start Of Second Magee Trial

SAN JOSE (UPI) — A trial date of June 29 was set Wednesday for San Quentin convict Ruchell Magee, 34, accused of kidnaping a judge during an escape attempt that left four persons dead.

Superior Court Judge John T. Racanelli set the trial date and ruled that pretrial motions will be heard June 6.

Magee is to be retired on a single charge of kidnap arising from the gunbattle in the Marin County Civic Center in August, 1970, Superior Judge Harold J. Haley and three escaping convicts were killed.

Magee was originally charged with conspiracy, murder and kidnap, along with black militant Angela Davis, who police said furnished guns used in the escape attempt.

His first trial on the charges ended in a hung jury. The second trial was moved here from San Francisco on a change of venue. Previously, the trial had been moved from Marin County to San Francisco.

The second trial is in the Santa Clara County Criminal Legal Building, in the same courtroom Miss Davis was acquitted nearly one year ago.

AMANDA SHEINER, 5, wears a rat for a hat at Marin Terrace School in Mill Valley to demonstrate his gentleness to Mrs. James Krill of Belvedere, Bay Area chairman of animal donations for KQED's auction, June 1 - 10, in which the kindergarten's rat pack will be sold on television.

School's Rats Benefit Auction

By PAT BALMES

"We were running out of kids and teachers to give rats to when we heard about the KQED auction," said kindergarten teacher Barbara Phelps at Marin Terrace School in Mill Valley.

The kindergarten's growing rat pack, offspring of mates which produce four litters a year, is part of its sex education program, the teacher mentioned.

No ordinary run-of-the-garbage-can rats, these little squeakers are child-proofed; they have been handled since birth by the busy, noisy students.

Usually some child has a rat sitting on his shoulder, said Miss Phelps who added that sometimes parents are a little shocked to see it when they come for teacher conferences.

The teacher has arranged with the KQED auction animal chairman, Mrs. James Krill of Belvedere, for a student to show the rats on camera at the Cow Palace during the auction from June 1 through 10 to benefit the public television station.

Lucie Krill will schedule animals to be auctioned on camera between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. and plans an animal afternoon on Saturday, June 9 so purchasers can come to the Cow Palace to meet the seller and discuss the animal's nature.

Purchasers come from as far south as Carmel and north as Petaluma. One man drove up from Carmel last year to get a Balinese kitten, she said.

The animal chairman or a member of her committee must be at the auction each night to ensure that the animals are under control and well taken care of.

"We had a parakeet loose in the Cow Palace last year. We do not want to lose what belongs to somebody else, so we request that the donor remain with his pet until it is sold and its papers are transferred," she said, adding that dogs and cats must be pedigreed.

A newcomer last year from Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. Krill volunteered at KQED "not for secretarial work but for an involved job with the auction. I certainly got it; they made me animal chairman," said the widowed mother of five children.

"It was a lot of really fun hours in a short period. My children enjoyed working with me at the Cow Palace, watering and taking care of animals and even putting them on camera," said Lucie Krill.

She liked the personal contact with both parties in the transaction.

"Kathy and Bing Crosby's butler brought their Labrador puppy to the auction a couple of years ago," she mentioned.

The auction's soliciting committee gathers most of the promises of animals while Mrs. Krill solicits the "big accounts," such as the Fireman's Fund, which donated a Dalmatian last year.

The first Charter Bank of London donated an English bulldog's price and put the problem of finding one into her hands, Mrs. Krill said.

More than 100 animals were auctioned last year including pigeons, ewes, ducks, goats, sheep, parakeets, parrots, fish, a seven-foot long boa constrictor and a hen that laid green eggs, she said.

"Call KQED auction office in San Francisco to donate an animal," advised Mrs. Krill.

Risk Way Of Life For Nocks

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The family that dares together stays together, if the Pio Nock family is any criterion.

The Nocks represent three generations of aerialists currently performing in the circus and with a heritage of eight generations under the big top.

"It's good that as a family we always work together," said Pio Nock Jr. "We watch out for each other. We make sure we do not have to depend on other people for our safety."

Something did go wrong, though, during one of the six acts the Nocks are putting on with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus in Madison Square Garden.

During the senior Nock's high wire ride on a bicycle in late March, a mechanism that held the wire taut gave and tumbled him 19 feet into the cage of lions beneath.

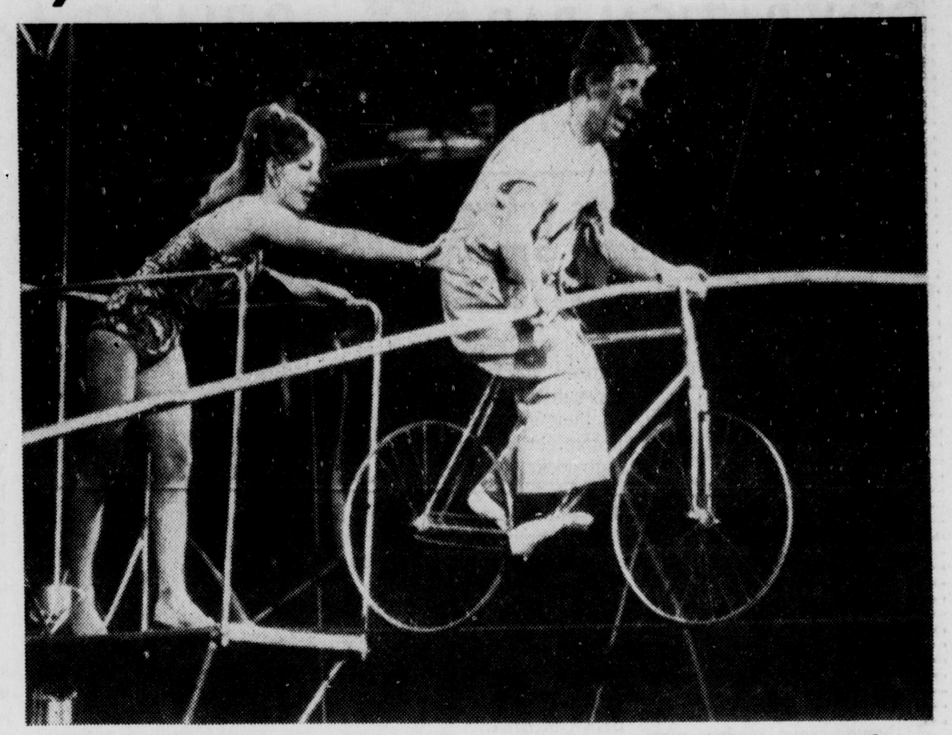
"I'D WORKED with the cats before when I got the idea for the act," he said in an interview. "The trainer (Wolfgang Holzmair) had told me, 'If there's ever a spill, remember to get to your feet at once."

The 52-year-old performer got safely out of the cage, but went to the hospital for several weeks for assorted injuries from the spill. Now back, and again performing above the cage, he says of the accident, "I get an occasional crick in my neck."

The accident reinforced the superstition of three-in-a-row that circus people—and many others—hold. "That morning, making coffee, I spilled some and got a severe leg burn," said his daughter Isabella Nock Cort.

"Then another performer fell from a teeterboard. We were all nervous . . . we knew a third accident was going to occur."

The Nocks originate in Switzerland where an uncle still runs a circus bearing the family name. Pio, Jr., said the family can trace itself to the early 1800s at least.



PIO NOCK, high wire clown, is the patriarch of a family of circus performers, which traces itself back eight generations. Three generations of aerialists currently perform with the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

(UPI Telephoto)

THE CURRENT group consists of the patriarch; son Pio, Jr., married to Hungarian-born Katy; son Tony; daughter Isabella, married to Mario Cort. The matriarch retired a few years ago from the high wires and now does all the family's costuming.

There are two children— Sascha Cort, six, already wearing a mini clown costume and learning to walk the wires with grandpa; and Alexandria Nock, 10-month-old daughter of Pio, Jr.

Talking with the Nock family backstage is a little like trying to listen to everyone at once in several languages including fluent English. The adults speak "six or seven" languages and the infant understands three already—English, Hungarian and German.

The schedule of a circus performer is a strenuous one— two performances every day except Saturday when there are three. There's time, however, between shows for daily chores like shopping. Otherwise the only "free" time is travel time to another engagement.

Ringling Bros. opened in Venice, Fla., Jan. 5, and will fold the tents Dec. 2, after performing across the country, East and West, North and South.

They travel in three trailers, one to a family, and the accommodations sound as comfortable as any in a house.

"An 80-gallon water tank for my shower," said Nock, Sr. "Big freezers." Steak is a steady in the diet because of the high protein content—"We use up a lot of energy during a performance," said one of the family.

On the road, they try to encamp where there are good recreation facilities. "This is our fifth season in America," says the older Nock. "I'll bet we've seen more of America than most Americans.

Development Is Training Key

Training is the key to developing a young child's concern for others, report National Institute of Mental Health scientists.

Parents also must be responsive to their children's feelings, and point out to them in specific circumstances the desirability and best method for altruistic expression, say Dr. Marian R. Yarrow and associates, Dr. Carolyn Z. Waxler and Dr. Phyllis M. Scott.

Too little is known about "pro-social" behavior, the NIMH investigators believe, and with 104 nursery school children between 3 and 6, have begun a long-term study of the potentialities for altruistic responsiveness in the very young.

Clever Mobiles With Odds, Ends

Wire coat hangers are the basis of many a mobile, reminds the June issue of Redbook magazine. They may be used singly or in twos and three or opened out into spirals, and the mobile parts may be of cardboard, plastic or metal, suspended on thread, fishing line or wire.

Even old table-tennis balls turned into fish with the addition of paper fins, tails and painted-on eyes and mouths make a clever hanging."

The best balance can be achieved by starting from the bottom up to assemble the mobile.

Valuable Painting Needs Cleaning

If you have a valuable oil painting, dust it. For a thorough cleaning, ask an expert for instruction.

Spock Offers Summer Advice

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — With the arrival of the playground season, Dr. Benjamin Spock is advising parents who witness disputes over playground possessions to "let them tug it out between themselves for awhile."

"It is good for children to learn to stand up for their own rights and usually the one who is the owner has stronger feelings of possessiveness and therefore a stronger tug," he said.

Dr. Spock explained in an article in the June issue of Redbook magazine that it is very difficult for a child under three to understand the idea of sharing.

"When parents make too insistent demands for sharing it only makes a child more selfish," he said.

ELECTED — Mrs. Ralph Clark Jr. of Terra Linda has been elected secretary of the North Bay Chapter, March of Dimes. Mrs. Walter F. Johnson will continue as chairman of the agency.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Young Men's Breasts Enlarged By Heavy Marijuana Smoking

HELEN AND SUE:

Maybe three cases don't constitute an epidemic, but a Boston newspaper says doctors at Cambridge Hospital there have been treating three young men —all heavy marijuana smokers —for "gynecomastia," or the development of big breasts.

Nothing conclusive has been decided about the effects of grass on the chest, but the theory is that pot ingredient 9-THC is chemically similar to a powerful female hormone called estradiol. Two of the men have asked for surgical removal of the overhang.

I thought your readers who smoke pot might want to know they are running the risk of becoming bosom buddies. — POT SHOT

P.S.:

Interesting. . .Another boobie-trap for pot smokers, maybe? — HELEN

P.S.:

. . .And another way to get "busted" for pot. — SUE

DEAR RAP:

I read recently a statement by a doctor that under no circumstances would "reputable doctors" lighten the skin of Negroes for cosmetic purposes — even if the bleach was fairly safe.

This makes me fighting mad. Whites darken their skins through sun tan. Orientals widen their eyes through surgery, people get face lifts to improve their looks, but if a black wants a lighter tone, suddenly he's discriminated against.

Sure, black is beautiful, but so is warm brown, and it isn't so hard to photograph.

I don't want to "pass," but I want to get ahead and deep black doesn't make it for a — FUTURE MODEL AND ACTRESS

DEAR MODEL:

So far, the "safe" skin bleach hasn't been invented, and "fairly safe" isn't good enough when the go-wrong could mean disfiguration for life.

I don't think the doctor you mention was discriminating. He was simply being cautious. — HELEN

DEAR ACTRESS:

A lot of beautiful black actors and actresses might argue with your last sentence. Didn't you see "Sounder"?

. . .And wait for a safe bleach, though you'll probably have stopped feeling the need, when it arrives. — SUE

THEY JUST LOOK OLD

Fashions Nostalgic But Still Are New

NEW YORK (UPI) — The current fashions breathe the nostalgia of the 1920s and 1930s. But if somewhere along the way you inherited a dress or suit from that period, don't try to salvage it. With rare exception, it'll still look dated.

"Fashion runs in cycles," said one woman veteran of the style world. "But the revivals come back with a different, a today, look."

What's back in the new colections are fluid-looking gowns, shirtwaist dresses and sweaters in all lengths and guises. The Paris couture's "fanny sweater" length down around the hips was the big hit of the fall showings for international buyers.

"We're seeing a lot more fitted silhouettes," said Wanda Wdowka, director of the Traphagen School of Fashion. "You see it in the shirtwaists, even in bridal gowns where the high Empire waistline is being replaced with the natural waistline."

"THE FIGURE-CONSCIOUS shapes are not being done by an elaborate system of inner construction," she continued.

"Designers have learned how to make darts and seams and the supply fabrics do the work."

Even so, Miss Wdowka said, a lot of women will be reluctant to return to belts. "They got so used to the comfort and mobility of the beltless chemise."

One thing's certain, she said. "Today's women now are dictating to the designers."

Christian Dior of Paris was probably the last of the great dictators of style, she said. It was Dior's 1947 mid-calf length, billowing skirts and taut wasitlines that became known as the "New Look."

Said the fashion director, "There's no such thing today as ONE look. The accent is on comfort and mobility. And easy care. The sweaters represent comfort. The synthetics mean minimum care. And I don't think women will give up pants."

Miss Wdowka (pronounced wah-dow-ka) talked of fashion as the Traphagen School began observance of its 50th anniversary.

AS PART of the observance, the school staged a fashion show of designs from its nearly 300 students and also dipped into the past with a show from its costume collection — 1,000 items, some originals, some reproductions, dating from the year 1,200 on.

The school was founded in 1923 by the late Ethel Traphagen and calls itself the oldest in the country devoted exclusively to fashion. It brags of the awards its graduates have won, including seven Cotys considered the most sought for Helen Lee, Stan Herman, Geoffrey Beene, Victor Joris, James Galanos, Luis Estevez and Anne Klein.

Miss Wdowka had taken the two-year course herself in the 1940s but went into commercial art for a while. She also worked for Mainbocher, the American courturier, who since has closed business.

Like a homing pigeon, she found herself going back to the school, first to teach, then become assistant director and three years ago full director.

MISS WDOWKA thinks Paris has lost its clout as the world's style center — "that's why Paris designers went into ready-to-wear and boutiques instead of continuing to cater only to the very wealthy woman."

"Even women with money today don't want to look like money," she said.

And as for those annual best-dressed lists, Miss Wdowka simply shrugged and said "they serve no purpose."

Working Mothers Possess Some Unusual Attributes

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

I don't know how working mothers do it.

The "it" is the business of combining all the skills and patience needed for managing a family with the round-the-clock demands of a profession. It's certainly understandable why working mothers have household help, why they even have live-in or by-the-day child-care assistance.

But even with such help, there is something magnificent about juggling both family and professional concerns simultaneously. The good mother supports husband and children continuously. She must be ready at any moment to pick up where the last conversation left off and provide the proper sounding board for each individual need.

That alone is like being the only lifeguard on duty Saturday afternoon at the one beach in town. You can't let your guard down for a moment, and you never know who's going to cry "help" next.

BUT THE working mother also has a profession which she is nurturing. If she's a writer, she must be keeping scripts or plots or sentence structures in her thought, continually attempting to improve them. If she has employees under her, she has the equivalent of a whole other family — a second beach full of swimmers.

Working mothers have to know what their firm's clients want, how to get it to them, how to smooth out past mistakes, and simultaneously provide instant directions on how to complete homework assignments or how to ask a girl out on her first date.

Working mothers have to keep the linen closets in order and prepare memos for their immediate supervisors so that the "front office" will be impressed.

Working mothers have to share their husband's interest in his business, provide him with adequate social support and be a good companion both to him and their children. Simultaneously, they have their co-workers to support, their bosses to serve and their employees to help mature into independence.

The mother who uses part of her home as an office or who is able to conduct most of her business over the telephone isn't any better off than the mother who goes away each day to a professional office. In fact, it may be more difficult to separate activities without the help of a geographic change.

Since I don't know how working mothers do it, and since an ode lasts only so long, perhaps all of us who aren't carrying both loads could step in to help as often as possible.

CERTAINLY, EVERY neighborhood needs a good child-care facility. Working mothers ought to be able to have a warm, lively, clean, wholesome place where they can leave little ones, knowing they will be well cared for.

Working mothers also need someone to do the household chores and some of the meal preparation. There's no reason why every neighborhood shouldn't have adults and older youngsters who offer to provide cleaning and cooking services at reasonable costs.

And what about chauffeur service for working mothers? Teen-agers interested in helping to pay for a car might offer to drive a nearby working mother back and forth to her office each day at a reasonable cost, extending the time she has to spend with her family.

School teachers and adults might well offer tutorial services to the children of working mothers when there is a need for some extra teaching.

And, certainly, husbands of working mothers might look for ways to share household and family duties in such a way that it supports the working mother's profession and does not deprive her of constant, loving contact with her children.

Before I get letters from irate working fathers, let me just say that this column also applies to any fathers who take strong responsibility for children along with carrying out the duties of a full-time professional job.

Eton Fed Up With U.S. Shutterbugs

LONDON (AP) — The student magazine of Eton, that school for young gentlemen who go around in top hats, says American tourists with cameras are turning the ancient college into "the ultimate game reserve."

An article in the Eton Chronicle adds that the students are fed up with having tourists prowling around in hopes of taking a picture of "an animal sired by a real, live lord."

"No sooner has the sole of that polished Gucci shoe touched the ground than its wearer is confronted with the Etonian," the Chronicle says.

"Now he is in the middle of the ultimate game reserve, where the animals are so docile that they will offer only their best profiles to be imprinted on the celluloid.

"Rent-a-native is becoming a well-established means of being shunted around the sights.

"How long will it be before Etonians will be paid to pose for photographs, even to wear perpetual smiles?"

So how does the Etonian, blue-blooded offspring of the nation's elite, feel about the snap-happy Americans who come to stare.

"In short," said the magazine, "he feels himself infinitely superior to the bus-borne, gaily colored rabble."

Deputy Sheriffs Asking For A Grand Jury Probe

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The Deputy Sheriffs Association asked the county grand jury Wednesday to "investigate and expose the inefficiency and faulty administration" of the Sheriff's Department.

In a letter to the jury, the association accused Sheriff Richard Hongisto of violating civil service regulations; making a "disgrace" of the payroll system, and said that "failing to win the support and confidence of the deputies, he has now fallen to what appears to be the making of threats and intimidation."

The association said it would picket City Hall Thursday at noon to distribute information about its grievances.

Hongisto was out of town and unavailable for comment.

Stephen Bley, the association lawyer who wrote the letter, suggested in it that Hongisto was replacing seniority "with favoritism and the spoils system."

Without training and "in direct violation of Civil Service regulations," Bley said Hongisto appointed a member of the honorary mounted posse to senior deputy above "as many as a hundred permanent employees."

Attacking the payroll system, Bley wrote: "Some men are receiving two and three checks for the same pay periods, while others get their paychecks two months late. Some have gotten no paychecks for weeks."

Bley also said that Deputy Dan Flynn, an association union shop stewart who was subpoenaed by the grand jury during a recent jail investigation, was "continually harassed, threatened and intimidated by the sheriff's administration." The jury's final report was critical of Hongisto's jail programs.

Jury Foreman James T. Rodman said a committee will investigate the association charges.

Hongisto is trying to unseat the current jury, contending in a lawsuit that it does not represent the entire community. The jury was selected from nominations by county judges.

Graves Turn Out To Be Foxholes

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Two teen-aged hikers found what they thought were gravesites while walking through San Francisco watershed property.

They told San Mateo County Sheriff's deputies about the holes Monday night and officers were sent to investigate.

It turned out the holes were filled-in foxholes used by the Army during World War II training exercises.

YES OR NO:

The bigger the diamond, the less the price per carat.

Well, no.
When you buy flour, salt, or sugar, the bigger the package, the lower the price per pound. But not so with diamonds. A 2-carat stone will cost far more than twice the price of two otherwise equal 1-carat stones. Because size itself is a rarity factor in diamonds.

As are color, clarity, brilliance, and excellence of cut. There's a lot to know about diamonds, and from time to time, we'll be telling you more. Meanwhile, you consult us at any time: we shall be happy to discuss with you, in confidence and with complete frankness, anything you'd like to know about diamonds. And there is never an obligation.
Notice: world diamond prices are going up. There will never be a better time to buy than right now.

ART REVIEW

A Tribute To Adams In Dominican Show

By ADA GARFINKEL

Ansel Adams has been a major influence on the world of photography for decades.

Now in his 70s and living in Carmel, Adams earlier spent many years on the Dominican College campus doing photos for the college catalogs and yearbooks in the 1930s and 1940s.

An exhibit of Adams' work currently on display in Dominican's Alemany Library has been selected from three portfolios and shots of campus sites signed and presented by the artist to the college some years ago.

Though dating back 20 or 30 years, the photos are remarkably timeless. There are no quick, candid shots. Very few are of people. All are in black and white.

The majestic and awesome grandeur of nature in some special manifestation is the theme and subject matter of most of the 24 photos in the show. Some register palpable quiet —others turbulence. Monumentality and epic time are also consistent factors.

The shadowy, precipitous walls of Canyon deChelly National Monument in Arizona extending upward beyond the perimeter of the photo, and dwarfing the ancient Indian cliff dwellings at its base, while sunshine floods a scanty group of trees at the lowest edge, is one dramatic example.

For sheer closeup grandeur, there is a photo of a massive, denuded tree-trunk — its exposed roots and burls speaking louder than words of the passage of eons of time.

Still working — only an assignment in Canada prevented Adams from accepting an invitation to address the graduating senior class at Dominican —he has also compiled 15 volumes on photography, three of which are also in the show.

The exhibit which was sponsored by the graduating photography majors as a tribute to Adams, will continue until July 1, but will be transferred to the second floor conference room of the library on June 14, and may be seen weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

San Franciscans Face Trial On Felony Charges

Two San Franciscans have been ordered to Marin Superior Court for trial on felony charges stemming from a burglary attempt at a Sausalito boutique.

Ordered to make a preliminary appearance in superior court June 11 were John Moissant, 26, and Beatrice Darby, 22. Municipal Court Judge Robert A. Smallman ruled Tuesday enough evidence exists to try Moissant on felony counts of burglary and possession of a concealed pistol.

The judge made a similar ruling on charges of burglary and possession of cocaine against Miss Darby.

Sausalito police arrested the pair May 9 near the boutique on Bridgeway after finding a broken window and merchandise strewn in a nearby alley.

The two are free on their promise to appear in court.

Husband Denies Beating Wife

A Marin City man, arrested Sunday on suspicion of felony wife beating, pleaded innocent Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court to two misdemeanor counts of battery.

Sheriff's deputies arrested Tyrone Ruffin after twice receiving reports he was attacking his wife. After the second report, she was found unconscious, deputies said.

Ruffin is to return to court Wednesday for a pretrial conference.

Marin Students Winners In Design Contest

Marin County high school students took 11 awards in the fourth annual American Institute of Architects high school architectural design competition out of 61 entries from 14 high schools in San Francisco and Marin County.

The local students took two out of three design prizes and all three of the model prizes.

Gregory Cudworth of Terra Linda High School won first in design and third in model and best entry from his school. Paul Wilbert of Tamalpais High School won second in both the design and model competitions and best entry from his school. Douglas Mobley of Novato High School won first in model competition and best entry from his school.

San Rafael High's Officers Selected

Daniel Sheehy and Max Thelen were candidates in a run off election held today for junior class president.

Arts And Crafts Fair Scheduled

An arts and crafts fair sponsored by the San Rafael Meadows Improvement Association is scheduled for 10 a.m. June 9 in a parking lot at 3773 Redwood Highway, association chairman John A. Allen announced yesterday.

Ceramics, paintings, sculpture and photographs will be on exhibit and for sale, he said.

"We just wanted to spark some espirit de corps in the community," said Allen.

Spare Ready?

Your spare tire may have to be an unsung hero someday. Make sure it's ready to do the job, the Tire Industry Safety Council advises. If you don't rotate it with the rest of your tires, check regularly to be sure that air pressure is up and it's otherwise in good shape.

Marin's County Theater Not For Marin's Own

The Marin Shakespeare Festival has moved out of Marin, to the Palace of Fine Arts in San Francisco. According to Susie Walker, executive director, the festival hopes to retain a Marin identification despite its move across the Golden Gate Bridge.

There is a story behind the move, and it is one that is recurring with Marin County cultural organizations.

WHEN THE Shakespeare Festival's lease of its outdoor theater in Dominican College's Forest Meadows expired, the college notified the festival the lease would not be renewed because it planned to use the outdoor theater for its own classes and productions. The Shakespeare Festival, which had been thinking of going indoors anyhow, turned to the Marin Veterans Memorial Building — the obvious choice.

No chance! Not only was it impossible to book a sufficient block of dates for the summer festival season, but prices were prohibitive.

The county's charge for the Veterans Memorial theater is $600 per night on week-ends, half that in midweek. That is the basic charge. Ticket sales and ticket taking, special lighting, etc., are extra.

The Palace of Fine Arts, a San Francisco municipal theater looking for resident attractions, welcomed the Marin Shakespeare Festival — at $132.50 per night.

OTHER MARIN cultural groups are trying to use the county-owned, taxpayer-built Veterans Memorial Building despite its high price tags. Marin Music Chest will stage its season there this summer — though reducing it to three concerts.

The Music Chest was able to negotiate a special rate of $400 for each of three performances on Sundays — $400 base, that is. Additional are $25 for ticket sellers and $10 for ticket takers, since the building management will not permit renters to use their own personnel. And there may be additional lighting cost for the September presentation of the San Francisco Ballet.

Some other local groups have booked the building. Marin County Cat Fanciers had it for one week end this spring for a cat show. Terra Linda High School presented its musical there.

And there have been three performances by the San Francisco Symphony. Giving the symphony a "home in Marin" was considered a big plus for the county auditorium, though it had played in some other Marin halls earlier.

IN BETWEEN these, the Veterans Memorial Building has had Bill Monroe and His Bluegrass Boys, Bill Cosby and the Persuasions, Duke Ellington and his orchestra, comedian George Carlin, and Marcel Marceau, "world's greatest mime," among others.

We have no quarrel with this selection. It includes pretty much something for everybody — and it includes some top entertainers.

But the people of Marin paid taxes for two decades to build what was first projected as a veterans' memorial hall, later as a theater-auditorium. They did it to provide a place where Marin can stage its own events.

It is a sad commentary when these must move across the Golden Gate to find a taxpayer-subsidized home at prices they can pay.

One Skeptical Legislator Reverses Prison Program

By EARL G. WATERS

While it is often thought that a lone voice cannot be heard, state Sen. H. L. Richardson is proving this to be a myth.

His continuing criticisms of the prison administration has brought about a complete reversal of program.

Not too long ago the public was being treated to glowingly optimistic predictions of declines in prison population. There was even talk of razing the state's two largest prisons, San Quentin and Folsom.

Inmate populations were rapidly dropping. For example, the 1968 population of 24,000 had fallen below 18,000 by mid-1972.

MUCH OF THIS was credited to the "success" of the parole program. Prison officials claimed spectacular reductions in recidivism. They said better than 70 per cent of those paroled were making good.

Also contributing to the reduced need for prisons was the probation program. Instead of indiscriminate prison sentences, state probation subsidies were making it possible to retain first-time offenders in the community. This, it was said, avoided the stigma of prison and was more conducive to rehabilitation.

The whole plan sounded good. But Richardson was skeptical. His cynicism was predicated on the fact reported major offenses had skyrocketed from 550,000 in 1968 to 724,000 in 1972.

FROM HIS PROJECTIONS the senator foresaw the trend in crime reaching over one million major offenses by 1974 while the prison population dwindled to 15,000. It was difficult for him to relate the two things.

He expressed his concern and questioned not only the basis of the prison authorities' information but their program concepts as well. His persistence uncovered some peculiar parole accounting practices.

"Successes," he learned, were based upon one-year records instead of a previous standard of five years. This meant that those who had been released only one year and got involved in a new crime were counted as "successes." Those who violated parole by absconding to another state also were "successes." So, too, were those who died on parole, even if their death was the result of being killed while committing another crime.

He also found that many were being continued on parole despite the fact they had been apprehended in other crimes.

Also contributing to the reduction in prison population were escapes. From about 250 in 1968 the figure had risen to nearly 1,000 by 1971. Many of the escapes were made easy by prison officials who granted inmates week-end passes from which they failed to return.

RICHARDSON CHARGED that the reason crime was on the rise while population increases had levelled off was that criminals were being turned loose on the streets to commit new crimes.

"There aren't more criminals." Richardson contended. "It's just the same ones being let run free to commit more crimes."

For awhile the senator seemed about as successful in stemming the tide as King Canute.

But the other day State Prison Director Ray Procunier announced plans to tear down San Quentin and Folsom were being discarded. He said prison populations had increased by 1,700 during the past year and predicted another increase of 2,000 by mid-1974.

Contributing to the population reversal has been a 75 per cent reduction of escapes and a 50 per cent increase in returns of parole violators. Coincident with this stricter handling of inmates has been a levelling off of the number of major crimes reported. It would seem fair to conclude that Richardson's efforts have brought results.

ERWIN D. CANHAM: Watergate Probes Overlap

Three processes are simultaneously under way bearing on the Watergate situation. Each has its strengths. Each has its dangers.

First is the exposure and informational process, in the hands of the news media.

Second is the investigative process, largely bearing on the operation of the political system, in the hands of the select Senate committee.

And third is the process of investigation and prosecution, in the hands of the Justice Department and whatever special official or group may be chosen to do the job.

EACH OF THESE processes is essential. But they overlap. The problem is that one process, fully legitimate in its own field, should not usurp the safeguarded function of another.

No person should be tried and sentenced in the columns of the news media nor on the air, nor through a Senate committee. The ultimate issue of due process, of establishing guilt or innocence before the law, must be handled by the courts.

The men whose involvement in the whole Watergate business, by which is meant of course the sequence of political events beginning at least in 1969, are being "tried," in a manner of speaking, every day in the newspapers, and even more emotionally on the tube.

Now that indictments have been issued and grand juries continue to be busy, the role of the press becomes increasingly difficult and delicate. That does not mean that the uncovering job the news media has been performing has come to an end. From all indications, there is still much more to be brought to light. But the media should do this as responsibly and dispassionately as possible.

The climate must be one in which a fair trial is possible. There must be few who do not have some preconceptions if not biases about it. The judicial process, like the informational process, will be very much put to the test.

We are all aware of the presumption of innocence, so fundamental to Anglo-Saxon justice. How can this presumption be protected by the news media when the public has every right to know what has been going on, and what kind of cover-up may have been attempted? The press must do its best.

THE ISSUES being explored by the Senate committee will inevitably invade much that is coming before the grand jury and will ultimately come out in court. But the Senate committee might well focus its interest deeply on what has been happening to the political process. It may be that the events it uncovers will not necessarily concern crimes punishable in court. They may well concern ethics and the development of standards which will save the political process.

Every professional politican, every member of Congress, every person who ever ran for office, has much at stake. If politics in the U.S., which has been degraded enough at many times throughout history, should become set in the cloak-and-dagger mold, with all the devices of espionage, forgery, and even thought-control through elaborate psychological processes, the nation is in for a bad time. And so is every aspirant for office.

Even the quasi-legitimate methods of latter-day politics are bad enough, with their costly polls, their intrusion into soft spots of the voters' minds and emotions, their shrewd mobilization of myriad border-line techniques. So the Ervin Committee can explore and lead the way toward clean-up.

The courts have established rules and standards. The Senate committee does not, really. And the news media, least of all, have working rules and restraints. They must be doubly careful, especially from now on.

Hitch-Hikers Should Face Fact This Trip May Be Their Last

(Reprinted from Fresno Bee)

When will they learn? When will the young girls in particular begin to understand their thumbs-up for a free ride is an open invitation to rape, mutilation and murder?

A grisly illustration of the dangers in casual hitchhiking is written in the records of Santa Cruz County where 6-foot-9-inch Edmund Kemper III has been charged with the slaying of his mother and nine other women.

With one exception, all of the victims had been decapitated and Dist. Atty. Peter Chang Jr. says six were students picked up while hitchhiking. Chang quoted Kemper as saying he would not have perpetrated his crimes except for the availability of "naive girls" thumbing a ride.

In recent years there has been a rash of other cases involving other trusting or carefree women who died horrible deaths because they took the same foolish chance.

Women are not the only victims. The menace applies as well to young men who seek adventure on the road. It also applies to some drivers who have lost their wallets, their cars and their lives after offering strangers a lift.

The needless suffering and tragedies will continue until the young people themselves accept the fact —as many finally did with dangerous drugs —that this trip could be their last.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Members Of Panel Deserve Identification

On May 18, your paper announced an American Association of University Women panel at which the wives of a group of men would speak. Each wife on the panel was in an elected or appointed capacity in the county. Several of their names have appeared at the ballot box and each is in a responsible position that demands intelligent decisions, yet your archaic policy will not permit their names to be used on the women's pages.

I feel this is a disservice to the many fine and able women in our county. I would appreciate your listing the AAUW panel as follows:

Jody Becker, Juvenile Justice Commission; Marilyn Bolinger, San Rafael Board of Education; Frances Compton, Marin Community College Board of Trustees; Rae Conner, Marin County Grand Jury; Betty Deedy, chairman of the board, Center Point, and member of the Marin Community College Board of Trustees; Beth Grasham, Advisory Committee of San Rafael General Plan; Linda Knox, charter member, People Park and Open Space.

Feeding Others' Dogs May Not Be Kindness.

This letter is to the many people who love pets, and think they are doing the pet a great favor by giving her scraps or goodies if she should stray into their yard or on the job during lunch time, thus enticing her to return again and again. We had a very sweet shepherd mix female, she was a very loving dog and needed constant companionship, but we both worked and she got lonesome and saw other dogs running the neighborhood and couldn't understand why she had to stay put. With a little resourcefulness and that great need for attention, she found her way out into the great wide world. We worried every evening if she would be there and in what condition. One evening we did find her very badly hurt.

These past few months we felt she had another "home" or "friend" as she got very careless about her arrival time (she used to get home before us and be sitting on the porch as if she had never left). . .

She used to stay with us on our days off, whether they were our regular days or extra days. Of late she couldn't wait to leave in the morning whether we were home or not, she would stand out in the yard and listen and then away she would go. . .

We finally made that decision, the one to call the Humane Society and have her put to sleep as we could no longer cope with her as a "part-time pet." This was only two days ago, but I can't remember when my heart has been so heavy with grief and our home is so empty. I do hope whoever fed her and petted her here in San Geronimo Valley misses her as much as we do and ask this person to please, if the dog has a collar and a current license, to please, in the future, just pet it and send it home as fast as you can.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

One reason why inflation is so successful is that all segments of our society keep giving it a boost.

Inflation is the one thing on which Big Government, Big Business and Big Labor all work together.

It's difficult to keep up with the Joneses when they insist on trying to keep up with you.

Everybody knows that the only cure for inflation is for the other fellow to be satisfied with less money.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Chinese Are 'Going Places' With Newly Released Energy

HANGCHOW — You start in China with the 800 million and, the new social order having released their energies, they are everywhere. For the newcomer the impression is of a people moving irresistibly forward.

On a Sunday the Great Wall is black with masses marching up the steep slopes to the highest watch towers. They have been brought from Peking in trucks and buses provided by commune or factory for the outing on their day off. At the Ming tombs the same crowds pass through the great red gate and queue up to go down into the crypt.

They are good-natured, cheerful seeming, with little pushing or elbowing. Here is a son or a grandson — the Chinese look so much younger than their years, you can never tell — helping an elderly woman up the steep slope. She has the tiny feet, stumps almost, that resulted from the foot-binding custom of the upper class in the old China.

Children, fresh and healthy looking, are all over the place. They suck on popsicles sold by vendors, they munch on half-loaves of bread. Teen-agers march with a leader holding high a pole with the red flag of the People's Republic blowing out stiffly in the strong wind.

HERE IN HANGCHOW the pagodas and pavilions of the old China, or new structures similar in design, reflect the historic past. In the 12th Century the city was the center of a school of painting noted for the landscapes of the dramatic mountains encircling beautiful West Lake.

From the beginning of the Sung dynasty the city, as the seat of imperial power, had a fabulous splendor, Marco Polo wrote of one of its districts that had been entirely turned over to entertainment "as the greatest city which may be found in the world where so many pleasures may be found that one fancies himself to be in paradise."

The shores of West Lake are today handsomely wooded with willows that bend over the water and newly planted trees lining the roadways. The setting of Silk Mill No. 1, which turns out brilliant brocades, is a carefully tended garden with flowering borders and broad passageways.

Hua Kang Park, where President Nixon fed the big goldfish, is bright with flowers and immaculately kept.

As it was seven centuries ago, Hangchow is where the Chinese dream of going. Yet even on a week end the crowds are comparatively small.

TIME AND GEOGRAPHY are part of the mixture of a people who have undergone years of turbulent change as we had reason in a small instance to realize. An overseas Chinese in Washington asked us to try to find in Shanghai a brother whom he had not seen in 23 years. Thanks to the diligent efforts of friendly escorts, he was located even though he had undergone a name change.

He was absent on his regular run on a freighter to Dairen and his wife came to see us in the Peace Hotel. Still young-looking, she could hardly contain her excitement. The good news to take back is that the 83-year-old father is alive and well. One can conjecture that this is happening in thousands of instances as overseas Chinese come in large numbers. They are being encouraged to visit their motherland.

Some, as in the instance above, had gone to Hong Kong or Taiwan, then to Chinese centers in Asia and, a few, to North America.

The knitting together is occurring in a variety of ways, large and small. Mass organizations attacked during the cultural revolution are being rebuilt. Trade unions, youth leagues, peasant organizations — these are an important second channel of communication to the countryside for Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai. This is to say, they supplement the three-cornered organization in every commune and factory of the army, the cadres and the peasants and workers.

IT WOULD BE inaccurate to speak of autonomous authority in the provincial capitals. Yet authority is dispersed inasmuch as the revolutionary standing committees that administer each have a degree of independence in decision-making.

These administrators, as we have discovered, are intensely hard-working alert, intelligent, determined to push on, while frankly stating how far they still have to go. An outstanding example is Lu Cheng-hao of the revolutionary standing committee of the big tea plantation near here. He began life begging with his mother, since his father could not earn enough on the plantation to keep them alive. It is all part of the drama of a people who are to be reckoned with as never before in the future of mankind.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

Playing Games With Future: Do As I Say, Not As I Do

In Charles Kingsley's "The Waterbabies" there was a forbidding character known as Mrs. Do-As-You-Would-Be-Done-By: she taught Tom the Chimney Sweep right from wrong. He must not pull the fishes' tails, for instance, because if he were a fish he wouldn't like it.

I spent all day Saturday at the Pro-Total Environment Marin Conference at College of Marin, surrounded on many sides, it seemed, by several Mr. and Mrs. Do-As-I-Say-Not-As-I-Dos.

FOR A START there was noted architect and planner Robert Marquis. Waxing enthusiastic about cramming 40 and 50 apartments to an acre, he told the audience not to be paranoic about density. There's a housing shortage, he warned. Fill in downtown San Rafael with high rises, he adovcated. Fill in Bolinas Mesa with houses and leave everywhere else in inviolate open space.

Then the erudite Mr. Marquis hopped in his car and sped off — not, as Tom the Waterbaby might have supposed — to his San Francisco home. He went to his second home, which is in Bolinas. Not on the Mesa, of course.

And there was noted landscape architect Lawrence Halprin, ecstatically described in the program as "choreographer of space." Mr. Halprin, too, advocated closely packed apartments and high rises in New Towns, saying people could live elegantly with dignity because they could walk to work.

He particularly didn't like the single family housing with a backyard, of American tradition, emphasized Mr. Halprin, because it created a "salt and pepper effect" across the landscape.

Off went Mr. Halprin, again, not as Tom might have supposed, to the dignity of a high rise apartment. No. He zipped away to his large house and garden in Kentfield. Where the salt and pepper effect is, presumably, choreographed.

I CHATTED at lunchtime with a charming lady from Corte Madera, who was all for low-income housing. But not, she added hastily, near her. She was terribly opposed to any development on the Corte Madera ridge, particularly because she already lives on it.

Nature Conservancy director Huey D. Johnson of Mill Valley plumped for "assuring diversity of residents." In a curious juxtaposition (which gets curiouser the more I contemplate it) Johnson said homogenous Marin communities should attract artists and the elderly. (Perhaps he proposes the one shall paint the other, then sell the results to the undiverse neighbors?)

Then there was Barbara Boxer, onetime candidate for the county board of supervisors. Mrs. Boxer complained that she and her friends had been called elitists because they opposed construction of moderate-income housing, when all the time they really are so concerned about housing for the elderly and low and moderate income families.

TOM AND HIS teacher might well have wondered why Mrs. Boxer neglected to mention that the moderate income housing she and her friends oppose is uncomfortably close to their Kentfield and Greenbrae homes.

In fact, the entire conference seemed to enter the realm of fairy tales in the afternoon, when everyone went upstairs at Olney Hall, laughing merrily, to play simulation games of planning commissions.

There were gamesmasters and commentators and trouble shooters and players, all deciding the future of an imaginary community.

It might be funny, if so many of the gamesplayers were't in such deadly earnest, in their avowed intent to play God with the future of Marin County.

They should all re-read "The Water Babies." And take note of the best character: Mrs. Be-Done-By-As-You-Did.

Marin Pianists Award Winners

Three Marin County youths are among 39 music students from throughout the state chosen as winners in the 1973 composition competition sponsored by the Music Teachers Association of California.

The award winners, all pianists, are Winthrop Hall III, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Hall of Corte Madera; Meegan Wellman, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Wellman of Tamalpais Valley, and Duncan McRee, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McRee of Tamalpais Valley.

They will receive citations at an association convention July 6 in Asilomar, Monterey County.

ART BUCHWALD

Ghostly Voices At White House Since Everybody Moved Out

WASHINGTON — I was walking by the White House the other night when I heard an anguished cry from inside. "Alger Hiss! Where were you when I needed you?"

I thought nothing of it and walked a few more steps. Then I heard the same voice again. "Where were those college bums when I needed them?"

A GUARD standing by the gate asked, "Can I help you, sir?"

"That voice coming from inside. It's so eerie."

"Aye," he said, "it's been going on for weeks now. It does give you the willies."

"Who's in there?" I asked.

"Nobody. The house is empty."

"Empty?"

"Aye, they all moved out. There's nobody there."

"BUT THE VOICE! I heard a voice."

"That you did. They say the place is haunted, and full of ghosts."

"Do you believe in ghosts?" I asked the man.

"After what's been happening around here for the last two months, I don't know what to believe any more. I reported the voice to my superiors, and they told me to forget it. They said if anyone asked me, I heard nothing."

"YOU MEAN it's another coverup?" I asked.

"I just follow orders. They say it's a matter of executive privilege, and I can't talk about anything I've heard here, even if it's a ghost who has done the talking."

"It must be lonely work."

"Aye, that it is. Sometimes when the fog rolls in the Rose Garden, I think I hear the U.S. Marine Band playing 'Hail to the Chief.' Once, I saw the White House guards marching in the old uniforms."

The voice came out loud and clear again. "Martha, Martha, why have you deserted me?"

"The voice sounds so familiar," I told the guard.

"That it does. It's somebody I know, but I can't make out who."

"I'm sure it isn't Lincoln."

"And it isn't F.D.R.," the guard said.

The guard scratched his hear. "It beats me."

"WHEN DID THEY board up the house?"

"About three weeks ago. It seems after all the trouble, they couldn't get anyone to work here. The secretaries were frightened, and after the big shots left no one would take their place. So they closed it down and moved to Camp David."

The voice again: "In our own lives let each of us ask — not just what government will do for me, but what can I do for myself?"

"You don't have any grass on you?" the guard asked.

"No, I'm sorry I don't. Why do you ask?"

"I don't know. You hang around here for a little while, and pot kind of makes you forget what's going on. Tell you the truth, mister, I really got the shakes."

"Why don't you go to a psychiatrist?"

"Not on your life! If I did, somebody would break in his office and steal my records."

Delinquent Taxes Dip In Marin

The percentage of delinquent property taxes in Marin dipped to a 10-year low during fiscal 1972-73, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell reported yesterday.

According to Mitchell, this fiscal year's percentage was 3.58, compared to 4.01 per cent last year on a countywide basis. The high was in fiscal 1966-67 at 6.99 per cent.

Thi year's figure represents $2.9 million in unpaid property taxes. About $80 million was collected by various taxing agencies such as school districts, cities and the county.

Among the 11 Marin cities, Larkspur had the lowest delinquency rate at 1.18 per cent and Mill Valley the highest at 5.07 per cent.

The tax delinquency figures for other cities are: Belvedere, 4.82 per cent; Corte Madera, 1.94; Fairfax, 3.78; Novato, 4.90; Ross, 2.99; San Anselmo, 2.97; San Rafael, 2.62; Sausalito, 3.98; and Tiburon, 5.07.

Sausalito Town Meeting Set On Bond Issues

Two bond issues — totaling $566,000 — which will be presented to Sausalito voters in an election June 12 will be discussed at a town meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Central School.

Sponsored by the Sausalito Citizens Council, the session will include a panel discussion of the measures, as well as a question and answer period. Among the panelists will be Mayor Robin Sweeney and representatives of the Sausalito Library board and Recreation Commission, the Sausalito Foundation and the Citizens Council.

The city is proposing a $306,000 bond issue to purchase Central School for a new city hall and a second measure, for $260,000 to purchase the adjacent Northwestern Pacific Railroad property (now the site of the Sausalito Nursery) for a new library.

Crusade Is Launched To Get Rid Of Nixon

A former television shop owner, who has organized short-lived crusades against women's liberation and capital punishment and in favor of the Hell's Angels and Barry Goldwater, now is after President Nixon.

Frederick L. Ullner of San Rafael said yesterday he is arranging for a post office box in behalf of the Committee for the Resignation of the President.

While the 53-year-old Ullner conceded he was the only present member of the group, "once you get it launched it's hard to say how it will go. There are hundreds of thousands of persons in this country without leadership."

Ullner, of 119 Merrydale Road, Apt. 18, said the still-unfolding Watergate scandal led him to act. "You can't run a country this size with the lack of faith people have in their leaders," he said.

Ullner hopes a burgeoning membership in his new group will force Nixon to resign.

His last campaign was in 1971 when he formed Men Against Women's Liberation (MAWL), saying, "The chicks have been running roughshod over us."

Democrats Will Speak In Marin

Four major Democratic contenders in next year's race for California governor will speak in Marin on June 14.

Appearing at a dinner at Peacock Gap Country Club in San Rafael will be Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti of North Hollywood, Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco and Rep. Jerome Waldie from Contra Costa County. San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto's office said he could not attend because he will be out of town.

Tickets to the fund-raising dinner, sponsored by the Marin County Democratic Central Committee, are being handled by Catherine Waycott at Land Investors Research, Larkspur.

Cocktails will begin at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Rebecca Watkin of Kentfield will be honored at the dinner with the committee's first annual award as Democrat of the Year.

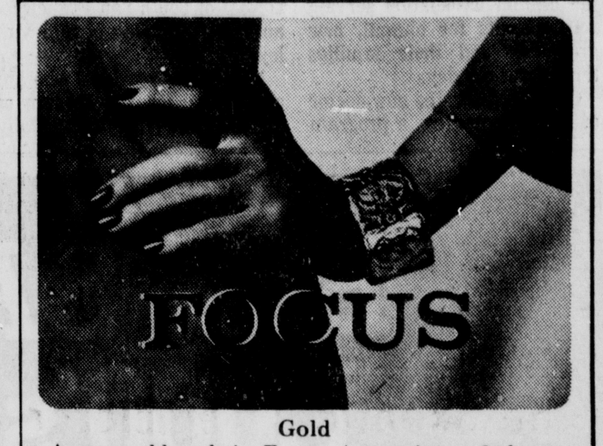
Caution Urged On Job Offers By Tour Firm

The San Francisco Better Business Bureau, which serves Marin County, has issued a warning to high school and college students seeking summer employment to use caution in dealing with Odyssey Enterprises of Castroville, Calif.

The firm is offering jobs as "tour assistants" to Europe, the Grand Canyon and Hawaii and after tentative acceptance of applicants, requires a "rush application" and $2 fee before final acceptance.

The bureau reports that there is no indication from the firm on how many students will be hired or if those not hired will be refunded the $2 fee, according to Donald W. Schwartz, bureau vice president.



Gold

A new gold rush in Europe is causing a 24-karat problem for U.S. jewelers, dentists, and industrial users of the precious metal. After months of fluctuation, the price of gold rocketed to more than $100 an ounce in Europe. The jewelry industry, which accounts for two-thirds of total U.S. gold consumption, is probably hardest hit. The price of wedding bands and solid-gold items no doubt will go up. Dentists, who use gold to fill and cap teeth, are unsure what to charge their patients. Gold, a good conductor of electricity, is used in the manufacturing of many electronic and space components. The high price of gold will ultimately affect the consumer.

GAMESMANSHIP — Don't look now, but three New York entrepreneurs have created the Watergate Game, designed to capitalize on potentially the biggest political scandal of the century. The object of the game is to stay out of jail. Cheating is permitted.

BASED ON YOU-KNOW-WHAT

The Watergate Game Is Here

By GEORGE NEVIN

Three New york entrepreneurs, cashing in on what may be the political scandal of the century, are marketing a poster game satirizing the affair surrounding the break-in of the Democratic headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Put simply, the object of the game is to stay out of jail. Players elect a commander-in-chief and then roll dice and move tokens shaped like elephants around a circular track.

"Cheating is permitted," the rules inform players, "if it is not seen by the commander-in-chief or if the commander-in-chief says he didn't see it."

One of the three creators, John D. Bookstaver, 30, paid a visit recently to the offices of the Flea Market Voice and Collector's Guide, a publication aimed at collectors throughout Northern California. The guide, published at 393 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, is handling California distribution of the game.

Depending on what the dice roll totals, players either get to move ahead, go back or go to jail. Once a player is jailed, he's out of the game. The last player left is the winner.

"There's nothing that says the commander-in-chief can't go to jail too," said Bookstaver, a curly-headed New Yorker who dressed in western shirt, pants and boots for his trip to California.

In fact, he said, it's almost impossible to go completely around the game circle without landing in jail. And if a player does finish, he added, the final square is Leavenworth Prison.

After players choose a leader, the rules suggest they may want to name their playing pieces, and furnish suggestions parodying familiar names from the real Watergate case: Jed Marauder, James 'mCaught, Don Zigliar, Spiral Igloo, Don M. Snitchwell and Nick Dixxon.

Then the action starts. If a player is lucky, he rolls an eight and lands on a square marked, "You receive a vote of confidence from White House — advance six spaces."

Another lucky soul could go forward two spaces if he lands on "You are implicated in break-in of psychiatrist's office."

But there are bad breaks, too. Players can get sent back one or two spaces or even back to the start. And, of course, anyone can get sent up the river at any time.

The game, like many inspirations, came about quite by accident, said Bookstaver. "My partners and I were sitting around the office on a slow day waiting for the phone to ring.

"We were listening to the news, and I said, 'What an incredible game that Watergate caper is.' The same thought hit all of us at once, and we got to work on the game."

From idea to reality took three weeks. Bookstaver wrote the copy and his partners helped with the game design. The first printing of 5,000 was ordered from a Cincinnati printer ("A Democrat," said Bookstaver) and the Watergate Game was in business.

His first attempt to sell it was a noticeable failure.

"I went into a stationary store on Madison Avenue in New York and showed it to the man. He started yelling at me, 'Get that thing out of here. Maurice Stans (the former secretary of commerce under President Nixon and campaign fund raiser) is one of my best customers. This is a very Republican neighborhood.' "

But almost every other businessman he approached that day, Bookstaver said, placed orders. "By the end of the day I knew we had a hot item," he said.

Ironically, Bookstaver said his firm is not really in the game or poster business. "We're a sales promotion and graphics design outfit, and our next project is setting up a national pro bridge tour."

With new Watergate news breaking every day, Bookstaver admitted the game could get out of date quickly, but added that two months is about as long as he's expecting it to sell anyway.

His biggest worry, he confided, is that the fast-breaking story from Washington will completely upstage his game, proving once again that real-life games are more bizarre than their counterparts in fantasy.

'Ski Mask' Gang Arrests Made

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police arrested two Chinese juveniles yesterday, bringing to nine the number of persons arrested and charged with being members of the "ski mask" robbery gang.

Wallace Tang, 17, and an unidentified 16-year-old were taken into custody. Robbery inspectors said Tang was a key member of the gang they said was responsible for a series of bank and grocery store holdups.

Police said an arrests that "for all practical purposes the roundup of the ski mask gang."

Tang was held at city prison in lieu of $150,000 bail. The other juvenile was held at Youth Guidance Center.

Novato Council Continues Hearing On General Plan

The Novato City Council last night heard pros and cons on the proposed general plan and continued the public hearing, billed as the last, until 8 p.m., next Thursday at the Novato Community House.

Most of the objections came on a proposed development by Frank Rebello for approximately 250 dwelling units on 737 acres at the end of Vineyard Road, south of Stafford Lake.

A letter from the North Marin County Water District over the signature of Mgr. John O. Nelson, objected to the proposed development, as did Pierre W. Joske, Marin County parks and recreation director, who said Vineyard Road might eventually be connected to Novato Boulevard, cutting by Stafford Lake Park.

Residents of the area, through their spokesman, Stanley K. Gobbin, objected to any increase in traffic on Vineyard Road.

Alene Souza of Stockton, speaking for the Rebellos, told the council that the Rebellos had given land and helped the water district when it was getting Stafford Lake started in 1949. She said they are now losing $5,000 a year through taxes in excess of income from rental of the property for horse riding. She said the water district board had not seen or approved Nelson's letter written Tuesday and asked the council to disregard it.

John Stuber of the Murray-McCormick Environmental group, outlined the plan for the property, saying it fit completely with the designation of equestrian-residential in the general plan.

Richard H. Olmsted objected to changing the density on 108 acres of the 325-acre Anderson Rowe property south of South Novato Boulevard west of Highway 101 to one unit to 10 acres when the land across the boulevard was all zoned multiple, as his had been before.

Beverly Ehreth, a member of the Novato City Planning Commission, speaking for herself, said she was concerned at the amount of multiple and townhouse area in the plan.

Two residents, not speaking on any particular site, were against the designation of open space. "Open space zoning is stealing a man's land," said Miguel Medeiros of 1456 Pastel Lane.

"It's a dangerous situation where people lose their property to open space. Novato offers no jobs and is just a bedroom community. People here should pay for that land they want in open space," said Guy Napolitano of 1900 Novato Boulevard.

After the public hearing was closed, Councilman George Quesada proposed that Novato extend its sphere of influence on the east side of Highway 101 south of Hamilton Air Force Base to Las Gallinas Creek, the San Rafael city limits.

Councilman F. Wayne Sartain agreed that the development of land belonging to St. Vincent's School for Boys and the Silveira Ranch would have a definite effect on Novato."

The council postponed action on this until next week.

It referred several word changes in the proposed text to the city attorney for his opinion for the meeting next week.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Novato Community House to continue its review of the capital improvement budget and possibly receive the full city budget for next fiscal year.

Tapioca Is Eyed For Cattle Feed

LONDON (AP) — Cereal feeds for beef and dairy cattle are becoming so expensive that British farmers are looking around for cheaper substitutes. Tapioca, or cassava, the raw material from which it is made, is high on the list.

Dutch and Belgian farmers have been using the product for some time. Mike Stranks, an animal nutrition expert with the Agricultural Development and Advisory Services, says: "In Holland and Belgium relatively small quantities of cereals are used for livestock feeding because they import a lot of cassava and citrus pulp which are used in preference to cereals as a cheaper source of energy.

Recital Slated By Clarinetist

A public recital will be given by William Tull, principal clarinetist with the Marin Symphony Orchestra at 4:30 p.m., Sunday at the United Methodist Church of Mill Valley.

Works by Bach, Debussy, Schibler and Brahms will be featured by Tull with Patrick Wilber, pianist, and Richard Piipo, cellist, accompanying him.

Five Seek Planning Unit Seats

Five citizens have applied for appointment to two vacancies on the San Rafael Planning Commission, the city administration said yesterday.

Applicants are Richard C. Fox, a research chemist; Carl J. (Red) Brown, athletic director at Sir Francis Drake High School; Robert H. Caro, a San Rafael businessman; Richard P. Rodrigues, chairman of the city's citizen advisory committee, and Donn E. Nissen, president of the Terra Linda Homeowners Association.

In addition, Dixie school board president John A. Starkweather said yesterday he will apply for appointment to the commission.

Applications for the seats must be submitted at city hall before June 30, when the terms of commissioners Thomas R. O'Toole and Albert J. Boro expire, according to the city administration.

Japanese Students Placement Is Success

The coordinator of a program to bring 30 Japanese students to Marin for a month this summer said yesterday he's been so successful in finding homes for them that his quota may be upped.

Michael E. Kaufman said he's found 25 homes and has been so much more successful than the 10 or 11 others in the Bay Area trying to place the Japanese students that more than 30 of them may be assigned to him.

Kaufman and the others are local representatives of Interstudy, a Swedish-based nonprofit corporation which places Asian and European students in American homes.

The Japanese students, all between 17 and 23 years old, will begin arriving approximately July 25 and will be in Marin until about Aug. 23, according to literature supplied by interstudy.

Kaufman said he still needs at least five more homes by June 1, preferably in southern Marin, to meet his quota of 30, and perhaps more if students originally headed for other Bay Area counties are diverted to Marin.

The idea behind the program, he said, is "to let the students experience the American way of life and develop a competency in English." Each student has studied at least two years of English, he said.

Prisoners Lose Job

ATLANTA (UPI) — The use of prisoners to repair and maintain state highways will be discontinued July 1 in Georgia when employes of the state Department of Transportation take over the job.

Teachers Plan Friday Walkout

WALNUT CREEK (UPI) — Teachers in the Mt. Diablo Unified School District plan a one-day walkout tomorrow to draw attention to "the crisis in the schools."

Ralph Lubeck, president of the 2,200 teacher Education Association, said yesterday the strike vote for the action was taken after the district "failed to negotiate in good faith," on a new contract.

The main stumbling blocks in the talks involved nursing services, the library system, overstaffing of administration positions and working and salary conditions, Lubeck said.

Colonel Raised

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Col. Charles C. Rogers, a Medal of Honor winner, is among three black colonels nominated by the Army yesterday for promotion to brigadier general. The others are Cols. Roscoe Robinson, Jr., of St. Louis, Mo., and Fred C. Sheffey, Jr., of McKeesport, Pa.

ORDINANCE NO. 35
AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING A PROGRAM TO PREVENT ENTRY OF RAIN, STORM, AND SURFACE DRAINAGE WATER INTO BUILDING SEWERS RICHARDSON BAY SANITARY DISTRICT

The Sanitary Board of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, Marin County, California, does resolve that

WHEREAS, there is evidence that rain water, storm water and surface drainage water are entering the sewage works of the District in such volumes as to seriously jeopardize the operations of the District's waste water treatment plant and related facilities and to cause backing up of waste water in the District's sewer mains, all to the detriment of the public health, safety and welfare;

WHEREAS, there is further evidence that much of the infiltration of rain water, storm water and surface drainage water into the District's sewage works is caused by direct connection of rain or storm water drains to building sewers, or by broken or leaking side sewers, including building sewers;

WHEREAS, Ordinance No. 29 of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, known as the Sanitary Code of Richardson Bay Sanitary District, enacted on September 15, 1964, as subsequently amended, provides, in part, that no surface or subsurface drainage, rain water, storm water or seepage shall be permitted to enter any sanitary sewer by any device or method whatsoever;

WHEREAS, said ordinance provides, in part, that the installation, use, maintenance, repair and inspection of all plumbing and side sewers including sewers inside private property shall be subject to and governed by such rules and regulations as may be adopted by the District, except as provided in Section 6522.1 of the Health and Safety Code of the State of California.

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY ORDAINED AND ORDERED as follows:

1. A program of periodic monitoring of side sewers including building sewers for leakage or unauthorized connection and the correction of same is hereby instituted.

2. Said program will consist of periodic smoke testing of laterals, side sewers and building sewers to determine points of leakage or unauthorized connection which smoke testing shall be undertaken after mailing notice to the persons owning or occupying those properties within the areas to be tested and the posting of said notice on all public streets of the area to be tested, said mailing and posting to be complcted at least seven days in advance of testing.

3. Should District testing reveal leakage in any side sewer, building sewer or connection thereto of unauthorized drainage facilities, the owner of said property shall be notified in writing of discrepancies and will be given a period of 30 days to correct same. Reasonable extensions of time may be granted upon application to the Sanitary Board, at the sole discretion of said Board.

4. Failure to correct leakage or to disconnect unauthorized drainage connections when and as required within the allowed time period will result in the exercise by the District of any or all means of enforcement as provided in said Ordinance No. 29 or as otherwise provided by law.

5. Upon adoption this ordinance shall be entered in the minutes of the Board, shall be posted in three (3) public places within the District for one week, and shall be published once in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in the County of Marin following its passage and adoption, and shall take effect and be in force and effect immediately upon the expiration of one (1) week from the date of posting and publication thereof.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Medical Problems Are Cause Of Few Accidents On Highway

Does medical fitness have an effect on highway accidents? If we exclude the use of drugs, such as alcohol and tranquilizers, tiredness, and emotional factors, then medical conditions probably are responsible for less than 1 per cent of all road accidents. But this is enough to make authorities in many states refuse to issue or revoke a driver's license when certain physical or mental disorders exist. Most of these accidents center about visual, mental, or neurological defects.

However, very little can be done about unexpected attacks of giddiness or unconsciousness due to heart disease, stroke, diabetes, epilepsy, or hypoglycemia. These people are lucky if nothing happens. They should, however, avoid driving in the future until they get the green light from their physicians.

ALCOHOL IS INVOLVED in at least half of all fatal accidents today. Tranquilizers, barbiturates, amphetamines, and even over-the-counter antihistamines also are responsible for a slice of the yearly death and injury toll. Drivers on drugs also are a menace.

Investigators generally agree that the driver's emotional state also plays an important role in highway accidents. This is evident in young adults aged 15 to 24 among whom traffic accidents are the leading cause of death. Only 21 per cent of all drivers are in this group, yet they cause one-third of all traffic mishaps.

PARADOXICALLY, these young men and women are healthy, have quick reaction times and good coordination. Their accidents could be blamed on lack of experience, but a better possibility is their emotional state. According to William Asher and Michelle K. Shapiro, Purdue University psychologists, during periods of anger, depression, or elation, the young driver expresses his feelings by driving recklessly, at high speeds, or drinking and driving.

At this age, he has little regard for the results of his behavior and uses a car to release his emotions. These researchers have found that young men and women involved in accidents tend to disagree with others, feel held down, are hypersensitive, and lack self-confidence. Reckless driving is the means by which they overcompensate.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal.

'HITCHHIKER' TICKS

L. writes: My son is on a hunting trip. If he brings home ticks or fleas on his clothing, will laundering or dry cleaning get rid of them? Is there any chance some will remain in the house?

REPLY

Laundering or dry cleaning should take care of this, but if ticks remain on his skin, more trouble may be expected. He should use an insecticide on the outside, a repellant on his legs, and wear hunting pants and adequate boots or shoes. After every day of hunting, tell him to inspect his arms and legs for ticks.

ALLERGY

M.V. writes: Will drinking lots of grapefruit juice cure allergy?

REPLY

No, and it might aggravate the condition in a person who is allergic to this product. It may also cause rectal itching which is thought to be of allergic origin. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on allergy.

Bibles Given To Prisoners

LONDON (AP) — When a prisoner asked for a Bible to read in his cell, a search of the police station at Maldon, Essex, revealed there was not a copy on the premises.

A Bible was borrowed from the vicar, and when it became known that Bibles were wanted at the police station, 17 more arrived, including two huge, 100-year-old family Bibles.

Now there is a small Bible in every cell.

American Tourists Up In Switzerland

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — For the first time, American overnight stays in Switzerland surpassed all countries except Germany in 1972, setting an all-time record.

U.S. overnight stays rose to 2,737,676 for 1972 which is the fourth consecutive year Switzerland has realized an increase of Americans staying longer in the country. France was third in overnight stays with the combined total from Great Britain and Ireland fourth and Belgium fifth.

ALMANAC

By U.P. International

Today is Thursday, May 24, the 144th day of 1973 with 221 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

Queen Victoria of England was born May 24, 1819.

On this day in history:

In 1626, the Dutch West Indies Trading Company bought the island of Manhattan from the Indians for the equivalent of $24.

In 1883, the Brooklyn Bridge, linking the boroughs of Brooklyn and Manhattan, was opened to the public for the first time.

In 1941, the HMS Hood of the British navy, world's largest battleship at the time, was sunk by the German battlewagon "Bismarck" between Greenland and Iceland.

A thought for the day: American philosopher Vannevar Bush said, "If democracy loses its touch, then no great war will be needed to overwhelm it. If it keeps and enhances its strength, no great war need come again."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Rep. Mills Found Shot To Death

EASTON, Md. (UPI) — Rep. William O. Mills, R-Md., was found shot to death early today, apparently having committed suicide five days after disclosure that he had received secret financial aid from the Nixon campaign organization in 1971.

Shortly after Mills' Washington office confirmed police reports of Mills' death at 48, William B. Horne, the state's attorney in Talbot County, Md., said Mills' body was found at a farm near his Easton home and "at this time, there is no evidence of foul play."

Investigations were under way by state and local police in Easton, a small community on the Maryland Eastern Shore.

Mills, a member of the House since 1971, had been under investigation for failing to report a $25,000 cash contribution to his 1971 election campaign that allegedly came from secret funds from the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President.

Mills maintained he had done nothing wrong.

The information was contained in a report issued Saturday by the General Accounting Office (GAO), an investigative arm of Congress, that dealt with a variety of financial transactions by the Nixon campaign organization and alleged several violations of federal law.

Following news of Mills's death, House Speaker Carl Albert canceled all legislative business scheduled for the day.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, who held the congressional seat before Mills and employed him as an aide for years, expressed "deep sorrow and a keen sense of personal loss." House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said he was shocked and described Mills as "one of the most promising young members of the House."

The Baltimore News American, where Mills' press secretary, Jack Shaum, worked previously as a reporter, quoted him as saying it was a suicide "from all indications." But Shaum told UPI he did not have such information "at the moment."

Shaum issued a brief statement saying the congressman was pronounced dead at Easton Memorial Hospital, that his death "occurred during the early morning hours" and that it "was the apparent result of a gunshot wound."

A hospital spokesman said there were powder burns on the body, indicating Mills was shot at close range. The body was taken to Baltimore for an autopsy by the state medical examiner.

Shaum said Mills was at the Washington office Wednesday "and it was pretty much business as usual." He also said "we knew he was worried over the reports about the $25,000 contribution, but there was no indication

KTIM Is Operating On Full Power Again

KTIM Radio General Manager Robert Dinsmore announced today the resumption of full broadcast power from the station's transmitter on the Silvera ranch north of San Rafael.

The KTIM-AM tower was toppled by vandals April 1, and operated thereafter on a makeshift apparatus. Chief Engineer Richard Marshall says reception throughout the Marin coverage area should have improved considerably with completion of repairs, and readjustment of the signal pattern.

Marshall added that he would appreciate hearing from listeners everywhere in Marin on the quality of their reception of the station's broadcast.

Check Case Suspect Faces Trial

Ronald Alfred Wold, 40, of no fixed address, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a felony charge of using a forged check to open a bank account in Marin.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court ordered him to appear June 4 on the one count, but dismissed a second count of passing five checks totaling $145 at San Rafael businesses without enough money in his account.

The checks were cashed between Jan. 24 and 27.

Wold was returned earlier this month from Inyo County, where he was arrested on a fugitive warrant charging he passed bad checks in San Rafael totaling about $1,000.

Judge Frees Pair Held In Burglary

A Marin municipal Court judge has dismissed burglary charges against two young men arrested following a theft from a Tiburon antique store.

Judge Peter Allen Smith cited insufficient evidence linking Thomas Joseph Tully, 19, of Larkspur, and Todd Ashley Beeson, 20, of Belvedere, and dropped the allegations Monday although Deputy Dist. Atty. Peter J. Andersen sought to reduce the charges from felonies to misdemeanors.

The two were arrested March 14 in Bolinas after Tiburon police had investigated a break-in at the Pandemonium store on Paradise Drive. Items selling for $678 were reported stolen.

Two antique phonographs and two wine casks from the store were found in a parked truck belonging to Beeson near the store, police said.

Summer School Schedule Given For San Rafael

Elementary school will be taught from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Monday through Friday at Bahia Vista, Coleman, Gallinas, Glenwood and Short schools.

Further information may be obtained at each school or the district office.

Larkspur Council Approves Pay Boosts

The Larkspur City Council last night approved 5 per cent cost of living raises to most city employees but differed sharply on whether they ought to be paid $150 a month themselves.

Mayor Alfred J. Malvino, and councilmen Robert H. Lee and William G. Fleckles voted in favor of council salaries, and instructed staff to prepare an ordinance for introduction at the council's June 6 meeting, reported assistant city manager Harlan Barry. Councilmen Joan Sestak and Neil R. Brixon disagreed.

In its second consecutive night of its $1.5 million budget considerations, the council approved cost of living increases for all city employees.

Most had requested 7.5 per cent raises, and these, on average, were trimmed to 5 per cent, said Barry.

City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst got a 2.5 per cent raise, hiking his $22,050 annual salary to $22,601. Barry's monthly pay was raised 5 per cent from $1,405 to $1,475.

Five per cent raises were given to fire chief Craig Schurts ($1,405 to $1,475); assistant fire chief William Lellis ($1,213 to $1,274); police chief Howard Clark ($1,487 to $1,512); police captain Gerald Mattos ($1,248 to $1,306); director of public works Warren Mistron ($1,405 to $1,475); planning director John Roberto ($1,405 to $1,475); community development enforcement officer Graham Lang ($1,135 to $1,213).

The city librarian Richard A. Kilbourne was given a 7.5 per cent raise from $1,074 to $1,155, and the assistant director of public works Joseph Monisteir a 10 per cent hike because he'd been forgotten in previous raises from $974 to $1,048.

Barry said the council approved a 5 per cent raise to police sergeants and patrolmen, with a 7.5 per cent hike to clerks and dispatchers.

The fire department was given a 5 per cent hike, too, and other city employees were given raises ranging from 5 to 10 per cent.

The council reviewed the police, fire, public works and community development budgets, but took no action. Capital outlay projects will be considered later, said Barry.

A Regional Auto Fee Is Proposed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Regional automobile license fees to finance transit development are proposed in a master plan draft by the Metropolitan Transportation Commission staff.

Public hearings will be held next month on the master plan being developed for the nine-county Bay Area. The staff proposals were presented to commission members yesterday.

Among taxes to finance both transit and highway improvements the staff suggested a regional $10 annual registration fee on cars.

It proposed an additional gasoline tax earmarked for public transportation plus a 1-2 per cent surcharge on alcoholic beverages and cigarettes.

The staff also suggested a graduated fee on automobiles based on engine horsepower and aimed at reducing the number of big cars.

Iranian Oil Flow Ensured By Pact

TEHRAN (UPI) — Iran and the Western oil consortium today signed a 25-year agreement ensuring the continued flow of Iranian oil to world markets and giving Iran full control over its own oil industry.

After months of negotiations, today's agreement was signed by the National Iran Oil Company and the British, Dutch, American and French members of the consortium.

"The agreement is unique and is designed to provide long-term stability and growth for Iran's oil industry as well as to ensure the flow of crude oil to markets supplied by the consortium" a communique said.

Queen Elizabeth Beneficiary Of Farm Subsidy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth II is a beneficiary under the U.S. program of subsidy payments to farmers for not growing crops.

At least that's the way Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., sees it.

Conte told the House Wednesday: "Now the farm subsidy program has become a part of our foreign aid program with $68,000 going to the queen of England."

He said the money was paid to Delta Pine Land Co., which owns a 2,500-acre farm in Bolivar County, Miss. Delta, he said, is a subsidiary of Courtaulds Ltd. of London, in which the royal family is listed as the largest investor.

Larkspur Youth Condition Given

A Larkspur boy reportedly injured in a bicycle-auto accident Monday was in fair condition today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in Redwood City after being transferred there from Marin General Hospital.

Hospital spokesmen identified the youngster as Steven A. Nove, 11, of 50 Elm Avenue, but could not describe his injuries.

Neither Larkspur nor Corte Madera police nor the California Highway Patrol had any report of an accident involving the youngster.

Pitcher Bill Lee In The Headlines

Boston Red Sox pitcher Bill Lee made headlines in the current edition of The Sporting News. "Red Sox Learning to Like Talkative Lee," says the head over the story about the southpaw pitcher who prepped at Terra Linda High School.

The story pointed out that Lee was not expected to be with the club this year and is now one of the regular starters. He is known as the Moon Man because of his "somewhat strange behavior," says the story by Larry Claflin.

Bill is not your everyday "straight." While talking to him before the start of a Red Sox-A's game last year in the Oakland Coliseum, I was told for the ninth time that he wanted to be a starter, not a reliever. Then he got a strange look in his eyes and looking around at the other players warming up on the field he said, "They don't like me here. I'm not conventional enough for them. Nobody in the front office likes me. It's not paranoia or anything, they just don't like me." But he had that strange look in his eyes.

According to the article in The Sporting News, Lee has admitted recently that he thinks of everything but the game when he is pitching. During a game he will carry on conversations on a variety of subjects, with his catcher, the batter, the umpire or maybe one of the fans.

The Red Sox last winter elected Lee as alternate player representative behind catcher Carlton Fisk. If he has to take Fisk's place as player rep things should be very interesting. Lee is not called Moon Man for nothing.

NAPA'S RON CERRUDO, whose parents Mr. and Mrs. John Cerrudo still live in San Rafael, yesterday won his first round match in the Benson and Hedges $50,000 match play championship at Southport, England. Ron, who is 83rd on the Professional Golfers Association money list with $13,024 earned this year, defeated Italian Baldo Dassu on the 19th hole.

WHAT TIMING! No sooner did the Giants publicity boys send out a news release about Willie McCovey approaching the 400th home run of his career than Big Mac went into a horrendous batting slump. Willie can't seem to buy a hit these days. Anyway, if Willie hits home run No. 400 (he has 393 now) in Candlestick Park, all fans at the game in which he reaches that plateau will be able to use their full-priced ticket stubs for a $1 discount on a ticket for any Giants' future game on the '73 schedule. If the homer comes on the road, the same deal will apply for fans who buy tickets for the first home game following the smash.

DICK CREIGHTON, baseball coach at Drake High, has been tabbed starting pitcher by Gary Hughes for the Marin Catholic alumni team which will take on the varsity Saturday at the school's field. Creighton was quite a ballplayer for the Wildcats in the early 50's and I hear he still has a "live" fastball.

Ralph Boccabella, is hoping to get back from watching little brother John and his Montreal teammates play against the Giants in time to get into the 3 p.m. alumni game. John won't make it to the game but is expected for the spaghetti feed that evening.

Blue lasted only two innings against Texas Wednesday night before his teammates rallied from a 5-2 deficit to an 8-6 victory. It was the fifth win in six games with Texas this season and lifted Oakland into a tie with Kansas City for third place in the American League West.

Blue was bombed for five runs and three hits while failing to go the distance for the sixth time in eight starts. Dave Nelson drilled a two-run homer off him to cap the Rangers' five-run second inning.

"But I'm not discouraged," he said. "Look at the other pitchers in the league. What's Dave McNally ... 3-6 ... and (Mickey) Lolich (2-5)? It's just one of those things."

Horacio Pina took over for Blue and allowed only one run and four hits over the next five innings to pick up the win, his fourth against a single loss.

Bill North singled home Rick McKinney from third base in the sixth inning following a costly, two-base throwing error by first baseman Bill Sudakis to snap a 6-6 tie. A sacrifice fly by Bert Campaneris later in the inning closed the scoring.

"I'll be glad to see him throw harder," said Williams. "He threw the ball hard tonight but got it up a little and they got five runs. We have other pitchers so I decided to use them. Pina and Rollie Fingers did an excellent job in keeping the Rangers in check."

In an effort to rest Sal Bando, Gene Tenace and Joe Rudi, Williams started McKinney at third base, designated hitter Deron Johnson at first and Mike Hegan in the outfield.

"Everybody will be back at their normal positions Friday night when we open our road trip in Detroit," said Williams.

Bando was used as the designated hitter Wednesday night and responded by slamming a three-run homer and a double and scoring twice.

Hegan bruised his knee chasing down a hit in the second inning but he said he'll be ready to go against the Tigers.

The A's enjoy an off day today before opening a 10-game road trip that also takes them to New York and Boston.

OVER GIRLS PLAY

Fight Goes On In Li'l League

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jenny Fulle, a 10-year-old fifth grader from Mill Valley, got so peeved she wrote a letter to the White House, marked "personal" to President Nixon.

A blonde leftfielder who could run, hit and slide with the best of them, she complained she wanted to play Little League baseball but they wouldn't let her. It was against the rules.

"It made me mad," said the 5-foot,100-pound girl.

"There are lots of girls who want to play and lots of boys who want us to play. I agree with almost everything I know about women's lib."

The letter was turned over to the Office of Civil Rights, which promised a full investigation to see if Jenny was a victim of discrimination.

In Ypsilanti, Mich., a whole city went on the warpath when pig-tailed, 12-year-old Carolyn King was barred — because of her sex — from a local Little League team. There were threats of carrying the case to the courts — all the way to the Supreme Court, if necessary.

A team in Concord, N.C., is facing suspension from the Babe Ruth League for playing a 13-year-old girl, Yvonne Burch, but another Babe Ruth team in Schenectady, N.Y., is taking no chances and is refusing to play Sheila O'Donnell, 13, although her mother insists, "Sheila can throw and catch a ball like any 3-year-old boy."

Female tykes in braids and with braces on their teeth are creating new waves in the women's lib movement. They are causing great concern among stodgy grown-up men who insist rules are rules and girls have no business playing certain games with boys.

"We are getting a tremendous amount of mail on the subject," said Robert Sirrat, director of public relations for the Little League. "At first, it was heavily weighted against our action in barring girls, accusing us of sexual discrimination.

"Now it has levelled off somewhat, with the reaction mixed, but our directors have taken a firm stand that there is no place for girls in the Little League. We are considering establishment of a special league for girls."

That may not suit Jenny and Carolyn but, as of the moment, they are fighting a losing battle.

"Baseball is a contact sport," said Stirrat. "It can be hazardous. We have a five-page medical report which points out that girls are incapable of competing on the same level with boys. Their bones are more vulnerable, their reactions slower."

The Little League, played by 2.5 million youngsters 12 years old and under, all boys, in 8,500 leagues in 31 countries, was supported in its stand by the Babe Ruth League, with 300,000 players from 9 to 15 and 14,000 leagues in 16 countries.

Stiratt, the Little League publicist, said there had been scattered applications by girls over the years since the league was formed in 1939, but nothing to compare with the current uproar.

Leslie Robin Williams, 7, filed an application, paid her $4 and became a regular third baseman with the Centreville, Va., team in the T-Ball League, a circuit for children aged 5 to 8 and intended to prepare the youngsters for Little League ball. They have 13 players on a side, hit the ball off a tee and play only three innings.

Leslie, a second grade student, quickly made the team and her coach, Ken Roberts, was stunned when he got a telephone call from higher officials and said Leslie had to be dropped from the squad.

Pond, Louie Omitted From All-Star Team

The names of Bob Louie and Jeff Pond were omitted from yesterday's story on the Marin County Athletic League all-star baseball team due to a typographical error.

Pond, a junior first baseman from Novato High School, and Louie, an infielder from San Marin, were named to the second team by the league's coaches Tuesday.

Singer, Braves' Skipper In Duet

Combined AP & UPI

ATLANTA — In between cloudbursts, Atlanta Braves Manager Eddie Mathews and country music star Loretta Lynn warbled "You Are My Sunshine."

But it didn't work—even with Mathews strumming a guitar. Moments later the Braves met the San Francisco Giants—for exactly four minutes before another deluge halted play. After a one hour, 12 minute delay, and after the ground crew had rolled and unrolled the huge tarp at least a half a dozen times, the game was postponed.

It was the third rainout at home this season for the Braves, who hoped the Loretta Lynn show would help hypo the sagging attendance. And it had the makings of a good crowd, but those who did show up spent most of the night running for cover almost as often as did the ground crew.

Mathews, parked in his office after the game was called, nonetheless was pleased with the way things have been going lately.

The poor start the Braves have experienced, winning 16 and dropping 23 for a next-to-last-place position in the National League West and nine games behind the Giants, he said, is "a temporary thing."

"I think this club is playing good ball, excellent ball," Mathews said. "Sure, we've made some mental mistakes, but now we're scoring runs. Still, those mistakes are overshadowing everything else. But we're not making the same mistakes twice. They're learning: I'm learning. I think I'm getting smarter."

The Giants are 3-5 on the current road trip and 10-11 for the month, but they retained their one-game hold on first place when Houston lost at Cincinnati, 4-3 Wednesday night.

The Braves and Giants will reschedule the rained out game for a later date and plan to go with the same pitchers, Ron Reed and Sam McDowell in Thursday night's finale. Reed pitched to one batter Wednesday night. He walked Bobby Bonds, who promptly stole second. Then the rains came.

MUNICH ROW REVISITED

Coach Wright Raps Cosell Interview

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was Stan Wright's "Watergate", but even in this era of "coming clean" the Olympic sprint coach was unable to completely vindicate himself from the debacle of Munich this past summer when sprinters Rey Robinson and Eddie Hart were disqualified after reporting late for their heats.

Wright, while emphasizing he was not seeking vindication in the now infamous schedule foul-up, nonetheless singled out ABC sportscaster Howard Cosell for what he called a "misleading and derogatory" interview following the incident.

But when questioned about why only his two sprinters were late for the event, Wright answered: "I am still at a loss to explain it. All I can say is that of the other coaches I talked to, many of them said they were lucky to have gotten their athletes there on time themselves. No one, to my knowledge, had the right time schedule."

Wright, while stating a lawsuit against Cosell and ABC would require too much money and time, then outlined in a four-page press release what he considered numerous incorrect and misleading facts that Cosell said during the interview. Included were comments by Cosell that Robinson had labelled Wright "the culprit" in the entire affair and that the Paris Edition of the Herald Tribune listed the correct starting time of the 100-meter heats.

"I have here a copy of that Herald Tribune edition which Mr. Cosell said had the correct starting time," Wright said, "and as you can see it does not carry the schedule."

"Further, to my mind, the worst thing Mr. Cosell said during the interview was that Rey Robinson called me the culprit. This was simply not so and that comment was a disservice to this young athlete."

WHA Cougars Land Maggs, Goalie Newton

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association today announced the signing of two National Hockey League players, wing Darryl Maggs of the California Seals and goalie Cam Newton of the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Both signed multiyear contracts, director of player personnel Jacques Demers said.

Maggs, 24, formerly played with the Chicago Black Hawks and said he was "looking forward to playing" in front of Chicago fans again. "There is an atmosphere toward hockey in Chicago that a player doesn't find in California."

Maggs scored seven goals and 15 assists during the 1972-73 NHL season, while the previous year he had 14 goals and 36 assists with the Dallas Black Hawks minor league team.

MacArthur's Entered In Softball Tourney

MacArthur's Tavern of San Anselmo will be in the record-breaking field of 64 teams which will begin play Saturday in the second annual Concord Amateur Softball Association Slow-Pitch Softball Tournament at the Willow Pass Park diamond complex.

MacArthur's opening-round foe will be Green Barn of Chico. The teams will play 34 games each Saturday, Sunday and Monday and will continue the following weekend, the title to be determined June 3.

Wristwrestle Queen In Surge To Crown

By BETTY HOPPER

SEATTLE (AP) — Jill Edwards went from novice to world's champion in seven flicks of an uneducated wrist, and she's the most surprised person of all.

"It's really kind of a gas, isn't it?" the 18-year-old blonde bookkeeper said after winning the women's World Wrist Wrestling Championship in Petaluma last weekend.

Jill won the Northwest championship at Pasco, Wash., last March in three matches and defeated four opponents at Petaluma.

"I don't know why my arm is strong because I never trained or lifted weights or anything," Jill said. "I was in gymnastics in high school, which may sort of contributed, but trampoline was my thing and that doesn't really do much for your arm.

"I used to sail a lot, like small open boats, and you use your arms there," added Jill, whose family moved to Seattle from Victoria, B.C., about five years ago.

Wrist wrestling contests in Petaluma began as entertainment for the patrons of Diamond Mike Gilardi's tavern in 1953, and a decade later evolved into the world championships. About 400 persons competed this year in the Veterans Memorial Building, and the televised finals drew a crowd of 3,000.

Doctorate For Former Rams' Star Towler

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dan Towler, a bruising ball-carrier for the Los Angeles Rams, 1950-56, has earned a doctorate in education at the University of California, it was announced Wednesday.

Towler was known as "Deacon" during his playing days and has been a chaplain at Cal State Los Angeles and pastor of the Lincoln Avenue Methodist Church in Pasadena, Calif.

He wrote his doctoral dissertation on "The Secularization of Higher Education in the United States as Reflected in the Inaugural Addresses of Selected College and University Presidents from 1860 to 1972."

Coach Tangles With Hair, Bible Principle Issues

By LEW CODDINGTON

Athletes who grow long hair have always known they'd be letting themselves in for an occasional snide wisecrack here and there, but up to now, I bet they didn't realize they're going against the natural order of the universe and defying the will of God.

Setting them straight on this point is Tony Simpson, head football coach of Northshore Junior High in Galena Park, Tex., writing in the May issue of "Texas Coach." United Press International recorded his comments for posterity.

"It is time that American coaches stopped allowing themselves to be personally represented by male athletic teams and individuals that look like females.

"It is time that American coaches realized that a male's hair is not just an American tradition but an issue involving Biblical principals (sic); time that coaches stopped rationalizing and compromising their common sense; time to show the American athlete that his most valuable characteristic is not physical ability but respect for authority . . .

"A good hair code will get the abnormals out of athletics before they become coaches and bring their losers' standards into the coaching profession . . .

"A male with long hair is a sign of rejection of authority — his own authority over himself as well as the authority of the laws of the establishment. Under the laws of the establishment, God designed the male to dominate the woman just as He designed Christ to dominate man," and that long hair on women represented a sign of submission and that man's short hair was a sign of authority over women.

I'm glad Simpson informed us of this, because we certainly would never have realized it otherwise.

Those Marin coaches present at Tuesday night's banquet who had heard of the article were duly appalled by its statements, but perhaps not as appalled as they were at the statement of featured speaker Dave Meggyesy, who said after the dinner that his travels across the country had convinced him that Simpson's beliefs were widely held among coaches and that Simpson was "a spokesman."

END OF THE LINE — Most of the time, baseball scores are phoned in by the respective coaches, but sometimes they are delegated to a reliable student. Two of the most reliable, Bill Kappelman of Redwood and Dave Bare of Tamalpais, will graduate next month.

Both have been reporting scores ever since I got here two years ago. Having broken me in, they are now ready to go to college: Bare to Pacific and Kappelman to USC.

GRACIOUS HOST — According to a list furnished by the North Coast Section after its meeting last week, several important post-season meets will be held in Marin next school year.

They include the NCS Division III cross-country meet Nov 20 at an undetermined site, the Division II swim meet May 4 at Redwood (hosted by Terra Linda), and the NCS track and field meet May 25 at College of Marin (hosted by Terra Linda).

SOME TENNIS — As might be expected, Redwood High School's various No. 1 tennis players were undefeated against MCAL foes going into today's final match. Steve DeMartini is 9-0, Mark Strasser 2-0, Matt Khourie 1-0 and Bruce Manheim 1-0 for a combined 13-0.

Records of other No. 1 players are John Doherty of Marin Catholic 10-3, Doug Carlisle of Terra Linda 10-3, Mark Sabella of San Rafael 6-6 (Bill Sockolov is 1-0), Gene Lachelt of Drake 5-8, Jeff Edwards of Tamalpais 4-8 (Steve Livingston is 0-1), San Marin's three players 3-10 and Novato's three players 0-13.

SOME GOLF — According to Terra Linda coach Bill O'Bayley, who keeps the figures, 11 golfers were averaging 40 strokes or less for nine holes — Steve Gaddis of Tamalpais, Gregg Cudworth of Terra Linda, Jim Vaughan of Novato, Jeff Bordalampe of Redwood, Rick Anderson of Novato, John Fahrner of San Rafael, Doug Henderson of Novato, Rich Purtle of Terra Linda, Doug Talley of Terra Linda, Steve Taylor of San Rafael and Larry Cartmill of Terra Linda.

Nicklaus Is Favored In Atlanta Golf

ATLANTA (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus went into today's opening round of the $150,000 Atlanta Golf Classic as the favorite on the simple reasoning that whenever the "Golden Bear" plays, he almost automatically becomes the man to beat.

Of course Nicklaus doesn't win all the time; that would be asking too much, even for a man of his talent. But he's seldom out of contention.

Nicklaus played in only nine of 20 previous tournament this year and he has already won $146,000 —an average of better than $16,000 per tournament.

In those nine outings, he posted three victories (Crosby, New Orleans, and the Tournament of Champions); tied for second in the Hope; tied for third in the Masters and was sixth at Los Angeles and in the Gleason at Inverrary.

Today was Nicklaus' first tournament round since winning the Tournament of Champions on April 22.

"I find I play better golf when I space my tournaments out," said Nicklaus in explaining why he has skipped 11 tournaments so far this year.

Nicklaus returned to the tour here this week to start tuning his game for the U.S. Open three weeks hence. Winner of 47 tournaments and more than $1.8 million in 11 years as a professional golfer, Nicklaus wants the U. S. Open to break his tie with the late Bobby Jones for most "major" titles (13).

Nicklaus has plenty of competition here this week, including South African Gary Player who is making his 1973 U. S. debut after a prolonged layoff forced by an operation.

Player was second here last year, two strokes behind winner Bob Lunn, and third in each of the three previous Atlanta Classics. Nicklaus lost the 1971 Atlanta title in a playoff with his Florida neighbor Gardner Dickinson.

Nicklaus could regain this year's money lead by winning here this week. He currently trails Bruce Crampton by more than $21,000, but Crampton isn't playing here. Neither are Lee Trevino nor Arnold Palmer.

Eighteen of the top 25 money winners, including Dave Hill who won last week at Memphis, and Billy Casper are present for the four day grind.

Seals' Smith Joins WHA

Combined AP & UPI

OAKLAND — The California Golden Seals, who lost many of their stars to the World Hockey Association last season, have lost another player to the WHA.

Defenseman Rick Smith signed with the Minnesota Fighting Saints Wednesday for a reported $75,000 annual salary.

Most of the key Seals already have signed with the team for next season.

Still unsigned, however, are defensemen Darryl Maggs, also reportedly WHA-bound, and forwards Ivan Boldirev, Stan Gilbertson and Ted McAneeley.

More Hockey

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Flyers announced Wednesday that coach Fred Shero's contract has been extended through the 1975-76 National Hockey League season.

Shero, last season, guided the Flyers to a second-place finish in the NHL West. Shero's original three-year contract was due to expire at the end of next season.

NEW YORK — Camille Henry, coach of the New York Raiders of the World Hockey Association today signed another one-year contract. Henry coached the Raiders to a 33-43-2 record last season, good for a sixth place finish in the Eastern Division of the WHA.

Football

DALLAS — The judge who handed pro football star Lance Rentzel a five-year probated sentence in 1971 on an indecent exposure charge says he wants Rentzel to return to court and explain a recent conviction in California on a marijuana possession charge.

Judge John Mead said, however, he would delay asking Rentzel to return until after action is taken on Rentzel's appeal of a 90-day jail sentence handed down in the California case

OAKLAND — Bob Mischak, assistant athletic director and offensive line coach at Army for the past seven years, has joined the Oakland Raiders as administrative coach.

Mischak, 40, played for the Raiders from 1963 to 1965. He'll be used primarily in personnel and scouting work.

"I'm excited about returning to pro football and my family is quite excited about returning to the Bay Area," Mischak said Wednesday.

Tennis

PARIS — Second-seeded Chris Evert of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. easily defeated Australia's Marilyn Tesch, 6-1, 6-0 in the women's singles play of the $150,000 French Open Tennis Championships today. In action Wednesday, Margaret Court of Australia defeated Pam Teeguarden of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-2.

Baseball

WASHINGTON — Sen. James P. Pearson, R-Kans. feels they're picking on U.S. amateur sports again. Pearson said Wednesday the International Amateur Swimming Federation may suspend American swimmers if they insist on competing in a series of Chinese exhibition meets.

Top Choice Of Braves Is Balking

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The National Basketball Association Buffalo Braves planned to dine on Kentucky fried chicken and Italan meatballs today to celebrate the signing of the No. 1 draft pick, Ernie DiGregorio.

Instead, the feast and a scheduled news conference were canceled because "problems have arisen" in finalizing a contract with Ernie D.

DiGregorio was scheduled to arrive in Buffalo Wednesday night for a team physical and sign his multi-year pact with the NBA club today.

The plane arrived but he wasn't on it.

At last reports, team owner Paul Snyder and General Manager Eddie Donovan were in New York conducting additional sessions with DiGregorio and his lawyer. A team spokesman said there would be no further comment "until the problems are resolved."

Snyder told a Wednesday morning news conference that the club and the six-foot guard from Providence had reached an agreement in principle and DiGregorio had "accepted."

The little guard was scheduled to be at Wednesday's press session but he did not show because he was still involved in lengthy negotiations with the Kentucky Colonels of the rival American Basketball Association.

Golfer Crampton Dreams Of $200,000

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — In each of the past five years Bruce Crampton of Australia has won more than $100,000 on the PGA golf tour. In January he won the Phoenix and Tucson Opens and collected $30,000 for each victory. Now he's thinking of earning $200,000 on tour in 1973.

"When you start that way," says the 37-year-old Crampton, "you have to give the rest of the year some thought. I'm thinking about winning $200,000. I might even do what Jack Nicklaus did last yar and win more than $300,000.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

'Killer's' Bat Aids Twins

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

For a team not many expected to be among the contenders in the American League West this year, the Minnesota Twins are doing a pretty good job of holding their own.

And it probably would not be too far off to suggest that much of their current success is the result of a hot bat by "washed up" 36-year old Harmon Killebrew.

Killebrew, a month shy of his next birthday and saying "I'm feeling as fit as ever," has been wielding a hot bat the last few days to raise an anemic batting average to a level of respectability.

The "Killer," who owns the fourth highest home run total in baseball history (543), rapped out two singles and a double against Kansas City Wednesday night, giving him six hits in the last 10 at bats, and with three RBI's paced the Twins to an 8-6 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

The triumph was the Twins' third straight, ninth in their last 12 games and enabled them to remain only 3 ½ games behind the first place Chicago White Sox. The Royals, who collected 16 hits but left 14 runners on base, had a chance to tie the game in the seventh but Cookie Rojas was thrown out at home trying to score from first on Amos Otis' two-out single.

In other AL action, Chicago dumped California 5-3, New York edged Detroit 6-5, Boston beat Milwaukee 5-3, Oakland defeated Texas 8-6 and Cleveland at Baltimore was rained out.

In the NL, Cincinnati nipped Houston 4-3, Chicago beat Montreal 4-2 in 10 innings, San Diego downed Los Angeles 4-3 and St. Louis at New York, Pittsburgh at Philadelphia and San Francisco at Atlanta were rained out.

Carlos May's three-run homer capped a four-run seventh inning that gave Chicago and reliever Terry Forster the victory over the Angels and Bill Singer.

May, troubled by a muscle strain in his left thigh which has allowed him to serve only as a designated hitter three times since May 12, homered after consecutive singles by Ken Henderson, Dick Allen and Bill Melton produced a run.

Matty Alou doubled with two out in the ninth inning to score Gene Michael from second as the Yankees beat Detroit.

Joe Coleman (8-3) gave up a single to Michael to open the ninth. Michael was bunted to second before Alou's double.

Royals Call Up Angelini, Sign 2nd Pick Davis

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Kansas City Royals today bolstered their pitching stable by calling up lefthander Norm Angelini from their Omaha farm club and signing 19-year-old righthander Brad Davis, assigned to the Billings, Mont., club.

Angelini, 25, has pitched nine games in relief at Omaha, compiling a 1-1 record and two saves plus a 2.14 ERA. In 21 1-3 innings he has struck out 28 batters.

While with the Royals for the last 2 ½ months of last season. he compiled a 2-1 record with two saves and a 2.25 ERA in 21 games.

Angelini was to join the team today at Minnesota, bringing Kansas City up to its 25-man limit.

Spahn Wins Big

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Hall of Famer Warren Spahn won a total of 363 major league victories during his 21-year National League tenure, mostly with the Braves of Boston and Milwaukee. Spahn concluded his major league career with the New York Mets.

PREP STATISTICS

San Marin's Nagel Wins Batting Title

Marty Nagel of San Marin High School, who went two for two in the season's final game Saturday night, won the batting championship of the Marin County Athletic League with his effort.

Nagel, a senior, lifted his average to .410 on 16 hits in 39 times at bat, according to statistics compiled by the Independent-Journal. He edged John Sims of San Rafael (.395), Matt Gondak of champion Redwood (.385), and teammate George Hoberg (.382), who entered the game hitting .406 but went zero for two.

Gondak led the league in doubles with five and tied teammates Mike Connor and Gene Frey (a pitcher) for the lead in triples with two. Jeff Pond of Novato and Dave Thomsett of Tamalpais tied for the home run lead with two.

Hoberg won the runs-batted-in title with 14, three more than Pond, while Lance Loughlin of San Rafael led in runs scored with 12. Rich Lopez of Marin Catholic had the most hits, 17.

San Rafael's Mike Farris, sidelined since April 24 with an arm injury, won the earned-run-average title with 1.35. Novato's Ray Stratford hurled a shutout Saturday night at San Marin to tie Farris for the lead in victories with five and tie four other pitchers for the shutout lead with two. Redwood's Frey, Mark Ruggles and Ed Andersen threw two shutouts each.

Sims was the only player to rank in the top ten in both batting and pitching. He completed every game he started and led the league in route-going performances with seven. Marin Catholic's Joe Ducey completed six games and was the strikeout leader with 58.

Drake's Don Asay led in appearances (12) and innings pitched (51) in the 14-game season. San Marin's Tom Bowen started nine games to lead in that department.

Redwood Awards To Connor

Mike Connor, Redwood High School super athlete, practically needed a wheelbarrow to carry all the awards which were bestowed upon him last night at the Redwood High School All Sports Banquet put on by the Redwood Benchwarmers before 260 persons at Dominic's Restaurant, San Rafael.

Connor won the Mike Kavanagh Memorial Award for the graduating senior athlete who has contributed most to his team, school and community, and the E.E. Boyden Award as the outstanding senior athlete, first time in the school's history the same athlete won both awards.

Possessor of a 3.97 (4 point is perfect) grade point average, Connor won senior scholastic awards in baseball, basketball and football. He also won captain awards in those three sports.

Scott Hickman won the Brian Brown Memorial Award which goes to the outstanding sophomore athlete. It was the first year for the award, named in honor of a Redwood athlete who died in an electrical accident in April of 1972. He was a sophomore at the time of his death.

Other senior scholastic award winners:

After the other gals in her threesome hit their shots from the tee, Nancy teed another ball and bam, right in the cup 152 yards away. After taking the two-stroke penalty for hitting in the lake on the first ball, Mrs. Menary disgustedly penciled in her "3" on the scorecard.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

Dangerous Curves

By LEE TREVINO

Yep, there are some dangerous curves on a golf course, but you can duck a lot of trouble by hitting an intentional draw. A draw is a controlled hook.

I don't hit an intentional hook like most pros. They change their hands and feet — turn the V's to the right and close their stance. You can hook a ball that way, but it may take a wrong turn at Altoona.

I hook with a "quit" shot. I slow my downswing and turn my hands over at impact. This spins the ball to the left and the result is a hook.

Swing easier than you normally do. To insure a smooth stroke, I suggest using more club — a 5-iron instead of a 6. Don't try to force it.

Line up with a tree or shrub to the right of the target, then shoot at it. Or draw an imaginary line along the trajectory.

An intentional draw usually is a trouble shot. You're either trying to skirt some trees or a boundary has you jittery. That's when the lefthand curve looks good to a happy hooker.

Final Indy 500 Dress Run Today

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) The final dress rehearsal for Monday's Indianapolis 500-mile auto race was scheduled today with the traditional carburetion tests at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

This was the only chance this week for the drivers and crews to test their finely tuned, turbocharged engines under raceday conditions.

The great majority of the 33 starters were expected to participate in the three-hour practice, running with full fuel loads and testing their chassis setups.

The final practice, under the watchful eyes of chief steward Harland Fengler and his corps of officials from the United States Auto Club, was to be followed by pit rehearsals for two more hours — but with engines silent.

This session consisted mostly of pit strategy and tire changing. Then the famed 2½-mile oval will be closed until Monday's race.

KNBA radio station, 1190 on the AM dial, will broadcast the Indy 500 race live, starting at 8:15 a.m. Monday.

Most of the drivers have indicated they plan to run final practice at racing speeds — anywhere from 188 to 192 miles per hour. The fastest lap in competition last year was run by race winner Mark Donohue at 187.539 m.p.h. Thus, barring major accidents which slow the pace of the field, the million-dollar Memorial Day race was expected to be the fastest by far.

Mauch's Kudos To Clemente's Skills

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Gene Mauch of the Montreal Expos says he never saw a baseball player do all the things Roberto Clemente could do.

"And you know," said Mauch, "they never can make a movie about Clemente because nobody around is good enough to play his part."

Clemente, who lost his life with four other men in a plane crash off San Juan on New Year's Eve, will be inducted posthumously into baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., on Monday, August 6.

22ND YEAR WITH 49ERS

Mill Valley Man On 'Chain Gang'

By RON LENT

A Mill Valley man who joined the National Football League in 1952 with the San Francisco 49ers is looking forward to the start of his 22nd season this fall.

Chain man Jean A. Wegscheider boasts: "I broke in with (sterling halfback Hugh) McElhenny in 1952 and I've been with it ever since. I love it."

Wegscheider, 48, is a member of the three-man chain gang which serves at all 49er home games by spotting the place of the football and denoting the down plus the yardage needed for the next first down.

The 5-foot-7, 145-pound Wegscheider has only performed these duties on the sidelines at Candlestick Park and Kezar Stadium. "I've never officiated in any other capacity. I've never officiated in college or high school."

He is content with his Sunday job and his duties with the Mill Valley post office. "I'm a mailman, and I enjoy it." True, he likes his vocation, but Wegscheider professes passion for his avocation.

"I've been going to 49er games since 1946 when they started. And I got my (NFL) job quite by accident. Jack O'Brien (also of Mill Valley) had the job before me, but he had to give it up; so, he asked me if I wanted to do it.

"I took the job just to see how it would work out, and I immediately became an avid 49er fan." He confesses that probably the toughest part of the job is "remembering you're working for the NFL and you're not a spectator. You've got to move along as the game progresses and stay out of the way."

GETTING READY — National Football League game official Gene Wegscheider of Mill Valley adjusts his uniform cap as he awaits the start of the new season at Candlestick Park where he is a member of the chain gang.

Keeping out of the line of fire is no easy matter — just ask Jean. As he recalls: "My most embarrassing moment happened one year when (quarterback) Y. A. Tittle was rolling out on a broken play. I became transfixed as Y. A. ran towards the sidelines looking for a receiver. He finally crashed into me, he and I and the chain got all tangled up. Y. A. suffered some nasty scratches on his throwing arm, and he gave me what-for."

Wegscheider got a reminder of this scene Nov. 12 last year when Baltimore visited the 49ers at Candlestick. "Bubba Smith (injured defensive end) came up to us and said, 'Remember what happened to me in Tampa; stay out of the way.'" The massive Colt star was sidelined for the season with a leg injury when he collided with the chain and the "gang" during an exhibition game in August.

Another Colt star also has had words with Wegscheider. When the late Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscomb was with the Colts, he always managed to show his sense of humor. During a Colt-49ers game in the late 1950s, "I was kneeling down in front of their (Colt) bench when I heard a voice over my shoulder — 'I saw you move that chain.' I looked up and there was Gene smiling. He was the most awesome looking football player I've ever seen. What else could I do but smile back!" says Wegscheider.

Injuries are also a part of the game, and, in his 22 years, Wegscheider has had his share. The most poignant one was inflicted several years back at Kezar when John David Crow, a wily old halfback, was confronted with Chicago Bear defensive back Dave Whitsell.

"Crow was running along the sidelines," he continues, "but he knew Dave had the angle on him so he just fell down. At that moment, Whitsell sailed through the air and speared me with his helmet. I was wearing the Chicago Bears emblem on my chest for the next couple of weeks."

The life-long Marinite also learned a lesson on alertness from former 49er quarterback and coach Frankie Albert. "I was the front man on the crew when our chain got tangled — only we didn't know it. The other team advanced the ball for what looked like a first down, but Albert came over and noticed that the chain extended only nine and one-half yards in front of the 49er bench. We unravelled the chain, and they were forced to punt."

A graduate of Tamalpais High School and San Francisco State, Wegscheider says his favorite players were fullback Joe Perry and McElhenny, and his most exciting season was 1957 when the 49ers tied for the Western Division crown only to lose a heartbreaking playoff, 31-27, to Detroit.

All these represent fine memories for a 49er game official and fan who eagerly awaits the opening kickoff for a promising 1973 grid season.

Two Held For Theft In Tiburon

Tiburon police said today they have arrested two persons in connection with the theft of $3,000 worth of stereo equipment and recovered $1,200 of the loot.

Arrested yesterday morning was Howard Earl Rhodd, 23, of no known address. Police said a 17-year-old Tiburon youth was arrested Tuesday.

Officers said an investigation into the theft from the home of Paul E. Lyme on Loma Lane revealed Rhodd had received some of the goods and he was arrested yesterday in a stake out on Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael.

Rhodd then led officers to a home he had been staying at in Novato, where equipment valued at $1,200 was found.

He was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary, held in lieu of $10,000 bail and scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said the youth they arrested is suspected of doing the actual burglary and they don't think Rhodd entered the house. The youth was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of burglary. His identity was withheld on standing order of Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court.

Alien Spaceman Said Buried In Texas Grave

AURORA, Tex. (UPI) — A grave in a small north Texas cemetery contains the body of an 1897 astronaut who "was not an inhabitant of this world," according to the International UFO Bureau.

The group, which investigates unidentified flying objects, has already initiated legal proceedings to exhume the body, and will go to court if necessary to open the grave, director Hayden Hewes said Wednesday.

"We hope by exhuming the body we may obtain some of the same type of unusual metal from either his clothing or bones that was unearthed at the well site when we checked it with metal detectors," he said.

Hewes said pieces of metal found near the grave and crash site are now being analyzed by scientists.

July 4 Landing On Mars Is Set

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — Earthly plans for America's 200th birthday party may have bogged down, but the space agency is preparing a Martian spectacular for July 4, 1976.

Dr. Harold Klein, director of life sciences at NASA's Ames Research Center, said the agency hopes to parachute an unmanned spacecraft to the surface of Mars on that date.

When the Viking capsule comes to rest, the U.S. will begin its first comprehensive search for life on the fourth planet.

West Marinites In Favor Of Resident Deputy Idea

By ANNE WEST

While impressions of unequal treatment by law enforcement officers in West Marin were aired last night, a possible solution to such a feeling — resident deputies — appeared doomed by the taxation it would require.

Complaints, their cause and their resolution, were hashed out last night in Point Reyes Station by about 50 civilians and representatives of the law session sponsored by the Marin County police-Community Relations Department.

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos told the assemblage that whenever it is proposed to increase the number of deputies to provide resident officers, complaints of "double taxation" by the cities force the county supervisors to back off.

Providing resident deputies would mean tripling the 14 officers now serving West Marin in order to give each officer an eight-hour shift, he explained. The cities argue that they pay for their own police force and they object to increases in their county taxes to pay for more police protection in unincorporated area, Mountanos said.

"About two million city people come to our area each year to fish, boat, and see the parks," argued Michael Hawley of Point Reyes Station from the audience. He said that for city people to say they stay in the cities and never come to West Marin is "strictly asinine."

Asked about the area covered by the West Marin sheriff's substation, Sheriff's Lt. William Johansen said it includes about three-fourths of the county. (He said after the meeting that the permanent resident population totals about 10,000 people, but the tourist population on one weekend day can go as high as 50,000.)

Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini said he endorses a resident deputy system because he feels West Marin is "definitely understaffed," but that every time the suggestion was put forward "there is a hue and cry from the cities."

Lee C. Richardson of Inverness said that while he favors the idea of resident deputies, he pays "a vast amount" of taxes already. "I'm not sure I can afford any more federal, state, or county taxes for protection and I wish you'd keep that in mind," Richardson said.

One man in the audience asked about the possibility for combining all city and county forces into one countywide police force and Mountanos replied he hoped a survey could be made on the possibility.

Charges of unequal enforcement of laws were raised by Inverness residents Fred Bauer and Frank Cerda and Susanna Jacob of Inverness Park. "We see this all the time, how longhairs are ticketed and straight folks aren't," declared Bauer. he offered to provide evidence and was invited by Mountanos to meet with either him or Lieutenant Johansen.

Cerda questioned Johansen on an alleged statement that "90 per cent of the crime in West Marin is caused by hippies." Johansen replied that his statement referred to the Bolinas-Stinson Beach area where he believes that to be true.

Johansen continued, amid laughter from some of the audience, that "a majority of hardcore hippies is coming into this area from other areas where warrants of arrest are pending against them."

Mrs. Jacob complained that teen-agers are often stopped and questioned by police in situations where adults would be left alone. "Young people out here are growing up with the idea that they don't have a firm grip on their civil rights," she said.

California Highway Patrol officers James C. Dukes and Eric Denton fielded questions on enforcement of traffic laws. The meeting was moderated by William Scalapino of the College of Marin.

Pump For Grass Fires Purchased

The Novato Fire Protection District board last night awarded a contract for a pump unit for a grass fire rig, according to Chief Jack W. Kidder.

The contract was awarded to Western Fire Co., lone bidder, at a cost of $45,787.

The board will have a closed meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at Fire Station No. 3 to instruct its representative, Chief Jack Kidder on salary negotiations with the Novato Professional Firemen's Association, which will be meeting in a separate room at the station. A state conciliator will be present as a mediator.

Condition Improved Of Bridge Employee

A Golden Gate Bridge employee seriously injured in a traffic accident Tuesday was improving today, according to Marin General Hospital spokesmen.

Earl H. Scheurman, 25, of Sonoma, was struck by an auto while attempting to retrieve a lane marker cone on Highway 101 near Marin City. Originally listed in critical condition, he was reported in satisfactory condition today.

Freeze Put On State Agencies Purchasing Of New Vehicles

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — All state agencies in California have been ordered not to purchase any new vehicles while a master plan is being developed to deal with possible gasoline shortages, Larence Robinson Jr., director of general services, said today.

The freeze on all vehicles except police cars will continue for "about 30 days," he said, while a study of compact, economy cars is being conducted.

Under the study, Robinson said, the feasibility of the state buying cars such as the Valiant, Vega, Pinto and Hornet instead of larger, more gas consuming cars would be considered.

"I think it's wise for us to anticipate a problem and be prepared for it," Robinson said. However, he added that "this is not a very meaningful freeze because most of the purchases (of vehicles) have been made already this year."

He said he had been asked to head an administration committee, suggested by Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, to deal with possible petroleum shortages affecting California's 30,000-vehicle fleet.

The committee, he said, would also considered as part of the master plan speed restrictions to conserve gasoline, and use of commercial buses instead of state cars for travel between cities.

The freeze was initiated Monday, Robinson said, although the state has not yet faced any gas delivery problems.

"We have inquired from our gasoline contractors as to their position on rationing. We haven't had answers yet because the letters have just gone out," he added.

"I think we're really feeling the impact now of the environmental problem resulting from not building new refineries in the United States for five years," he said. "The gasoline people have told us for five years that they have not been allowed to start construction on a new refinery."

TRUCKER ROPES HORSE

Commuters Are Treated To Wild West Display

Southbound commuters on Highway 101 at Corte Madera were treated to a mini rodeo yesterday as a lariat-swinging truck driver roped a horse galloping north in the south-bound lanes.

The great roundup of Corte Madera started at 8:35 a.m. when police were surprised to note a sleek brown horse grazing outside the police station in Town Park.

Two police cars tried to head off the horse, which galloped along Tamalpais Avenue to the Sizzler Steak House, back up Lucky Drive, on and off the freeway, round and round the Corte Madera Center and back on 101.

By this time, reported police, the unsuccessful roundup crew included one police chief, one police captain, one police sergeant, several patrolmen, a Larkspur police captain, a crossing guard, a Westinghouse security man, and a whole host of excited Corte Maderans.

As the mini rodeo charged around the shopping center Ballou (who later told police he had some experience roping) parked his truck, got out his lariat, and joined the chase.

He succeeded in roping the horse on the freeway near the Marin Municipal Water District offices, and a long backup of commute traffic finally went on its way to the city.

Corte Madera police turned the animal over to the Marin Humane Society. They guessed the horse — described as "beautiful, sleek, dark brown" — had wandered over from the grazing lands in the Scott Valley area of Mill Valley.

Hear Strange Sound? Find Trouble Source

Love of money in drivers can lead them astray, especially if they refuse to take care of minor car repairs.

When you hear a strange sound from your car engine, advises the National Automobile Club, get the source of trouble fixed immediately or learn a costly lesson in the future.

Motion Rejected In Houston Strike

HOUSTON (UPI) — A district judge rejected a motion yesterday to order the Port of Houston Authority to help end a longshoremen's strike that has shut down a grain elevator loading wheat for Russia.

The Louis Dreytus Corp. said the port should see the company has "peaceful and quiet use" of the elevator, District Judge W. Ervin James turned down the motion.

The elevator, which handles 20 per cent of the grain shipments for Russia, has been idled since May 8 except for one day.

Crosswalks For Pedestrians

To keep a vehicle from killing you, advises the National Automobile Club, use only those crosswalks designed for your safety at intersections.

Surplus In Trade Noted For April

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent announced today the United States registered a trade surplus in April of $193.6 million — its first in 18 months.

At a news conference, Dent said: "This is a constructive development from the standpoint of international markets." He cautioned however that "monthly figures are not necessarily indicative of longer trends."

The surplus was based on exports of $5,487,000,000, up 2 per cent from March, and imports of $5,291,000,000, down 2.6 per cent. Imports declined for the second successive month.

"Most of the favorable shift in the April trade balance resulted from a decline in the deficit with Canada," Bent said.

"The continued improvement in our trade position in April is thought to be significant since exports are showing considerable strength and imports are turning sluggish," he said.

"These trends indicate that the currency shifts of the past two years are having a stimulating effect on sales of U.S. made goods ... and are dampening our purchases of foreign products."

Dent added: "It is too early, however, to predict the extent of improvement in the trade balance for the year as a whole." He also cautioned of possible "perverse effects" of the dollar devaluation in February that "have not surfaced in the figures here."

Break-In Period

New tires need a short break-in period for maximum safety and wear. Staying under 60 miles per hour for the first 50 miles allows the body cords to adjust to the tread, the Tire Industry Safety Council explains.

Four Fail To File Campaign Forms

Four Marin County citizens who won school district board contests in the April 17 election will have to go to court before they can take office in July.

They are Jerrold M. Ladar, Tamalpais High School District; Gloria Riccardi, Kentfield; Carolyn L. Brown, Bolinas-Stinson, and Marilyn C. Marioni, Lagunitas.

The four failed to file the required campaign financial statements by the deadline Tuesday, according to Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer. Under state law, they must appear before a superior court judge and win a court order permitting late filing of their election contribution and spending statements, Meyer explained yesterday. Only then may they be declared legally elected.

Detailed financial statements are required if the candidate received more than $200 in contributions or spent more than $200 campaigning. Names of all campaign contributors must be listed but the amount they gave need only be listed if it was $500 or more, Meyer said.

If the candidate received or spent less than $200, only a brief document attesting this is required. But a court order still will be needed to file it late, Meyer said.

The statements filed before the deadline in Meyer's office showed Lotte Schiller, elected to the Tamalpais High School District Board, was the top spender among all the races. She listed campaign contributions of $1,414 and expenses of $1,402.50. A total of 5,959 votes was cast for Mrs. Schiller.

Maurine Ballard, who was edged out by Mrs. Schiller, received $168 in contributions but spent $1,198.28, and received 5,852 votes.

John G. Eliot Jr., re-elected to the Mill Valley board, received contributions of $1,080.03 and spent $1,168.25, receiving 2,805 votes. Dr. Thomas D. Spencer, also elected to the Mill Valley board, received and spent $1,076.09, according to his statement. He got 2,894 votes.

James Kimo Campbell, who ran fourth in an eight-way race for three seats on the Marin Community College District Board, reported contributions of $1,117.62 and expenses of $1,102.26. He was the only candidate to list a contribution exceeding $500 from any single source, $850 from Philip S. Ehrlich Jr.

All the rest of the candidates filing by Tuesday listed expenses of less than $1,000 and in many cases, less than $200.

In addition to the statements previously reported in the Independent-Journal, listed were, by districts:

Bolinas-Stinson — Susan F. Washington, under $200.

Dixie — Carol Kay Beckmann, no contributions, spent $289.39; Thomas Neal McNamara, no contributions, spent $216.43, and Janice W. Pechauer, no contributions, spent $226.34.

Fairfax — Joann R. Walla, $10 contributions, spent $344.50.

Kentfield — Winifred A. Setrakian, $265 contributions, spent $411.82; Joan N. Brownstein, $738.50 contributions, spent $725.61; Neil M. Park, under $200 and Gloria May Riccardi, $100 contributions, spent $249.87.

Lagunitas — Richard C. Sloan, under $200.

Marin Community College District — Alvin H. Buckelew, under $200; Joseph E. Doherty, $827.50 contributions, spent $822.01, and Elizabeth M. Deedy, under $200.

Novato — Mabel W. Croughan, Thomas J. Cleary and John D. Kassenbrock, each under $200.

Reed — Donald Furlong, no contributions, spent $290; John Jay Osborn, $535.25 contributions, spent $625.25; Robert K. Ockner, $431.40 contributions, spent $495.96, and Charles Patterson, $370 contributions, spent $319.40.

Ross — Thomas Guerin, no contributions, spent $263 and Elizabeth F. Way, under $200.

Tamalpais — Fred C. Hannahs, $385 contributions, spent $396 and Elaine S. Brockbank, $150 contributions, spent $331.85.

Uncontested elections — Affidavits showing contributions and expenses of less than $200 each were filed by Kenneth P. Kehoe, Shoreline Unified School District; Donald J. Moreda, Laguna; Charles W. Spaletta, Lincoln; Harold A. Drady, Nicasio, and Douglas J. Fancher, Sausalito.

Meyer said California Secretary of State Edmond G. Brown Jr. has warned that unsuccessful candidates who fail to file campaign expense statements are guilty of a misdemeanor, but that he knows of no prosecution ever happening in such event.

Salary Raises Said Not Enough

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California State Employes Association has urged a $10 million boost in the 1973-74 budget to bring them to "parity" with private industry.

The request was made yesterday to the State Personnel Board.

Walter Taylor, general manager of the 101,000-worker association, said the board's "spring salary survey data shows that private industry salaries rose at a faster rate between October 1972 and March 1973 than the SPB anticipated."

"As a result," he declared, "the 11.9 per cent average pay increase proposed for state employes beginning July 1 won't be enough to bring them to parity with salaries paid in private industry."

Macaroni Firm Slashes Prices

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Globe A1 Macaroni Co. struck a blow for inflation-battered shoppers Wednesday. As "an individual thrust" toward halting the rise in food costs, the company cut prices of more than 36 types of macaroni by 5 per cent.

"I hope that other food processors will follow suit," said sales manager Ron West. "The rollback in price is essential to the country's economy, and happily it doesn't adversely affect our present profit position." He said the price cut was made possible by a six month crash program to increase the efficiency of the macaroni making process.

One Mistake Is Always Plenty So Position Should Be Noted

West made just one mistake in the defense but it was enough. The position is worth remembering, but it takes courage to make the right play in actual combat.

JACK OPENING

West opened the jack of clubs, and South won with the king. South returned a low spade, West played low and dummy put up the ten.

When is West going to make that mistake? The alert reader will understand the meaning of this question. West has already made his fatal error.

East dared not win the first spade trick with the queen, for then South could take four more spade tricks by way of a second spade finesse.

REFUSES TRICK

East refused the trick, giving South only two spades instead of four. This left declarer in the dummy, in position to finesse with the queen of hearts.

The finesse worked, so South led a spade to dummy's ace and took another heart finesse. This gave declarer three heart tricks, and two tricks in each of the other suits — just enough for game.

SHOULD DEFEAT CONTRACT

West should put up the king of spades when that suit is first led. This play costs nothing, since West's king is worthless unless his partner has the queen. (If South has the queen of spades, he will surely finesse.)

If declarer wins the first spade with dummy's ace, he will never win another spade trick. What's more, he gets to dummy only once for a heart finesse.

South can do no better by refusing the first spade. A daring declarer might let West hold the king of spades and might later finesse with dummy's ten of spades in the hope that West started with K-Q-x.

This play would yield South no spades at all!

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1-NT (16-18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - A J 10 7 4
♥ - 7 2
♦ - 8 7 3 2
♣ - 6 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

You will probably be safer at a part score in spades than at 1-NT. If your partner always bids again in this situation, let him play the hand at 1-NT.

Charge Dismissed In Burglary Case

The prosecution said Lucas was not the person who smashed a window of the Accurate Television Shop at 1 Throckmorton Avenue on May 14, but was merely in the neighborhood when Mill Valley police responded to a silent alarm at the shop.

Major Facelifting Is Planned For The Nave Shopping Center

Nave Shopping Center at South Novato Boulevard and Center Road in Novato will get a major facelifting job this summer in conjunction with the opening there of Alpha Beta Market and Thrifty Drug Store late this year or early next year

Robert Nave, manager of the shopping center, said he will build a new 25,000-square-foot building between the old Purity Store and the existing post office to house a new Alpha Beta store. Alpha Beta's first Marin outlet opened in Larkspur last November.

Thrifty Drugs will take over the old Purity building, which will undergo extensive remodeling.

Nave estimated that construction and remodeling would begin in about three months, and he is shooting for completion by the end of this year or early 1974.

Other improvements planned in the nine-acre Nave Shopping Center include painting and clean-up of various buildings, overlay of the parking area, and upgrading of lighting including some new light standards in the parking lot.

When the remodeling and improvements are completed, the center will have room for additional businesses, said Nave. Existing businesses include a Standard station, post office, Sierra National Bank, and a series of service shops. The center is owned by William Nave and Sons.

M. GORDON GADDY, 36, of Novato, vice president and controller of Fireman's Fund American Life Insurance Companies, was elected senior vice president and put in charge of underwriting and actuarial activities.

Four others promoted to assistant vice presidents include the following three from Marin: ERNEST M. DEWEY, 37, and THOMAS A. SKIFF, 29, of San Rafael and ROBERT W. KELLY, 43, of Corte Madera.

Dewey will succeed Gaddy as controller Kelly is responsible for individual and group policy administration, and Skiff manages actuarial department financial statements and reserves.

Louis W. Niggeman of Kentfield, chairman of the board of Fireman's Fund, announced the promotions.

Gaddy began his insurance career with United Family Life in 1960 and joined Fireman's Fund as controller in 1968. He was elected vice president two years later. He won his master's degree in business administration in 1968 from Georgia State University.

The League of the Formerly Fat is operated at 3000 Bridgeway in Sausalito by Shirley and Leigh A. Silliphant of Mill Valley. It specializes in a nutritional method of weight control.

EL ROY A. (BUD) BARTZ of Terra Linda took over as manager of Merrill's Drugs in San Rafael this month, succeeding David Reese, who returned to the main office in San Francisco.

Bartz has been with Merrill's at Market and Seventh in San Francisco for 15 years and was assistant manager there before he was assigned to San Rafael

PEZAN'S FLOWER GALLERY at 23 Broadway in Fairfax will sell antiques in addition to flowers, beginning this weekend.

Grand opening of Pezan's antiques department is set for 9 a.m. this coming Sunday, with a display of a big shipment from New York including Tiffany silver and pewter. The shop also carries wedding gifts that have never been used.

Stan Pezan and Jim Tousley have operated the shop for eight years.

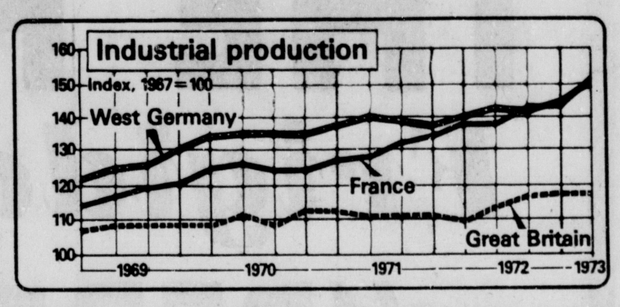
First Impressions Key To European Economies

By RICHARD NENNEMAN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service



LONDON — Journalists and many tourists share a common belief that they can absorb most of the character of a new place in two or three days. Beyond that, they figure, they have to stay for a year or more.

There is a great deal of truth to this. If you can trust your impressions generally a few days' intensive experience anywhere unveils quite a bit about the place. After that, as you dig into the facts behind the impressions and learn to qualify everything you originally thought, it gets very complicated — until you find that your first impressions came very close to being an accurate summary after all.

Applied to the business scene, it is remarkable how much the surface impressions one gets in Britain, France, and the Federal Republic of Germany parallel the growth tracks of those respective countries, as shown in the accompanying chart.

(The lines indicate how far each nation's industrial production has come since 1967, the base year; they do not compare the absolute levels of production in each country with each other.)

Life in Britain is, as always, extremely pleasant. And, for the first time in years, Britain has at least temporarily broken away from some of the constraints its persistently weak balance of payments used to force on it. With the pound floating and the government trying a version of an incomes policy, there is more than just hope that economic growth can emerge from the stop-go alternations of the 1960's.

In the past year, productivity has climbed some 9 per cent. If this trend can continue, the British will have something to talk about.

But there is a general feeling that the present boom is not sustainable. Surprisingly, one leading banker was not even aware that his nation's productivity had picked up so substantially. The same gentleman was desirous of faster growth, though, and bemoaned the fact that England too often is thought of as just a pleasant place to live

Yet, by their attitudes toward work, many of the British still give a foreigner the impression that is is "living" that comes first. This is not said out of criticism. But it is most interesting that what one senses as an observer on the scene here correlates so closely with the growth track on the chart, in which Britain trails Germany and France so noticeably.

As for Germany, its well-reported successes for 20 years have begun to create some problems. The guest workers from the south of Europe and even Turkey are a potential social problem in its cities.

The waves of monetary speculation, as weak currencies have sought a refuge in the strong Deutschemark, have made it even harder for West German monetary authorities to contain the growing inflation felt there today.

Yet Germany remains, even with some present problems, on top of the heap today. With post-war reconstruction long past, its citizens more relaxed and able to enjoy life, Germany goes on to make its country more modern and more enjoyable for its citizens.

In both Frankfurt and Stuttgart, which were visited on this trip, construction is underway for the U-bahn (subway system) and S-bahn, which is a railway network linking the city centers to the suburbs farther out.

New housing projects attempt to combine the rich green of the south German countryside with fast links to the city. In Stuttgart, the authorities have agreed to build no more parking facilities in the inner city. This move will eventually turn more people to public transport.

And then there is France, whose rapid growth curve might surprise a tourist if he kept only to the old center of Paris and to a tour of chateaus and cathedrals. But take a trip outside Paris, and one sees very quickly the results of the system of French planning. Several entirely new cities are under construction, including some wholly residential cities such as Val d'Yerres, near the new industrial center of Evry.

Or take Le Defense, two miles west of the Arch of Triumph. There a new group of skyscrapers, eventually with some 15 million square feet of office space, is rising. This will in the 1980s be the business center of Paris, and will take some of the pressure off the clogged streets of the city itself.

The "secret" to French growth seems to lie in the fact that almost all the long-term financing comes from institutions that are either controlled by the state or closely linked to it. While the public press talks about politics and social protest movements, the French economy goes ahead at a steady 5 to 6 per cent each year, at least partly as a result of its system of indicative planning.

Some bloopers may occasionally result (and one wonders in a country of such refinement about this generation of French architects), but the planning and governmental control of financing seem so far at least to have channeled funds into many useful and progressive projects.

Positive Note Given Economy

"Concerns over inflation are expected to abate in late 1973, as will many negative elements now influencing stock prices."

This is one of several positive notes sounded in the just published "Positive Investment Policy - Midyear 1973 Outlook" of Dean Witter & Co. The report, prepared by the firm's national research and economics departments, states that "It is almost certain that the growth rate of the economy will be slowing down by the end of this year so that rampant inflation is bound to slow down too."

Victor J. Melone, Dean Witter's Director of National Research, had this comment: "What the market needs is not good earnings reports but more buyers."

Shares In Levitz Should Snap Back

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. So far I have a small loss in the 350 shares of Levitz Furniture (NYSE) which I hold. I would appreciate very much your opinion about it. — P.G.

A. Levitz' market performance since mid-1972 reflects negative publicity and the loss of institutional support which was responsible in large part for the sharp rise in share price prior to that. In fiscal 1972 — ended Jan. 31, 1973 — profit margins narrowed resulting in a slowdown in the company's previous fast-paced growth. During the year 17 new units were opened bringing the total number of showrooms in operation to 49. This year 18 openings are scheduled including outlets on Long Island and Florida. In recent months sales per square foot of space have deteriorated from earlier high levels. However, March sales were strong and an improvement in this ratio should be apparent this year. At only 11 times estimated fiscal 1973 earnings, shares should be held for long-term recovery.

Q. What is your view on the most talked about stock — Curtiss-Wright (NYSE) — V.A.

A. American Motors has agreed to pay $1.5 million plus royalties to Curtiss over the next three years to produce Wankel engines. If the engine is used in production models, up to $20 million would be paid after 1976. American is the fifth company to sign with CW in connection with the rotary motor. Thus far, General Motors has paid $11.4 million under its sublicensing pact with CW, with a similar amount due over the next 3 years.

In 1972, royalties on the engine, in addition to the $4.5 million from GM, amounted to $1.6 million. CW receives $10 in royalties for every Mazda sold in the U.S. GM has sent commitment letters to two parts suppliers stating that it expects to start production on key parts of the Wankel next April. Inferences drawn from the letters suggest 12-month, 100,000 car production with introduction of the model in the summer of 1974. Additional licensing agreements are vital for the continued growth of this source of income. Shares are rated businessman's risk.

Stocks Edge Up Slightly

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices edged ahead cautiously today in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Investors remained hesitant in the face of mixed news developments, but reduced price levels made some issues attractive buys.

The Commerce Department reported the United States had its first trade surplus in 19 months this April, amounting to $196.3 million, compared to a deficit of $52.6 million in March. News of the surplus gave the sagging dollar a big boost in European currency markets.

But the announcements by many leading banks of a quarter point boost to 7 ¼ per cent in the prime lending rate was taken by Wall Street analysts as a bearish development. They said the "cost of doing business" would thereby go up.

Delta Airlines rose 1, leading the airlines higher.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange picked up ground on light trading. Leading the activities, TWA warrants were ½ higher at 11 ⅛ on 24,100 traded.

Hearing Halted By TV Cameras

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A State Senate committee hearing was broken off before it started today when television camera crews refused to leave the hearing room on the order of the committee chairman.

Sen. George Deukmejian, D-Long Beach, the committee chief, called off the hearing after Senate Sergeant-at-arms K. H. Kenealy, a retired police officer, began to push one cameraman.

"Everybody out and when I say out, I mean out," Kenealy said.

Deukmejian then told Kenealy, "Pete, I don't want you to have to force them out."

Deukmejian added, "Perhaps there are other kinds of sanctions" that could be taken against the camera crews.

He recessed the hearing indefinitely.

The unwritten rule in the Senate is that no television cameras are allowed to film committee sessions if any member of the committee objects.

As the hearing started, Sen. Jack Schrade, R-San Diego, a longtime foe of televising hearings, made a formal objection and Deukmejian directed the television crews, totaling about nine men, to leave.

Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, then made a formal motion that the cameramen be allowed to stay. The motion failed on a 2-2 vote.

The TV crews stayed, their cameras whirring. There was an awkward silence in the room and then murmurings in the audience.

When no one moved, Kenealy pushed cameraman Greg Chaston of station KABC in Los Angeles, who was standing in an entranceway to the elevated area where the senators were sitting. Chaston backed up silmultaneously and remained standing. He was not hurt.

It was then that Deukmejian called off the session.

Beilenson and Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, voted to allow the camera crews to stay. Schrade and Sen. James Whetmore, R-La Habra, author of the bill in question, voted no. Deukmejian abstained, saying the motion was, in effect, to overrule the chair.

Whetmore said he would like to have publicity for his measures but that he would have to adhere to Senate tradition until the issue was resolved by the Senate Rules Committee.

Dolphins In Training For Missions In Navy

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — You remember "Flipper," of course, television's lovable performing porpoise. But "killer porpoises"?

Well, he may or may not be a killer, but there is today a new breed of porpoise—the warrior. He has that same infectious smile on his face, but his is a deadly, secret mission that is a source of growing controversey.

Some of the activities conducted here are known but most are secret.

The Navy freely discusses some missions of its porpoises. They are known to be trained to detect enemy mines and frogmen. Whales or sea lions get similar assignments.

The sea mammals also have been taught to detect and retrieve military hardware from the ocean, saving thousands of dollars and aiding in weapons research. They also are taught to rescue frogmen and to protect divers from sharks.

If, as has been reported, the porpoises are being trained in more aggressive assignments, little is being said about it."

The porpoises' "sonar system" —much like manmade radar—is so well developed that it is highly accurate in distinguishing between types of metals, sizes of objects and even types of submarines.

Tests here have shown the porpoises nearly 100 per cent accurate in selecting between the smaller of two steel balls both barely two inches in diameter. (And that was with the porpoise blindfolded.)

In short, the porpoise is highly intelligent and has a brain as large and as complicated as that of man. Porpoises learn quickly, can communicate well with man and lend themselves to sophisticated military uses.

Although the Navy has generally refused comment on military missions of its mammals, published reports in recent years have hinted at some types of training military porpoises are receiving, including the "Kamikaze" porpoise. He allegedly is trained to carry explosives and blow up enemy submarines—and himself as well.

Others are reported to be trained to detect and attack enemy frogmen by pulling off their face masks, tearing their regulator hoses and pulling off their swim fins.

Although the Navy won't discuss the mission, a team of porpoises trained here reportedly spent a year in Vietnam guarding Cam Ranh Bay against Communist frogman infiltration. Rumors said several Communist guerrillas were killed by porpoises armed with switch-blade devices on their snouts. The porpoises assertedly were controlled by radios operated by sailors from patrol boats.

A British scientific publication suggested last year that a "man to dolphin" translator has been developed that transforms human speech into pitch modulated whistles understood by the porpoises. According to his report porpoises—naturally friendly to man—were being taught aggressive behavior by the implantation of electrodes in the pleasure and pain centers of their brains.

In reply to the various reports of hostile activities by the porpoises, the Navy's last official comment on the matter was: "In spite of science fiction, conjectural and sensational so-called news stories to the contrary, the Navy has never, is not and has no plans to train any animal to injure itself in any way in connection with any alleged military mission or tactic."

Water Moratorium In Marin Protested

Construction Workers See Jobs In Jeopardy

By PAT ANGLE

Charging that a moratorium on water connections will precipitate economic disaster, about 200 persons staged a protest yesterday at the Marin Municipal Water District office in Corte Madera.

The men — most of them from the construction trades — carried signs opposing the ban, which the water district board approved on a temporary basis April 30 and is now considering making permanent.

Directors who favor the proposal claim the district is in the throes of a serious water shortage and that such a freeze — which would halt most development in the county — is necessary to protect existing water users.

"No water, no jobs, no money," one sign read. "I like beauty myself, clean water, green grass, clean air, but I need work," proclaimed another, and others carried similar messages.

The protestors marched in front of the district office for almost an hour, then jammed — and overflowed — the district's meeting room as the board met to consider the freeze further.

Those who had expected some action on the matter yesterday were to be disappointed, since the board declined to act, or even indicate its intent, on the controversial question.

Instead, directors agreed to think about making some minor changes in the moratorium ordinance, then act on it at a special meeting June 7 at 7:30 p.m. at a place to be announced.

The redrafted moratorium currently under consideration is slightly less restrictive than that originally proposed, ordering an immediate halt to all new connections, except for those already approved. The newest plan, for example, would give property owners, who do not require pipeline extensions to obtain water, 90 days to make applications for their projects, providing construction will be completed with 18 months of the time the ordinance goes into effect.

Pipeline extensions — other than those approved by the board before April 30 — will not be allowed under the moratorium, meaning that almost all large development in the county will be impossible.

The ordinance does provide a variance procedure for those who would suffer "unnecessary and undue hardship" as a result of the freeze, such as individuals who may need new connections because their homes have been destroyed by fire.

But the regulation clearly states that "financial hardship alone shall not constitute grounds for a variance."

There was some dispute among directors as to how long a moratorium, once imposed, would last. Board member John MacPhail Jr. warned it could continue for up to five years, until the district develops new sources of water supply.

Director Jack R. Felson hinted it might be lifted in November, if voters approve a bond issue for additional supply which the district plans to place on the ballot at that time.

Despite some disagreement over the "fine print" in the ordinance, there was no indication that any serious opposition to the ban had developed on the board since it unanimously approved the temporary freeze on connections.

It appeared likely the moratorium would pass with no difficulty in two weeks.

$500,000 Medical Overspending

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County Department of Health Services has overspent its authorized Medi-Cal budget for psychiatric care by more than $500,000, the Independent-Journal learned late yesterday.

The discovery follows closely on the heels of a move by the department to refuse payment claims submitted after May 9 by three local facilities offering psychiatric services to indigent Medi-Cal patients.

According to Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, director of health services, the cut-off was imposed because the county is "exceeding the gross Short-Doyle Medi-Cal budget" of $538,000 approved by the state.

County health officials made no public report that spending had nearly doubled the authorized allocation, instead treating it as an "in-house matter."

The deficit was discovered following an anonymous phone call to the I-J that employees were being laid off at Ross General Hospital. That led to discovery of Cooke's May 9 letter.

Cause of the large deficit is unclear as is its ultimate effect on the county and those agencies supplying psychiatric care — Ross and Marin General hospitals and the Marin Child Development Center in Tiburon.

Ross General, which has about $400,000 in outstanding Medi-Cal bills with the county —the bulk of the deficit —is no longer accepting indigent patients at its 54-bed psychiatric facility. Marin General and the development center are. They have about $50,000 in outstanding claims.

County health officials met yesterday in Sacramento with officials of the state Department of Mental Hygiene not only for funds to cover the budget overrun but for an emergency allocation to keep programs running until July, the start of next fiscal year.

A spokesman for Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, today told the Independent-Journal "the state is swimming in mental health money," and he foresaw no problem in funding the deficit.

"Statewide the problem is finding facilities" willing to accept Medi-Cal psychiatric patients, he said, adding many counties will return surpluses to the state this year.

The cause of the deficit is unclear.

County officials, such as Dr. Cooke and his assistant in charge of community mental health, Dr. Robert Taylor, blame Ross General.

Both Johnson and Cooke said they were certain money would be forthcoming from the state.

Under the Medi-Cal payment procedure in Marin, Cooke's office, in consultation with the hospitals and development center, last year estimated a $538,000 budget need for psychiatric care this fiscal year.

The three agencies offering services share the same pot, submitting their bills to the county, which in turn processes and forwards them to the state.

Cooke said today that the estimate proved too low, because Ross General expanded its psychiatric services, creating a greater than expected drain on the county's Medi-Cal allocation. He estimated the deficit to be "approximately $400,000."

Taylor, whose mental health

Mrs. Kitty Oppenheimer Dies At 76

Kitty Oppenheimer, Marin radio personality and long a figure in county music and theatrical circles, died in her sleep yesterday at her Kentfield home after a short illness. She was 76.

Mrs. Oppenheimer had been associated with radio KTIM in San Rafael since 1948, and was best known as the venerable and cheerful moderator of the "Marin Sounding Board" program, a weekly discussion of local and regional issues.

Until six weeks ago, when she became ill and continued to live in her home at 202 Kent Avenue, Mrs. Oppenheimer had moderated 1,108 consecutive broadcasts of the show, going back two decades. In 1960, "Marin Sounding Board" won the Gold Medal Award at the California State Fair as the top public service program by a nonmetropolitan radio station.

The San Francisco-born Mrs. Oppenheimer, a resident of Marin since 1926, also helped form

Suit Seeks Halt In Redeveloping

A cup manufacturer in Corte Madera's redevelopment area yesterday filed suit in Marin Superior Court to halt a regional shopping center east of Highway 101 until a more thorough environmental impact report is prepared and considered.

The suit is the second in a week seeking to prevent any further work on the multi-million dollar project of Ernest W. Hahn, a Southern California shopping center builder. On Friday attorney Joel Shawn, who resigned as head of the town's general plan study committee in a dispute with the town council, filed suit claiming the impact report was inadequate.

Echoing the allegation was the suit filed yesterday by San Francisco attorney Philip B. Bass for J. Patrick Hunt and Peter J. Hunt, partners in Fiberplastics, Inc. Fiberplastics owns Handi-Kup Co. at 195 Tamal Vista Boulevard, which is directly across Highway 101 from the proposed center.

The suit contends that the impact report by consultants Sedway and Cooke of San Francisco "fails plainly, understandably and objectively to set forth all of the adverse consequences the proposed project will have on the environment and on the citizens."

Furthermore, according to the suit, the report "represents by sham and deception an effort to obfuscate the facts and mislead and confuse the public" to believe the project is in the town's best interest.

The suit lists 14 specific areas in which it claims the impact report is deficient and so not in compliance with law.

The report fails to deal adequately with the impact of fill and hauling it to the site, traffic

McCord Is Refused Chance For Rebuttal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate committee, refusing to get "bogged down" in lawyers' quarrels, today rejected a demand from star witness James W. McCord Jr. for a chance to refute a charge that he was "out to get the President."

At the same time, the committee announced it would add three more days of hearings to its previously announced schedule, apparently because it has been sidetracked this week from its probe into the bugging of Democratic party headquarters last spring and alleged related acts of political espionage.

The extra hearings will be June 5, 6, and 7, after Congress returns from a Memorial Day recess next week.

McCord, one of the seven men convicted for the Watergate bugging, who has charged high-level involvement in the plot in two days of testimony before the committee, demanded that he be permitted to come back to the witness table today.

McCord made the demand late yesterday after his former lawyer, Gerald Alch, testified that McCord's current attorney, Bernard Fensterwald, recently had told him: "We are going to get the President of the United States."

But the committee, meeting prior to today's televised hearings —the fifth session since the series opened a week ago — rejected McCord's demand and a similar request by Fensterwald.

"The committee does not intend to get bogged down in a controversy between lawyers, neither one of which has personal knowledge of the matters this committee is investigating," Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., announced before questioning of Alch began today.

Ervin said both men could submit sworn statements if they chose and meet with the committee privately, and might be called to testify later if the committee felt it would be useful.

Fensterwald's face fell as Er-

Hearing On Toll Hike Will Be In Plaza Office

The Golden Gate Bridge District board will hold a hearing at 8 p.m. today in its toll plaza office on a proposal to raise bridge tolls from 50 cents to 75 cents.

An editorial in yesterday's Independent-Journal erroneously said the hearing would be at the Marin County Civic Center.

Dale W. Luehring, bridge district general manager, said today that if the crowd is too large for the toll plaza offices, which can accommodate up to 150, another hearing might be scheduled at another location.

Light Showers Fall On Marin, Southern Sonoma

May showers fell on Marin and Southern Sonoma counties last night and today. It was the first time since 1971 that rain fell in May.

The rainfall was little more than enough to spot auto windshields — .03 of an inch in Ross and .02 of an inch in San Rafael, the Chevy Chase area of Larkspur and in Petaluma. Only a trace was reported in rain gauges elsewhere in the two counties by 8 a.m.

Though many residents had put away their raincoats and umbrellas until fall, it's not too late in the year for showers, according to Carrol Snyker of Ross, veteran weather recorder. He said in some years, more than three inches of rain have fallen as late as June.

Records from Crocker Bank in San Rafael indicate .41 of an inch of rain fell in May 1971 and 5.52 inches in May 1957. The record total for a May was 6.82 inches in 1915.

Today's showers were generated by the fringes of a vigorous late-season storm sweeping southeastward from the Gulf of Alaska, federal weather forecasters said. Continued cloudiness was predicted for tomorrow.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Watergate Spreads

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers flew into Argentina to attend a presidential inauguration but found his Latin American hosts more immediately interested in the Watergate affair.

He told newsmen yesterday before he left Brazil for Argentina, the seventh of eight visits in a 17-day Latin American tour, that the Watergate affair was not a "favorable development," but he predicted it would not damage America's image abroad.

"It will not have any effect at all," Rogers told newsmen.

Beirut Relaxes

BEIRUT (UPI) — The government relaxed a state of emergency it proclaimed 17 days ago at the height of fighting between the army and Palestinian guerrillas, but left in force today a six-hour curfew in Beirut and other cities.

Data On Blast

RIO BLANCHO, Colo. (UPI) — Preliminary data from last week's underground nuclear blast in western Colorado shows it did not damage the vast oil shale deposits in the area, scientists said yesterday.

"Preliminary data indicates that the shock effect at the well extended more than 150 feet, but less than 600 feet down," Dr. Charles Williams of the Atomic Energy Commission said.

The Project (Rio Blanco) detonation — equal to 90,000 tons of TNT — was designed to create a cavern more than a mile underground and free natural gas trapped in the tight sandstone formations.

Russian Popularity

MOSCOW (UPI) — The government newspaper Izvestia said yesterday that pollster George Gallup believes Americans now admire Russians and their government more than at any time since World War II.

"Never since the second world war have Americans liked the Russians and the Soviet government as well as they do now," Izvestia said of Gallup's findings.

Test Disruption

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

A spokesman for a peace organization said yesterday in Auckland, New Zealand, that an American yacht has moved into position near an isolated South Pacific island in an attempt to disrupt forthcoming nuclear tests by France.

The yacht Fri, said Barry Mitcalfe, national coordinator of the Media Research Organization, is stationed about 140 miles east of the Mururoa atoll used for the French tests. Mitcalfe did not list the number of persons aboard or their nationalities.

Push Repulsed

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Government troops trying to push their way up Highway 5 northwest of Phnom Penh were beaten off today by Communist mortar and recoilless rifle fire. Bad weather kept U.S. jet fighters from flying support missions in the area.

Field reports said the government troops, operating with about 30 armored personnel carriers, fell back under an onslaught of 75mm recoilless rifle and 60 and 82mm rifle fire.

Rioting Subsides

BELFAST (UPI) — Two days of sporadic rioting in Roman Catholic districts of Londonderry subsided early today, but British commanders warned new violence could break out when troops move in to tear down street barricades.

Commanders said they would order troops using armored bulldozers into the districts and said they were prepared in case Irish Republican Army snipers attack — as area residents warned.

Violations Fall

SAIGON (UPI) — Alleged Communist cease-fire violations today dipped to 55 in the past 24 hours, the lowest number since the Vietnam truce began, but fighting was reported within eight miles of Saigon for the second time in two days.

In one of the incidents, four government militiamen were killed and four others wounded yesterday afternoon near Nhon Trach district, town and about eight miles east of Saigon.

Richardson Wins Senate Approval

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate overwhelmingly confirmed Elliot Richardson as attorney general yesterday despite some doubts his nominee for special Watergate prosecutor might not have enough freedom to fully investigate the scandal.

The vote came during a three-hour meeting at the Justice Department between Archibald Cox, the Harvard professor appointed by Richardson last week as the Watergate prosecutor, and the current Watergate prosecution team. Cox was informed of the vote by telephone during the meeting.

ELLIOT RICHARDSON
Confirmed by Senate

Although the vote frees Cox to begin working actively on the investigation, sources said yesterday "it's going to be several more weeks before indictments come" because Cox will need time to read the federal grand jury findings. The grand jury has been working on the Watergate case for about 11 months.

The confirmation of Richardson, former defense secretary, also opens the way for President Nixon to nominate CIA Director James P. Schlesinger as defense secretary and move William B. Colby into Schlesinger's job. Richardson will take the oath of office later this week.

Despite the overhwleming confirmation vote, some senators said they still fear Richardson is too close to the administration to have ultimate authority over the Justice Department during its eraWatergate investigation.

Leader Robert C. Byrd, speaking for himself and other liberals on the Senate Judiciary Committee, said he voted for the confirmation with reluctance. The committee approved the nomination unanimously.

Byrd said he never questioned Richardson's personal integrity and would have supported him fully under different circumstances. But, he added, the appointment of Richardson in the midst of the Watergate scandal gives "every appearance of the administration investigating itself."

"It goes to the appearance that Mr. Richardson might conceivably participate in a cover-up," he said.

Byrd said he decided to go along with the nomination because "time is of the essence" and the Senate might receive "no better nomination" if Richardson were rejected.

The three senators voting against Richardson were Democrat Sens. Joseph R. Biden of Delaware, Harold Hughes of Iowa, and Mike Gravel of Alaska.

"Mr. Richardson's duty will require the investigation, the indictment, and prosecution of some of his friends and associates of many years," Gravel said. "As attorney general, he will carry the same burden that compelled his predecessor to resign."

Grecian Coup Try Thwarted

ATHENS (UPI) — The Greek military government announced today it had foiled an attempted coup by two retired admirals and a handful of officers. Those named were known to be loyal to self-exiled King Constantine who was once involved in a coup attempt himself.

Government spokesman Vyron Stanatopoulos, a deputy minister, said the government had also broken up an alleged seditious organization, directed from outside Greece, which aimed at penetrating the ruling forces.

He said the plot was directed by self-exiled Greeks abroad and blamed the coup atmosphere on a recent statement by former Premier Constantinos Karamanlis asking for formation of a national unity government to restore political normalcy to the country.

Greek newspapers which printed the Karamanlis statement were seized.

Stanatopoulous linked the navy plot with an illegal organization known as E.A.N. (Greek initials for Greek Anti-Dictatorial Youth) whose members were arrested earlier in the week.

Stamatopoulos said the mutiny was led by two retired admirals and "a number of active officers counted on the fingers of one hand."

Marijuana Taken

DENVER (UPI) — Burglars broke into the Colorado Bureau of Investigation headquarters yesterday and escaped with 400 pounds of marijuana being held as evidence. It was worth $50,000.

Ford Plans To Meet Demands Of Argentine Terrorist Group

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. said today it has made contact with leftwing terrorists who threatened to kidnap employes if the company did not send $1 million worth of medical equipment and supplies to Argentine hospitals.

In Detroit, the company said Wednesday it would meet the demands.

A Ford spokesman in Buenos Aires said "conversations" already have started with the leftist People's Revolutionary Army (ERP), accused in several other kidnapings and attacks

The employes were Luis V. Giovanelli, a cost analysis director listed in critical condition, and Noemi Baruj de Da Rin, supervisor of social welfare programs, who was slightly wounded in a machine-gun attack.

The ERP said the shooting occurred during an unsuccessful kidnap attempt and warned it would make more attempts if Ford did not pay "compensation" of $1 million to hospitals, ambulance services and other medical institutions.

A Ford spokesman said in Detroit that the company received a telephone call from an ERP representative that led to contacts with the guerrillas.

"We have no idea what precipitated the attacks," said Edgar R. Molina, vice president of Ford's Asia-Pacific and Latin American automotive operations.

"Ford Argentina had not been contacted with threats or ransom demands prior to the shootings," he said, but added the company received a telephone call from an unidentified man who said more attacks would occur if demands were not met.

"The caller demanded," Molina said, "that Ford provide 22 ambulances for each of seven provinces in Argentina and direct donations to hospitals in the area for operations and equipment.

"The material demanded is valued at about $1 million. Ford Argentina has responded affirmatively and expressed its willingness to meet the demands. We believe under the circumstances we had no choice but to meet the demands."

President Alejandro Lanusse, who leves office Friday, forbade the Italian automobile company Fiat to negotiate with the ERP last year when that group kidnaped the president of its Argentine operations, Obardan Sallustro.

Lanusse refused to bargain with what he called "common criminals" over their demand for

for release of political prisoners and he would not let Fiat donate a ransom to needy schools.

Comedienne Named 'Miss Fun Fishing'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A picture of Phyllis Diller—adorned in gold boots, a rhinestone choker and waders covering every part of her body except the arms, head and shoulders—will be the centerfold in the June issue of Field and Stream magazine.

The layout "reveals the sportsman sense of humor, if little else," said a spokesman for the magazine. The comedienne gets a fishing rod for her selection as "Miss Fun Fishing 1973."

Six BOURBON SHOPS of Marin
Merchants of Fine Wines, Spirits and Accessories
HEITZ CELLARS BURGUNDY AS OUR WINE OF THE MONTH

This is the second Heitz Cellars wine we have featured as Wine of the Month and for very good reasons. All Joe Heitz's wines are excellent, and most are outstanding. The Burgundy is an example of a wine excellently made. It reveals the experience and care of one of California's great winemakers. It is predominately a blend of Napa Gamay and Petite Sirah grape varieties and is approximately three and one half years old. It was aged in Redwood and finished in Oak and may be the best wine value around.

vin announced his decision and McCord, sitting behind him in the jammed hearing room, looked grim. Fensterwald quickly issued a statement written to the committee in which he said he just wanted to "see the truth come out," but did not deny making the remark to Alch about being out to "get the President."

"If having the truth brought out means implicating the President or some of his top staff, so be it," the Fensterwald statement said. "I do not apologize for this approach to seeing the truth come out, and neither does Jim McCord."

Ervin and other committee members questioned Alch closely through the morning, particularly about a possible connection between Watergate and the CIA and about alleged offers of executive clemency to McCord.

But Alch stuck by his testimony yesterday that he had never suggested to McCord, a retired CIA agent, that his personnel records could be "doctored" with the aid of CIA Director James Schlesinger to show him still on the payroll at the time of the June 17, 1972, Watergate raid.

McCord had testified Alch told him that could be arranged.

Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., began his questioning of Alch with a warning that because of the obvious conflicts in testimony by Alch and McCord, if the committee could find evidence of perjury he would see that a copy of the testimony went to the proper U.S. attorney for prosecution.

say words to the effect, 'Let me think about it.' And days would pass, then I would get a definitive response."

The committee's chief counsel, Sam Dash, questioned Alch about two areas in which Alch appeared to differ with McCord —whether Alch ever suggested that McCord base his defense on CIA involvement, and whether Alch ever participated "in exposing McCord to an offer of executive clemency."

Alch testified that he did not suggest blaming the break-in on the CIA, and was told by the head of his law firm, F. Lee Bailey, that if McCord should insist on such a defense, Alch should withdraw from the case.

Alch said he had asked McCord whether there was "a factual basis" for establishing CIA involvement, but denied again today he ever said he could have CIA records doctored.

"It escapes me how such an allegation could be a misunderstanding," Alch said. "I didn't say it."

Alch said that in a later meeting with McCord, McCord said he would have nothing to do with any defense that would blame the plot on the CIA. That made it unnecessary, he said, to tell McCord of Bailey's order for him to drop the case if McCord wanted a CIA defense and no factual base could be found.

Dash told Alch of two incidents that Dash said could have helped McCord believe that Alch was proposing a defense implicating the CIA — incidents that Dash got Alch to acknowledge he had omitted from his emotional 90-minute, 26-page statement Wednesday.

One, Dash said, was when Alch remarked to McCord that a District of Columbia policeman had observed that the men arrested inside the Watergate were CIA veterans.

The other, Dash said, was Alch calling McCord's attention to a book by Victor Marchetti critical of the CIA. Alch replied that McCord had told him that Marchetti was "not in good graces at the CIA."

Asked by Dash why McCord could not have concluded Alch was involved since he was the one who told McCord to expect a telephone call from a friend, Alch replied:

"If he made that conclusion, it was factually false ... this was at a point in time when I thought we had a very fine relationship, so why wouldn't he come up to me and tell me about that phone call?"

Asked then if he thought McCord was a "suspicious individual," Alch answered:

"I hesitate to use the word suspicious. There were times I would communicate with him and ask him for positions or information on particular topics and he would not give me immediate responses. He would say words to the effect, 'Let me think about it.' And days would pass, then I would get a definitive response."

Automobile Taken

His 1962 yellow Ford, license IVC-102, was taken sometime between May 12 and yesterday from his carport at 110 Laurel Place, Apt. 10, John Henry Clay reported to San Rafael police.

Street Plan Approved For Cotati

The Cotati Parks and Recreation Commission agreed last night that the city should begin improving the Delano Street extension for a neighborhood park.

Chairman Lee Gray said that commissioners want to install water facilities, do drainage and grading work and plant trees as the first improvements on the 60-by-700 foot site.

Eventually, other facilities such as picnic areas and a backstop are planned, she said. Commissioners plan to discuss costs of initial work at their June 13 meeting.

In other action, the commission endorsed the conservation and open space element for the city's general plan as prepared by city planning staff.

Mrs. Gray said the commission was interested especially in archaeological sites mentioned in the plan, especially one which may be the original site of the Indian village "Kotate."

The commission also made further plans for Cotati Community Days, being sponsored jointly with the chamber of commerce on June 2 and 3. Festivities on June 2 will include dedication of the new bandstand in the city plaza at 2 p.m. and an all-day art show in the plaza.

Mrs. Gray said that the police department has agreed to sponsor a "dunk a pig in the park" dunking tank booth.

circulation at peak hours and congestion if the state does not improve the interchanges at Tamalpais and Williams Avenues, according to the suit.

Furthermore, alternatives like improving the existing Corte Madera Center or locating the center in another city are not considered, the suit says.

Also not fully considered are the impact of a ferry terminal on the San Quentin Peninsula on traffic, long range transit plans or the possible relocation of other businesses due to the project.

Fiberplastics itself has been warned that it could conceivably have to move if Highway 101 is realigned to make room for the shopping center, but town officials said such warnings were sent to all businesses within redevelopment boundaries.

Town treasurer Frank Bigley said today it is not yet known if any business will be displaced and called Fiberplastics' concern premature.

The suit is the latest salvo in a running development fight, which has split the town. Controversy boiled first over plans for 528 units on 75 acres near the Koch luggage plant and spilled over to the nearby shopping center project.

Mayor Holmes S. Norville and Councilmen Harold B. Wagstaff and Edward W. Colthurst are facing recall by antidevelopment forces angry at their allegedly prodevelopment stands.

The lawsuit by Fiberplastics names all five councilmen, the town and the redevelopment agency, which is governed by the council.

Bill Will Open Most Meetings

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Most of the California Legislature's committee meetings would be open to the public under a measure winning unanimous Assembly approval today.

Assemblyman John Burton, the San Francisco Democrat who authored the constitutional amendment, told his fellow legislators in brief floor debate that the measure "is the type of thing the people of California expect from their elected representatives."

Burton said his plan wouldn't apply to legislative committee meetings dealing with personnel and some legal and security matters.

Shrimp Fishing Season Closed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Commercial shrimp fishing was halted yesterday in waters off San Mateo, San Francisco, Marin, Sonoma and southern Mendocino counties by the state Department of Fish and Game.

The season, which normally extends until October 31, was closed early because fishermen were nearing the allowable quota of 250,000 pounds of shrimp, the department said.

Quotas are established to avoid overfishing.

LONG CAREER — Kitty Oppenheimer, who died yesterday, spent many hours at the KTIM microphone as moderator of the "Marin Sounding Board" program. She also long worked in music and theatrical circles.

OBITUARIES

and took active part in a number of music and theater groups in Marin. She was a founding member of the Marin Music Chest and its long-time executive secretary; a founding member of the Ross Valley Players and a board member of the Mountain Play Association, a group with which she long was associated.

Other activities included membership in the Marin Zonta Club, on the board of the Ross Psychiatric Clinic and work in conservationist circles, having been an ardent hiker and an original member of the Tamalpais Conservation Club.

Mrs. Oppenheimer also was known as the "voice" of the former Marin Art and Garden Fair and the Sunny Hills Grape Festival.

She was the widow of Melville Oppenheimer, a manufacturer's representative, who died in 1945. They had met before World War I while both were working at a San Francisco manufacturing firm, Mrs. Oppenheimer as an office employee and her husband as a young executive.

After living in San Francisco about a decade following their marriage, the Oppenheimers moved to Ross. They soon became heavily involved in community activities.

During World War II, Mrs. Oppenheimer engaged in civil defense and Red Cross work. Three years after her husband's death, in 1948, she was surprised by an offer from KTIM to go to work as a commentator on a show of classical music.

"I was flabbergasted because I had never previously undertaken anything remotely like broadcasting," she once told an interviewer. Mrs. Oppenheimer accepted, beginning her long radio career.

She also conducted other programs during her KTIM career, among them the "Open House" and "Women's Page" interview shows. But she was best known as the winsome and purposeful "Sounding Board" moderator, who sometimes was called upon to cool tempers which boiled over controversial topics.

And, at the conclusion of each show, there always was an admonition to the Independent-Journal reporter assigned to cover the program. With a wave of the finger and in a polite but firm voice, she would say, "And don't forget to mention the moderator."

Survivors are two daughters, Joan Kaehler of Palo Alto and Nona Kaufmann of Strawberry, and six grandchildren.

No funeral is planned.

The family requests memorial contributions to the Kitty Oppenheimer Scholarship Fund of the Marin Music Chest, c/o Robert Woodward, Box 47, Novato 94947.

staff is responsible for handling the claims, said the deficit amount had not yet been determined but resulted from the hospital's expanded service and delay in submitting bills to the county.

Had the hospital submitted claims in a timely manner, Taylor said, the overage would have been noticed before it mushroomed.

He added, however, that his office was not aware it was to monitor the funds even though it received a memorandum some months ago from the state saying that is a county responsibility.

"It was in the memorandum but it was not emphasized with quote marks or anything," Taylor said.

Another county health official, who asked not to be named, said "there are real problems" in the monitoring system which is done "by hand" and not by computer. He said a delay in billings from Ross General aggravated the problem.

Ross General administrator Johnson, meanwhile, acknowledged that his hospital had exceeded its original estimate of dollar needs because of expanded service. But, he continued, the hospital has been submitting claims monthly and that it was up to the county to monitor those claims against the state's $538,000 allocation.

He was joined by the hospital's psychiatric staff and board Chairman Carroll A. Russell, who sent a joint letter to Dr. Cooke criticizng his health department.

"If, in fact, there has been an overutilization of funds for psychiatric hospital care," the letter said,"this should have been apparent weeks or months earlier."

The letter also criticized the county's move to cut off funding without prior notice.

Currently, there are about 15 Medi-Cal patients in the Ross psychiatric ward who are continuing to be cared for at about $100 per day each.

Johnson called untrue a growing rumor that the hospital, owned by Hospital Corporation of America, which owns 40 other hospitals, may be forced to close if the funds are not forthcoming.

County Administrator John F. Barrows said he was "aware of a problem" in the county's Medi-Cal budget but considered it an "in-house matter that the department" should try to solve.

He said he did not expect Cooke or other county department heads to run to him or the board of supervisors with such problems unless they prove unsolvable at the department level or involve county policy.

Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste said no report of the deficit had been filed with his office and he was aware of a problem in the Medi-Cal budget only through press reports. He said he plans to look into the matter.

Golfrey Connally Raps President

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Golfrey M. Connally, the younger brother of presidential adviser John B. Connally, said yesterday President Nixon is moving the country toward a police state and should resign.

"I think there ought to be a lot of pressure on the President to resign," the third of the five Connally brothers said. "Regardless of the outcome, even assuming he's never directly implicated, his competence has been very clearly questioned.

"How can he admit he didn't know this? It's just proof he didn't do his job. That's enough reason for asking him to resign."

Bill Would Change Rule For Primary

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's Democratic winner-take-all presidential primary would be abolished under legislation approved 5-0 today by the Senate Elections Committee.

Land Is Designated

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — The Michigan Department of Natural Resources has designated a total of 80.4 miles of seven stream sections as "quality trout fishing areas" where angling is limited to artificial fly fishing only. The order stands until April 26, 1974.

The first was born at 11:30 a.m. Monday and the second at 5:30 p.m. Both have the same father, imported from Africa several years ago, while the two mothers were born at the zoo. Sex of the newcomers has not yet been determined. The eland is the largest of African antelope, weighing as much as a ton.

Fire Season Is Declared Open

The North Coast District of the California Division of Forestry, which includes Southern Sonoma County, has declared the wildland fire season open.

Deputy State Forester George Grogan said, "firefighters have already answered many fire calls," about as many as "last year's early responses which were almost 100 per cent above normal."

"Spring north winds caused rapid drying to occur once the winter's rains tapered off," he said.

He urged rural residents to check with their local forestry or fire district officials on burning regulations before attempting any outside burning.

Gambler Favors Nixon's Chances

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, well known sporting oddsmaker, has given the morning line on Watergate—with the longest odds against President Nixon being impeached.

Snyder figures impeachment is a 1,000-to-1 shot.

In response to inquiries, Snyder said Wednesday he estimates 200-to-1 odds against Nixon resigning, and 100-to-1 that Nixon will finish his full term.

The odds against former Attorney General John Mitchell being convicted are 5-to-1, Snyder said.

Rezoning Approved By Petaluma Board

Rezoning for a 96-unit town house development next to the Washington Square shopping center in Petaluma has been granted to Quantas Development Corp. by the Petaluma Planning Commission.

The company plans to build condominium units first and then a larger subdivision, including single-family homes.

The rezoning, approved by the commission Tuesday, changed the designation of the property on McDowell Boulevard from planned community district to planned unit development.

Quantas representatives objected to a recommendation that a bicycle path be included in the plans and the commission agreed to let this matter ride until plans for a park, partly on Quantas property and partly outside, are made.

The commission, however, told the developer to construct a pair of two-lane bridges over Washington Creek at McKenzie and McGregor avenues.

In other action, the commission approved site design for a medical center at 1580 East Washington Street and a shop and warehouse addition to Western Motors at 1221 Petaluma Boulevard North.

Ruling By Court Hits Gas Firms

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A utility company cannot shut off service without prior notice, the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled.

In a case involving Columbia Gas Co., the three-judge panel said sudden termination of service is "clearly offensive to even the most elementary notion of what constitutes due process."

The opinion said a utility must personally notify an adult member of the household before shutting off service. If this is impossible, the customer must be notified by registered mail.

Year-Round Plan Voted For Schools

The new year-round school plan will start July 9 at John Reed and Waldo Rohnert schools in Rohnert Park, according to a decision made Tuesday by the Cotati-Rohnert Park School District board.

About 1,600 pupils will be involved, according to Supt. James H. Davidson, who said children will attend school for 45-day periods and then have 15-day vacations.

Staggering of classes so that children attend schools during different weeks will allow fuller use of the crowded schools, he said.

About 1,200 pupils will start July 9 and the others later.

In other business, the school board granted a 10 per cent across-the-board raise to the district's teachers. The superintendent's office did not yet know total cost of the raises.

Permissiveness Has Made Many Traps

LONDON (AP) — Permissiveness and sexual sophistication among children has put many traps in the path of teachers, according to "The Teacher."

The weekly newspaper of Britain's National Union of Teachers advises young teachers to avoid being alone with a child of either sex and warns them to refrain from unnecessary physical contact with pupils.

THE RIGHT KIND OF EXPOSURE

Most photographs are taken in the sun, using the exposure information that comes with the film box. But sometimes that information isn't enough. That's when an exposure meter becomes a necessity.

The simplest type is a reflected light meter. It measures the light reflected off the subject. The built-in light meter of most cameras is of this type. They are very accurate and in general reliable. The other type is the incident light meter, which measures the light falling upon the subject. Extremely accurate, this type is used in motion pictures and TV studios because of its reliability. Both meters are useful and, with proper care, rugged.

The meter most often used in cameras is the CdS meter, a reflected light type that uses a cadmium sulfide sensing device and is powered by mercury batteries. This is the most sensitive type now available and can give readings in darkened rooms. The spot-meter is used to obtain exposure readings from distant subjects and is the most expensive type, owing to its lens system and motor driven dial.

With a quality built-in meter, most cameras give accurate exposure information at the turn or twist of a dial. So the camera does most of the work for you, while you have all the fun. Stop in and we'll gladly show you the variety of automatic cameras you have to select from in every price range. Or see us about the exposure meter you need for your present camera. Whatever it is, we have it!

Water Board Campaign Costs Told

Dr. Martin Griffin Jr., winner of a seat on the Marin Municipal Water District board in the April 17 election, spent $4,723.60 on his campaign, according to his statement filed with Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer.

His outlay exactly matched contributions to his campaign, the statement said.

Ross S. Shade, who finished last in the three-way contest, received no contribution and spent $268.37, according to his statement.

Jerome C. Hauke, second-runner, failed to file the required statement by the deadline Tuesday, Meyer's office said. On April 27, he filed an incomplete statement indicating contributions of $500 from the Marin County Board of Realtors, $100 from the Marin Council for Civic Affairs and $2,000 from himself — but no expenses.

Griffin received 4,205 votes; Hauke 1,370 and Shade 211.

Aqueduct Plan Is Proposed Again

The old idea of importing Russian River water into Marin was dusted off yesterday, as a consulting firm recommended that the Marin Municipal Water District look to that river as a source of supply.

The lengthy report, presented to the district board yesterday, contended that importing water is more economical, practical and less environmentally damaging than using local water sources.

The recommendations came from the San Francisco firm of Cornell, Howland, Hayes and Merryfield, Clair A. Hill and Associates, which has been studying water supply and possible projects for the past several months.

Their report, which will form the basis for a November bond issue for additional supply, cost the district about $35,000. (In November of 1971, district voters rejected another plan to bring Russian River water to Marin — the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct — by a 9-1 margin. The aqueduct project was a much larger one than that now being proposed.)

Yesterday, consultant Daniel Hobe told the board that the most desirable water supply project would be one from the Russian River furnishing the district approximately 16,000 acre-feet annually.

It would be best if the district could share that project with the North Marin and Sonoma County water agencies, but, if this is not possible, the district should proceed on its own to tap the Russian River, according to the consultants.

Marin Municipal can go for a local project, Hobe said, by constructing a dam and reservoir on Walker Creek, in conjunction with the proposed North Marin Intertie. This plan would bring in about 13,000 acre-feet of water a year.

But Hobe said the Walker Creek proposal would result in higher cost per unit of water received. In addition, it would also have significant, and particularly desirable, environmental impact on the Walker Creek area in North Marin and the tidelands around Tomales Bay, into which the creek flows.

Any Walker Creek project will necessitate a reservoir which will inundate part of the creek's canyon and change the waterway's flow characteristics, according to Hobe.

Also, he said, the creek diversion will change the natural balance of the Tomales Bay tidelands and what the effect of such change would be has not been determined.

In recommending a Russian River project, the consultants also mentioned that the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct will be built by the other agencies, whether or not Marin participates, and so costs like water treatment would be eliminated.

In addition, they said the district could more easily build a northern water project in states and that it would take less time to complete than any local project studied.

In conjunction with other water agencies, a Russian River supply project ould cost Marin Municipal $23.3 million, or $134 for each acre foot of water. Without the other agencies, it would cost $27.2 or $147 per acre foot.

The Walker Creek project, on the other hand, could be built for $24.9 million, but since it would bring in less water, the cost per acre-foot would be $153.

The board took no action on the proposal, but agreed to study it further.

Several directors wanted to find some way to insure that the amount of water imported would not exceed the amount necessary to keep growth within limits set by the countywide plan.

They asked their attorney, Tom Thorner, to see if it might be possible to obtain state legislation which would limit the amount of water which the district could bring in each year, even if the project built was capable of providing more water than the amount required by growth limits in the plan.

MacPhail Raps Water District Choice Of New Board Attorney

The appointment of a new attorney for the Marin Municipal Water District drew fire yesterday from one district director who said the man chosen by his fellow board members is not qualified for the post.

John MacPhail Jr. said he had "strong objections" to the board's selection of Tom Thorner to replace Robert W. Elliott as district counsel. (Elliott was ousted May 9 by the board's three-man conservationist majority in a conflict over philosophy).

"He (Thorner) has no experience in the specialized field of water law and no experience in municipal and government law," MacPhail said. "We will be paying Mr. Thorner between $35,000 and $40,000 in the next 12 months, plus substantial fees for defending the district and individual directors against suits recently filed and suits yet to be filed against the district. I think we should be able to get a more experienced counsel for that money."

MacPhail, who voted against Thorner's appointment at a special meeting Monday, also based his objections on the fact the attorney "has been, and possibly still is, a vocal and vehement critic of the district."

In addition, he said Thorner was "one who was responsible" for the resounding defeat of the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct at the polls in November of 1971, "a proposal, which, in modified form, is again before the board." A consulting firm having recommended the district tap the Russian River for additional water.

He charged his fellow directors with appointing a counsel "to implement their own philosophy of controlling growth. Thorner will not, indeed cannot, represent the entire board."

MacPhail said the appointment showed him that "the harmony and unity" which will be necessary to pass a water supply bond issue which the district plans to present to voters in November "is not important to the majority of the directors.

"I am concerned that the major order of business of the district will not be the planning of the community's water supply, but rather an attempt to pioneer in the field of environmental law at considerable risk and expense to the consumers of the district," he added.

Director Ronald T. Stafford, a Thorner supporter, countered by saying that MacPhail's statement indicated little desire for harmony with his fellow directors.

"The board was hardly harmonious when we had an attorney to your liking," he added.

Stafford went on to say he believes Thorner is "extremely competent" and quite capable of representing all board members.

Board nember L. Martin Griffin said he does not feel Thorner needs to be desended. "His past and future actions will reflect his integrity," he said.

AUDIENCE — Tension is mirrored in the faces of those attending Marin Municipal Water District board deliberations on a proposed moratorium on new connections. Construction workers, developers, owners of single lots, declaring a vital stake in the ultimate decision, thronged the district office in Corte Madera, yesterday. Their jobs, their businesses, the homes they hope to own may be lost if the moratorium is adopted, they warned district directors.

Pickets Protest Water Link Ban

rin County (the construction industry) will drop dead in the next 90 days," developer Nathan Jones of Tiburon warned.

Jones claimed the ban will have no significant effect in preventing a water crisis, since it will save only between 500 and 1,000 acre feet of water a year, according to district figures. "We will simply run out of water one or two days later," he said.

James La Force, who will need water for a lot in north San Rafael, was one of many who questioned the board about variance procedures. Most of the inquiries about individual situations and problems were referred to the district staff.

Kevin Miles pointed out the plight of the individual trapped by a moratorium when he told the board it had taken five years of "blood, sweat and tears" to plan for the home he is building in Woodacre. "I don't hate anyone; I just want to know if I can have a water meter," he said plaintively.

Miles was informed he can obtain service — since no pipeline extension will be required — if he applies within the 90-day period and completes construction in a year and a half.

David Greenlee, manager of the Marin Builders Exchange, charged that some members of the district board have created the water shortage themselves, by refusing to give the go-ahead to projects like the North Marin Intertie, which would have alleviated it.

There were also forecasts that about 15,000 jobs in the county would be eliminated by a moratorium. "Who's going to support those families?" one man asked angrily.

"A lot of people are not too concerned about keeping golf courses green and watering lawns when their paychecks are about to disappear," said another.

Some persons, like John Baumann of Corte Madera, said anything with as much impact as the connection ban should be put to a vote, rather than decided by five board members. However, directors did not seem to favor that plan.

Robert Goodwin, a Santa Barbara attorney appointed by the board to draw up the ordinance, said the results of the ban may not be as serious — or as immediate — as some say.

Goodwin, attorney for the Goleta County Water District which enacted a similar moratorium in December, said it had not spelled economic disaster for the Santa Barbara area. "We found there had been no pinch on the construction industry for about six months," he said.

Lion Mauling Suit Settlement Made

DENVER (UPI) — An out-of-court settlement was approved yesterday in a suit filed by the parents of a 4-year-old boy who was mauled by a pet lioness last August.

The $21,500 settlement was okayed by Probate Judge David Brofman in favor of Timmy Digiacomo, who was standing outside a fence when the animal, named Ingrid, jumped a fence despite being bound by a 20-foot chain and attacked him.

James Hoehl, 21, Ingrid's owner, has already pleaded guilty to charges of harboring a wild and dangerous animal and paid a $300 fine — the maximum for the charge.

High Military Court Given Calley Appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's highest court of military law has decided to hear the appeal of 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr.—but only on three of the 30 legal points raised by his defense.

The Court of Military Appeals —composed of three civilian judges—said one of the points it will hear is the defense contention that the tidal wave of pre-trial publicity prevented a fair trial.

But the court barred further consideration of one major defense point—that "command influence" had prejudiced the court-martial.

The defense contended that numerous high officials, including President Nixon and then Army Chief of Staff Gen. William C. Westmoreland, pursued a policy of punishing Calley "in order to cleanse the Army of any guilt."

Calley, 29, was convicted two years ago of murdering at least 22 Vietnamese civilians in the village of My Lai. He was sentenced to life but that sentence was later reduced to 20 years. He is under house arrest at Fort Benning, Ga.

Terra Linda Library Branch Has Support

Two dozen Terra Linda residents attending a San Rafael Library Board meeting last night, expressed almost unanimous endorsement of locating a branch of the city library in their community.

Andrew James Ring III, library architect, explained the branch facility would be about 7,000 square feet in size — roughly two-thirds the size of the present San Rafael Library. Its construction, if undertaken, would be in connection with expansion of the main library.

One Terra Linda group, the Santa Margarita Home Owners Association, already has gone on record in favor of a branch library through vote of its board of directors, the board was told. Bruce Leeb, president of Mont Marin Homeowners Association, reported the board of that group "felt the idea worth exploring" but had taken no stand.

Only opposition to the proposal was voiced by Helene Guinther, who questioned whether San Rafael should go into a branch library system and suggested that, if it did, there would be demand for other branches in such areas as Peacock Gap and the canal district.

"I would rather see the money spent, not on buildings but on books," she said.

At the request of board chairman James H. Mayer for a show of hands, all but four in the audience indicated they are in favor of a Terra Linda branch library.

There was less agreement as to location. Two proposed sites on city-owned property — at the recreation center and at Oleander Park — both drew some objections.

A new site possibility, on unused Catholic church property adjoining St. Isabella's Church, was put forward by two members of the audience. Mayer said he would ask the city to investigate its availability.

Next board meeting will be May 31 at 7:45 p.m. in the library, to review bids for earthquake-proofing of the structure.

John Schmitz Returns To GOP

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — John Schmitz, presidential candidate of the American Independent Party in 1972, returned to the Republican party this week, saying it needs new leadership following Watergate.

Schmitz was once a Republican congressman, representing the district that includes the Western White House, but lost a try for renomination in a primary fight. He said President Nixon backed his opponent because Schultz opposed Nixon's foreign policy. He became AIP candidate and drew about one million votes in the presidential election.

Now a history professor at Santa Ana College, Schmitz said he came back to the GOP because, "President Nixon and the entire country need men in the Republican Party whose integrity is unquestioned and who are still devoted to what it once stood for."

Actress Killed In Auto Accident

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI) — Jannine La Lanne, a summer stock actress and daughter of television personality Jack La Lanne, was killed last night when her car overturned on a highway about seven miles east of here.

Three other persons, all members of the same troupe, were injured in the accident.

Miss La Lanne, 21, who was to have appeared in summer stock performances at the Barn Theater in nearby Augusta this summer, died at Borgess Hospital.

GOVERNOR'S PROMISE

Politicians generally kiss babies during campaigns but Gov. Ronald Reagan was not in that role yesterday as he posed for a picture taking session with Natalie Randolph Natasha Collier, infant daughter of Sen. Randolph Collier, 70, and his wife, Barbara, 34. Collier said he had received a promise from Reagan several weeks ago to have the baby's photograph taken with the governor just as his son's picture was made with former Gov. James (Sunny Jim) Rolph in 1931.

Senate Approves Remapping Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Prodded by the State Supreme Court and what one angry senator called "the whip of selfishness," the legislature has taken a giant step toward resolving the politically sensitive issue of reapportionment that has dogged it for nearly three years.

The Senate yesterday passed a bipartisan "last chance" redistricting bill supported by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

It creates a flying bat-shaped "Chicano" district in Southern California and abolishes the northern district of Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton. It is designed to protect every incumbent senator planning to seek re-election next year and preserve the current 20-20 Republican-Democrat split.

The redistricting would leave Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, with both Marin and Napa counties. He would lose part of Solano, however, instead picking up Pinole, Hercules, Rodeo, Port Costa and Crockett in Contra Costa County. The change for Behr in Solano County would mean a loss of a small area north of Dixon and east of Travis Air Force Base.

The bill (SB195) went to the Assembly on a 25-13 vote.

Behr is one of 15 Republicans who voted for the bill.

Just last Thursday, the Assembly passed a bill reapportioning its districts. That plan protects most incumbents and realigns the house with 47 Democrats and 33 Republicans. The lineup now is 48-27 with five vacancies.

The next step is for each house to approve the other's redistricting plan. Although some opposition is expected, each house traditionally has permitted the other to reapportion itself.

The two plans then would go to Reagan, who has promised to sign the Senate bill but is critical of the Assembly's. That could set up a veto override attempt.

The legislature legally was supposed to have reapportioned itself in 1971, based on the 1970 census. But Reagan vetoed the redistricting bills, charging Democratic gerrymander. And the State Supreme Court upheld him. The court gave the legislature until the end of 1972 to write new plans, but the lawmakers failed. Now they are striving to devise plans acceptable to the court.

"If we don't take this bill all the way through (the legislature) it will be our last chance for a meaningful reapportionment," the senators were told by Republican caucus chairman John L. Harmer of Glendale. He is co-author of the plan with Sen. George N. Zenovich, D-Fresno.

Short, who plans to retire, vehemently protested the abolishment of his San Joaquin County district.

He told his colleagues a "whip" had been used to push the bill "and the whip is selfishness."

"They've given enough of these legislators what they want in their districts to get the bill," said Short, apparently speaking to the gallery. Turning to Harmer, he added: "You've lined up enough votes on the basis of pure selfishness to get this bill passed. But I'm sure as hell going to vote no."

The "Chicano" district would stretch 70 miles from East Los Angeles to the city of San Bernardino. Its population would be 42.2 per cent Mexican-American.

Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, complained this was not a "true Chicano district" because it wandered through two counties with different "political climates."

Dymally, the Senate's only black, also charged that his Watts district had been made a "dumping ground" for area Negroes, thus handicapping blacks who might want to run for the Senate.

Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, objected to his newly carved district. It resembles a sphinx squatting across the San Joaquin Valley with doubled-under legs hooking over the coastal mountains and through Santa Maria and the University of California at Santa Barbara.

The district of Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, would crown California like a horseshoe, with the west end extending from the Oregon border along the coast past Sonoma, and the east end dipping through Hallelujah Junction just north of Reno.

Collier's district would contain the smallest population, 453,000, a difference of 16 per cent from the largest, 533,000, represented by Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Newport Beach.

Sens. George Moscone, a Democrat, and Milton Marks, a Republican, would represent the same at-large district in San Francisco and a portion of San Mateo County.

The bill was supported by 15 Republicans and 10 Democrats. It was opposed by four Republicans and nine Democrats.

Assembly Pushes For Passage Of Budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Democrats today pressed for swift passage of the largest state budget in the nation—a $9.4 billion proposal representing $460 for every man, woman and child in California.

The 1973-74 budget —$143 million more than Gov. Ronald Reagan originally requested — was expected to clear the Assembly with little difficulty, capping one of the chamber's most peaceful years of budget negotiations in recent history.

One of the few disputes erupted yesterday when Assemblyman William T. Bagley, the chief GOP budget expert, criticized Democrats for "fiscal flimflam" when they stripped federal revenue sharing from the budget. The San Rafael Republican charged the move was designed to hold the federal funds as "ransom" for an undisclosed future legislative deal.

Democratic Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., Ways and Means Committee chairman, said he would "rip into" Republicans if they tried to stop the budget bill (AB110). He contended the legislature should consider federal revenue sharing money in a separate bill.

The Assembly version of the budget is 22 per cent higher than the current $7.7 billion budget. It contains big pay raises for state employes, an extra $530 million in property tax relief and money for a new governor's mansion.

The Senate, meantime, is expected to vote on its version in about two weeks. The final budget will be ironed out privately in a two-house conference committee and then sent to the governor.

Senate Passes Bill To Delay Increase In Taxes

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill delaying for 30 days the scheduled June 1 state sales tax increase has been voted final passage by the Senate and sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure (AB137) by Assemblyman Joe A. Gonsalves, D-La Mirada, was aimed at giving Reagan and the legislature until July 1 to attempt to resolve differences over proposals for a long-term postponement.

After a brief floor debate yesterday, the Assembly-approved bill was passed on a 29-5 vote. Reagan was expected to sign the measure swiftly with the planned boost now only eight days away.

"This bill doesn't cost the state any money," argued Sen. Raph Dills, D-Gardena. "We simply won't extract the $50 million in sales tax from the people. Let's delay this tax until we get our fiscal house in order."

The increase, from five to six cents on the dollar, was voted late last year to help finance the state's new property tax relief and school aid program.

But an unforeseen budget surplus, projected at $852 million, has since emerged, triggering calls for a delay in the sales tax increase.

Reagan has passed a Democratic-sponsored rival to postpone it until July 1 of next year.

The five "no" votes on Gonsalves' interim measure were cast by Democratic Sens. Anthony Beilenson of Beverly Hills, Mervyn Dymally of Los Angeles, George Moscone of San Francisco, Nicholas Petris of Oakland and Albert S. Rodda of Sacramento.

Details Lacking In Sinking Of Cruiser

A Coast Guard spokesman said today that details still were lacking in the sinking Sunday of a 41-foot cabin cruiser off the Golden Gate. Its two crewmen were rescued the next day from a life raft.

The Coast Guard said the vessel was a new one, as yet unnamed. It was being taken from a boatyard in Vancouver, B.C., to Newport Beach for sale. It was not a Grand Banks trawler-style craft as earlier reported. Neither of the crewmen was a Bay Area resident.

Skylab Crew Launch Set Tomorrow

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The three Skylab 1 astronauts have a go for launch tomorrow morning to intercept their damaged space station in orbit and attempt to shade it from the baking heat of the sun.

Project officials said Skylab may have ripped metal, wires and rods hanging from its golden skin, but they expressed confidence the pilots could mend the station without undue risk and stay aloft for a record 28 days.

Ground crewmen worked quickly today to load three different types of sunshades and debris clearing tools aboard the modified Apollo spaceship the astronauts will ride to the historic meeting with Skylab 271 miles high.

The countdown rolled along smoothly and space veteran Charles "Pete" Conrad and his two rookie crewmen, space doctor Joseph P. Kerwin and aeronautical engineer Paul J. Weitz, were ready. The weather forecast was good.

The leaders of the emergency Skylab salvage effort reviewed all aspects of preparations at a meeting that ended late Wednesday night in Huntsville, Ala. NASA said the officials confirmed Friday's 9 a.m. EDT launch time.

The orbiting Skylab, they concluded, was completely stripped of its aluminum sun-meteoroid shield shortly after launch May 14 with only debris left in its place.

Engineers also believe one of Skylab's two main electric power generating wings was lost as the ship rocketed through the still-thick atmosphere 63 seconds after liftoff. The other power wing is believed to have started to unfold before being jammed by debris. Skylab's electricity is now coming from four smaller panels that convert sunlight into power.

The astronauts were given the okay to try to clear away the debris and attempt to nudge the remaining wing open. They would do this by reaching from the open Apollo hatch with a long pole.

Project director William C. Schneider said there was "a relatively low probability" the stuck wing could be freed.

The loss of half its power generating capability is serious, but Skylab's most critical problem is overheating from the sun. The interior of Skylab is like an oven and must be cooled to be habitable.

One of the three sun shades is expected to solve the problem and lower interior temperatures from the mid 120s to the 70s.

Electrical Brownouts Said Coming In State

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Electrical brownouts will strike California cities within five years unless the state acts soon to resolve a growing energy crisis, two assemblymen warned in proposing legislation to create a powerful new state commission.

The commission would have sweeping authority to ration electricity in emergencies, regulate household appliances to make sure they are efficient, and approve power plant locations.

The ambitious legislative package was unveiled yesterday by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti of Van Nuys, a contender for the 1974 Democratic gubernatorial nomination; and Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, who headed up a lengthy investigation of the electrical "energy crisis" in California.

Warren, who sides with environmentalists on most issues, said his committee found that to satisfy accelerating energy demands California must double its electrical resources every decade.

Unless something is done soon, Warren told a news conference, "we will start experiencing brownouts or blackouts in the next four to six years. They will not be isolated incidences and they conceivably could occur for a period of years."

Moretti said that "unlike other energy problems—such as the alleged oil shortage, which involves the federal government, oil imports, international companies and foreign governments—our electrical energy problem and its solution can be dealt with within the borders of California."

Under the act, a five-member State Energy Resources Conservation Commission, appointed by the governor, would have power to:

—Determine how much electrical energy California needs.

—Eliminate "wasteful, inefficient, unnecessary or uneconomical uses of electrical energy." This could be done by pricing, limiting electrical advertisements, improving home designs and making appliances more efficient.

—Certify power plant locations. Except for coastal zone commissions, the energy commission would have sole state authority over power plant sites.

—Conduct research and development of energy sources, particularly geothermal and solar.

—Ration electricity during brownout emergencies.

—Impose a tax on energy to pay for the project.

Warren said California in the future must rely "heavily" on geothermal energy — underground steam.

He also said because safeguards have not been perfected, "it appears foolhardy" to believe the electrical energy crisis can be resolved by building enough nuclear reactors.

And he said "traditional" means of producing electricity won't work because "there are few remaining dam sites, and environmentally acceptable fossil fuels, such as natural gas and low sulphur oil, will either not be available or in short supply."

Crash Victims Still Confined To Hospital

Three Stinson Beach residents, one of them a baby, who were injured last Tuesday in an accident in Sonoma County remained under treatment today in Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital.

Suzanne M. Bayer, 26, was reported in poor condition; Darius DeBelgodere, 1, was in satisfactory condition and his father, Bernard DeBelgodere, 30, was in satisfactory condition.

According to the California Highway Patrol, the westbound Bayer car and an eastbound car driven by Harvey G. Miller of Santa Rosa collided on Highway 12 west of Shaw Avenue in Kenwood.

Piano Workshop Performance Set

A group of students of Amelia Faustini, instructor emeritus at Dominican College in San Rafael, will perform in a piano workshop at 7:30 p.m. today in Angelico Hall on the Dominican campus.

Phases of piano study will be performed from the second grade to the college graduate level. A reception with refreshments will follow the workshop, according to Mrs. Faustini. The event is free and open to the public.

Being Polite Can Cause Trouble

LONDON (AP) — Belinda-Jane Blakeney spoiled things at a fund-raising "hush-in" at Thomas Bourne School, Berkhamstead, near London, when she politely said "thank you" for a drink.

The youngsters were not supposed to speak, and they had "sponsors" who promised charity contributions that would be bigger the longer the children remained silent.

Well wishers sent in more than $120 when they read of the incident.

Sonoma State Will Concentrate On Depression Era During Fall

The fall semester at Sonoma State College will be called the "Thirties Semester" in a pilot project aimed at stimulating student interest in the recent past and broadening their outlook on education.

Its promoters hope also that the emphasis on the 1930s will lead to improved relations with neighboring towns, where many remember well the great depression.

In a news conference yesterday, the cochairmen for the project; a new endeavor for Sonoma State but one which has been done at other colleges, described the reasons behind the semester theme.

Professors William Lee of the English department and Daniel Markwyn of the history department said that the 1930s had been chosen for special emphasis because "it was an exciting decade" and because of similarities to the present era.

Lee said that despite the difference between the economic conditions of the present and the 1930s, both eras have been noted for radical movements and protests.

Professor Markwyn said many students, although they "have heard much about the depression from their parents, have not even heard of the Spanish Civil War" and other events of the decade.

The pilot project will feature some 15 courses, not all of them new, including studies of the literature, history, politics, music and sociology of the period.

In addition to credit classes, art and photography exhibits, concerts, speakers and film presentations from the 1930s are planned.

Lee and Markwyn said they hope students will realize that these various aspects of the culture arose from the same background and come to appreciate the "validity of connected knowledge."

Lee said he had seen a similar program work successfully at the University of Connecticut.

College publicist Carl Campbell said announcement of the 1930s theme was received enthusiastically recently at a meeting of the Rohnert Park Chamber of Commerce, where members began to reminisce about their own experiences.

Tanker Driver Gets A Fill-Up

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — The driver of a 7,000-gallon gas tanker pulled into a cut-rate service station and said, "Fill 'er up."

He had adjusted his prices from 41.9 cents and 37.9 cents per gallon to 37.9 and 33.9 cents for high-test and regular-grade gas. He advertised the rates with a sign in front of his Atlantic Richfield station that said, "Gas sale. Lowest prices anywhere."

House Fails In Attempt To Override Nixon Veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the third time this year President Nixon has made his veto stick with Congress without it being overriden.

House proponents of a bill to make the present director of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), Roy Ash, and deputy director Frederic Malek subject to Senate confirmation failed by 40 votes Tuesday to muster the two-thirds needed to override Nixon's veto of the Bill.

But they said they may start all over again with a revised bill which would apply only to future holders of the two offices, not Ash and Malek.

The vote was 236 to 178. A day earlier the Senate voted 62 to 22 to override the veto, but this now doesn't count.

Congressmen from both parties have been generally unified in their criticism of OMB for impounding funds appropriated by Congress and killing or cutting back their programs.

During House debate, Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., leader of the override effort, turned to his Republican colleagues accross the aisle and said that the bill were "prospective rather than retroactive, I wonder if you gentlemen would support it."

Several Republicans nodded or said yes and several said outright during the debate that they would.

Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, told Holifield, "Then I hope you come right back with such a bill because at the rate of resignations in this town lately, we may have a crack at the Budget Bureau."

Holifield gave no indication whether he would, but the Senate Government Operations Committee revealed after the veto was sustained that Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., its chairman, had been prepared to do just that.

Rep. Alan Steelman, R-Tex., who lost an effort, 263-130, to amend the original House bill to remove the retroactive feature, noted that he had received the support of 124 Republicans for such an amendment.

If he can be assured Holifield's House Government Operations Committee, will act on the issue again, he would introduce a prospective bill quickly, Steelman said.

Trustees Hit Budget With Cuts

Reed School District trustees last night tentatively approved reducing next year's proposed $3,147,000 budget by about $11,000, then asked for a list of suggested additions to the spending program.

Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello said he was instructed to draw up a priority list for items which would add about $40,000 to the budget.

These items, including heating, drainage and maintenance work, will be studied further by trustees when their priority is established, said Giovanniello.

He also said he reminded trustees that the proposed budget makes no provision for increasing salaries beyond normal step increases, and asked the board to consider this a high priority item.

Giovanniello said trustees seemed agreeable to adding the post of instructional coordinator to the budget at an estimated cost of $17,000 to $20,000, if hiring such a person does not bring the number of teachers above 106, a limit previously set by the board.

The coordinator, if hired, would be in charge of administering special programs in math, reading and language arts. Giovanniello said money for consultants in those projects, budgeted at $12,000 this year, could be eliminated if a coordinator is hired.

The $11,000 in budget reductions consisted of several items, including $2,800 for textbooks and supplies, $3,000 in anticipated vandalism and numerous other small subtractions, said the superintendent.

The board agreed to hold special meetings Tuesday and June 12 on the budget and other subjects and held a closed session to interview one applicant for principal at the Reed complex of schools — Reed, Belvedere and Tiburon — but made no decision, said Giovanniello.

Size Increases Balding Chances

LONDON (AP) — Tall men tend to lose their hair sooner than shorties, and if they're chubby as well the chances of baldness increase.

That's the finding of Mrs. Betty Roney, who runs a London hair clinic. She believes that the bigger you are the greater the task of your blood supply to give nourishment to the roots of your hair.

College Board Takes First Look At Budget

The Marin Community College District board last night began work on a draft of a preliminary fiscal 1973-74 budget of $11,073,386 — about $750,000 higher than this year's total of $10,365,809.

District business manager Norman D. Bird said the total is a "very rough estimate" and the capital outlay section isn't yet complete.

This year's total required a tax rate of $1.065 per $100 assessed valuation, but Bird said he hasn't computed a tax rate on the 1973-74 total because it will undoubtedly be changed as the board goes through budget sessions.

The $11 million total includes all salary requests from district employees, said Bird, which is a district practice in preliminary budgets.

The faculty has asked for a 13 per cent raise, the classified employees for 10 per cent, and administrators for 8 per cent. If granted in full the raises would add $700,000 to this year's salary costs.

Bird said the board — with trustee Robert E. Oliver absent through illness — reviewed the draft budget and set another budget workshop session for 8 p.m. Thursday in room 101 of the office center. That session, which will be followed by discussion of district reorganization, will be preceded by a closed session at 7 o'clock, when the subject will be San Rafael redevelopment.

In other action the board awarded a contract for fencing the Indian Valley Colleges construction site to the Alcorn Fence Company of Hayward, low bidder of three at $10,432.

Pentagon Cuts Enlisted Aides

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After congressional criticism of the practice of using enlisted men as servants to generals and admirals, the Pentagon has decided to reduce the number of GI dog-walkers, baby-sitters and lawn tenders by 28 per cent.

Elliot L. Richardson, in one of his last acts as defense secretary, and on the day of his Senate confirmation to be attorney general, announced there will be 1,245 such enlisted aides to officers instead of the present 1,722.

No one explained why that particular number was picked. Sen. William D. Proxmire, D-Wis.' has been complaining about the use of enlisted men for such duties at a cost estimated at $21.3 million yearly.

Girl Attacked

A 15-year-old Terra Linda High School girl reported to police that as she was leaving the school and walking across the football field about 10 p.m. yesterday, a man, about 18-years old, grabbed her. She screamed and ran and he fled, according to police reports.

Condition Reported Following Accident

Thomas Lee, 23, of San Francisco, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital with a dislocated left hip and cuts and scrapes suffered Sunday in a motorcycle accident on Shoreline Highway near the Green Gulch Ranch in Southern Marin.

The California Highway Patrol said Lee was northbound at 8:05 a.m. when he rounded a curve in the left lane and his motorcycle collided head-on with a pickup truck driven by Amadeo Banducci Jr., 38, of the Banducci Ranch, Muir Beach.

FORTIES FROLIC FOR COLLEGE OF MARIN

In a rousing climax to their 1940s style tap dancing revue, College of Marin students raise their arms in the traditional "it's great to be alive" finale. The young dancers delighted an audience of hundreds in the student center this week in part of the college's annual Spring-It festival. They're enrolled in Bea Blum's experimental studies program tap dancing class — a course that's been a runaway success this semester, attracting dozens of boys and girls who yearn for the uncomplicated America of 1940s movies.

Sewage Ponding Area Still Is Being Sought

A survey by Cooper-Clark Co., soils engineers, disclosed that the original site has "potential instability," according to James D. Fritz, chief engineer for the district.

Directors agreed Tuesday night to investigate another site in the same area, Fritz reported.

Occupancy of Coast Guard housing at Point Reyes Station by families has been delayed, pending installation of a sewage system, Fritz said.

Bachelor quarters are occupied and sewage from the quarters is now being hauled out daily in a tank to the Novato treatment plant, Fritz said.

He estimated the site change could delay progress on a sewage system up to four weeks.

The North Marin County Water District Also:

WATER USAGE — Heard a report that water usage last month was 15.5 per cent higher than in April, 1972, partly because of more consumers and partly because of dry weather.

PLANNING — Requested that Novato planning doesn't include extending Vineyard Road through the Stafford Lake area, and advised that development of the Rebello land southeast of the lake would threaten the water supply, if development drained into the reservoir.

PIPELINE — Awarded Ameron Pipe Products Group, a low bidder, to install 1,000 feet of 24-inch steel pipe at Crossroads Unit II, at Highway 101 and South Novato Boulevard, at a cost of $13,750.

NEW JOB — Authorized the hiring of an additional draftsman for the engineering department at a salary range of $710 to $850 a month.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to 8 p.m. June 5 at the district office in Novato.

Confidence Man Cannot Marry

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Confidence man David Te Huia has been forbidden to marry for three years under terms of probation imposed by a magistrate here.

Te Huia admitted three charges of theft totaling $6,993 from a 70-year-old widow. He told her he would invest her savings at a higher rate of interest than paid by her bank.

Stipendiary magistrade John H. Murray imposed fines of $360 and forbade Te Huia marrying or having responsibility for the maintenance or support of any women or children while on probation.

Divorce Filed By Wife Of POW

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — The wife of an Air Force officer held prisoner by the North Vietnamese for 5 ½ years filed suit Tuesday to end their 18-year marriage.

Lt. Col. Robert L. Stirm, 41, a fighter bomber pilot, was shot down over Hanoi Oct. 27, 1967, and was freed March 13. He is now at the Travis Air Force Base medical center.

Mrs. Loretta Stirm's suit to dissolve the marriage asked custody of the couple's four children: Lorrie, 15, Robert Jr., 14, Roger, 12, and Cynthia, 11.

Philippine Diplomat Is Refused Asylum

SEN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service Tuesday refused to grant political asylum to Philippine diplomat Ruperto Baliao, who has accused President Ferdinand Marcos of being "a new Hitler."

The service said it would be simpler for Baliao, former acting consul general of the Philippines in Los Angeles, to merely apply for resident alien status.

New Deadline For Updated Plans Possible

The Larkspur Planning Commission has been advised by City Attorney Joseph Forrest that pending state legislation might extend the July 1 deadline for cities to update their general plans and component elements.

City planning director John Roberto said the attorney also advised commissioners on methods of open space planning at their meeting Tuesday.

The commission told staff to give a draft slope policy to Forrest for his comments, said Roberto. The policy, subject of a public hearing at a date to be announced in June, will apply to all Larkspur property having a slope of more than 10 per cent, except land zoned for planned development.

In other action the commission approved a variance for Anthony Compagno to construct a swimming pool in his front garden at 65 Orange Avenue surrounded by a six feet high fence, because his home is backed by a cliff.

The higher price was paid through the Grand National Foundation, aimed at encouraging young people to go into the livestock business.

Police Action Ends Long Run Of 'Deep Throat' In Petaluma

"Deep Throat," the X-rated movie already banned in San Jose, abruptly ended a 24-week run in Petaluma last night when authorities somewhat belatedly seized the film.

Police, armed with a search warrant signed by Judge Alexander J. McMahon of Southern Sonoma Municipal Court, went to the State theater in the downtown section of Petaluma at about 5:45 p.m.

Sgt. William Reed, whose earlier viewing of the movie had led to the search warrant, said the theater operator, Alan Finley, turned over the film after looking at the warrant.

Another X-rated movie, "Behind the Green Door," went up on the marquee and presumably was shown last night.

"Throat," ensconced today in the police department's evidence locker, was due to be shown soon to Judge McMahon, who is to decide whether it is pornographic under the law.

If he says it is, the district attorney's office will file criminal charges, a spokesman said.

Petaluma, whose reputation has never included being a center for erotic entertainment, has come increasingly annoyed at the type of movies being shown both at the State and at local drive-in theaters.

The city council earlier this week introduced an ordinance which would ban films showing "explicit sex" at outdoor theaters.

The action against the State theater followed discussions with the district attorney's office over what could be done to get rid of "Throat."

Sergeant Reed's affidavit describing the movie, and which led to the search warrant, was an "exhaustive" description of scenes in the film, Judge McMahon said today. He added he does not yet know when he will hold his "private screening."

In the meantime, several residents commented today to the Independent-Journal, that everyone in town had a chance to see it first, any way.

Standard Drops Trading Stamps

Standard Oil Co. of California announced Wednesday it has withdrawn stamps from its 268 company - owned stations in California because they were no longer needed for sales promotion.

"We felt it was a bad position to be taking promotion steps to increase gasoline sales at a time when we have a shortage," said a company spokesman.

Lawsuit Asks End To 'War'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two antiwar congressmen filed federal suits yesterday asking the courts to declare U.S. military activities in Cambodia unconstitutional and to order their halt.

Reps. Ron V. Dellums and Fortney Stark Jr., both Democrats from the east side of San Francisco Bay, brought the nearly identical suits against the Secretaries of Defense, Air Force and Navy.

They asked the U.S. District Court to issue injunctions prohibiting the Pentagon from continuing "bombing of Cambodia or otherwise engaging in warfare in Cambodia."

Stark's suit said the Cambodian bombing constituted "war" under terms of the U.S. Constitution.

Nicasio Teacher -Trustee Retires

MARIE ROGERS
Retiring trustee

By PAUL LIBERATORE

She was the district's only teacher for 38 students in kindergarten through eighth grade.

The assignment was a step up for her in responsibility. Before that, from 1925 to 1928, after graduation from Dominican College, she was the sole teacher at Dixie School in San Rafael, with an enrollment of 11.

After two and one half years at Nicasio School, she worked at West End School in San Rafael for six months before marrying dairyman George Rogers, now the honorary mayor of Nicasio.

She left teaching to settle down on Rogers' 871-acre farm in Nicasio and to raise three daughters, all of whom became teachers.

Appointed to the school board in 1952, Mrs. Rogers, a youthful-looking 70, will retire June 30 after 21 years as a district trustee. Nicasio residents, present and former board members, teachers and friends gathered last night at Rancho Nicasio for a retirement dinner in her honor.

During her years in education, Mrs. Rogers has seen the district change and grow, but not much.

Course In Study Skills Scheduled

A course on how to study in college will be held from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. June 18 through 21 in Olney Hall at College of Marin, according to Sheryl Barnard, program director of the Marin YMCA.

The course, limited to high school graduates, will be taught by Professor Robert F. Schwartz of Purdue University, who has been teaching classes in college study skills for 18 years.

Reservations for the class may be made by contacting the Marin YMCA office in San Rafael.

Although the picture postcard schoolhouse still stands, classes have been moved to a larger, more modern school down the road. There are now about 50 students and three teachers, one of whom also serves as principal.

"Because of my background in teaching, I have always been interested in seeing that the district hired good teachers," Mrs. Rogers said yesterday. "Most of the time we were successful, but sometimes we weren't."

She recalled the controversy that swirled in the district in 1967, when the then teacher-principal Garnet E. Brennan disclosed in an affidavit to a San Francisco court that she had been smoking marijuana daily since 1949.

Mrs. Brennan was fired by the board and the incident grabbed headlines nationally, putting tiny Nicasio School District on the map.

"The decision to fire her wasn't difficult at all," Mrs. Rogers remembered. "It wasn't a question of whether pot was harmful or not. Teachers are supposed to set an example for their students and uphold the law."

Reflecting on her more than two decades on the board, Mrs. Rogers pointed proudly to the lack of dissension between trustees and to the quality of the school program.

"We have an excellent school now," she said. "We are in a unique situation. We have all the advantages of a large school, but without the problems."

Growth, however, will be one facet of education with which future board members will have to contend, she said.

"This year there is a decline in enrollment, but in the next year or two new people will be moving into the valley and the school population will increase."

After her final term, Mrs. Rogers plans to "still be a part of the community," and although she doesn't plan to be active in school activities, "I will always be interested in what's going on."

Agenda Released By School Board

The San Anselmo School District board will consider a timetable for reassignment of children enrolled at Isabel Cook School when it meets at 7:30 p.m. today in Red Hill School.

The board has decided to phase out the school because of sagging enrollment in the district.

The board will meet in closed session to discuss salary proposals by employees, consider a school calendar for 1973-74, and consider appointing a committee to study a proposal for a 12-month school year.

June 29 Set For Start Of Second Magee Trial

SAN JOSE (UPI) — A trial date of June 29 was set Wednesday for San Quentin convict Ruchell Magee, 34, accused of kidnaping a judge during an escape attempt that left four persons dead.

Superior Court Judge John T. Racanelli set the trial date and ruled that pretrial motions will be heard June 6.

Magee is to be retired on a single charge of kidnap arising from the gunbattle in the Marin County Civic Center in August, 1970, Superior Judge Harold J. Haley and three escaping convicts were killed.

Magee was originally charged with conspiracy, murder and kidnap, along with black militant Angela Davis, who police said furnished guns used in the escape attempt.

His first trial on the charges ended in a hung jury. The second trial was moved here from San Francisco on a change of venue. Previously, the trial had been moved from Marin County to San Francisco.

The second trial is in the Santa Clara County Criminal Legal Building, in the same courtroom Miss Davis was acquitted nearly one year ago.

AMANDA SHEINER, 5, wears a rat for a hat at Marin Terrace School in Mill Valley to demonstrate his gentleness to Mrs. James Krill of Belvedere, Bay Area chairman of animal donations for KQED's auction, June 1 - 10, in which the kindergarten's rat pack will be sold on television.

School's Rats Benefit Auction

By PAT BALMES

"We were running out of kids and teachers to give rats to when we heard about the KQED auction," said kindergarten teacher Barbara Phelps at Marin Terrace School in Mill Valley.

The kindergarten's growing rat pack, offspring of mates which produce four litters a year, is part of its sex education program, the teacher mentioned.

No ordinary run-of-the-garbage-can rats, these little squeakers are child-proofed; they have been handled since birth by the busy, noisy students.

Usually some child has a rat sitting on his shoulder, said Miss Phelps who added that sometimes parents are a little shocked to see it when they come for teacher conferences.

The teacher has arranged with the KQED auction animal chairman, Mrs. James Krill of Belvedere, for a student to show the rats on camera at the Cow Palace during the auction from June 1 through 10 to benefit the public television station.

Lucie Krill will schedule animals to be auctioned on camera between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. and plans an animal afternoon on Saturday, June 9 so purchasers can come to the Cow Palace to meet the seller and discuss the animal's nature.

Purchasers come from as far south as Carmel and north as Petaluma. One man drove up from Carmel last year to get a Balinese kitten, she said.

The animal chairman or a member of her committee must be at the auction each night to ensure that the animals are under control and well taken care of.

"We had a parakeet loose in the Cow Palace last year. We do not want to lose what belongs to somebody else, so we request that the donor remain with his pet until it is sold and its papers are transferred," she said, adding that dogs and cats must be pedigreed.

A newcomer last year from Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. Krill volunteered at KQED "not for secretarial work but for an involved job with the auction. I certainly got it; they made me animal chairman," said the widowed mother of five children.

"It was a lot of really fun hours in a short period. My children enjoyed working with me at the Cow Palace, watering and taking care of animals and even putting them on camera," said Lucie Krill.

She liked the personal contact with both parties in the transaction.

"Kathy and Bing Crosby's butler brought their Labrador puppy to the auction a couple of years ago," she mentioned.

The auction's soliciting committee gathers most of the promises of animals while Mrs. Krill solicits the "big accounts," such as the Fireman's Fund, which donated a Dalmatian last year.

The first Charter Bank of London donated an English bulldog's price and put the problem of finding one into her hands, Mrs. Krill said.

More than 100 animals were auctioned last year including pigeons, ewes, ducks, goats, sheep, parakeets, parrots, fish, a seven-foot long boa constrictor and a hen that laid green eggs, she said.

"Call KQED auction office in San Francisco to donate an animal," advised Mrs. Krill.

Risk Way Of Life For Nocks

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The family that dares together stays together, if the Pio Nock family is any criterion.

The Nocks represent three generations of aerialists currently performing in the circus and with a heritage of eight generations under the big top.

"It's good that as a family we always work together," said Pio Nock Jr. "We watch out for each other. We make sure we do not have to depend on other people for our safety."

Something did go wrong, though, during one of the six acts the Nocks are putting on with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus in Madison Square Garden.

During the senior Nock's high wire ride on a bicycle in late March, a mechanism that held the wire taut gave and tumbled him 19 feet into the cage of lions beneath.

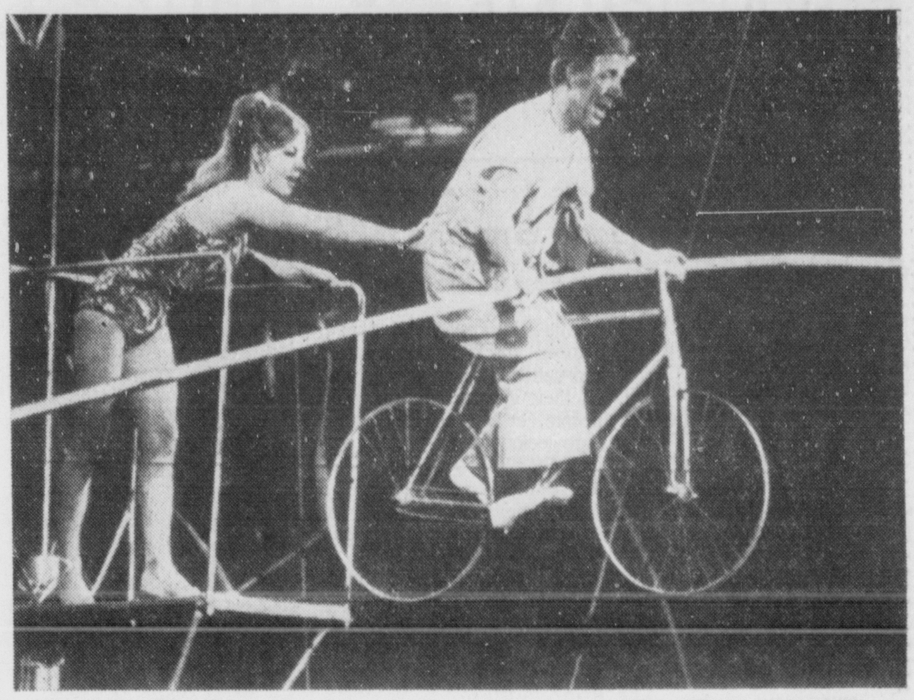
"I'D WORKED with the cats before when I got the idea for the act," he said in an interview. "The trainer (Wolfgang Holzmair) had told me, 'If there's ever a spill, remember to get to your feet at once.'"

The 52-year-old performer got safely out of the cage, but went to the hospital for several weeks for assorted injuries from the spill. Now back, and again performing above the cage, he says of the accident, "I get an occasional crick in my neck."

The accident reinforced the superstition of three-in-a-row that circus people—and many others—hold. "That morning, making coffee, I spilled some and got a severe leg burn," said his daughter Isabella Nock Cort.

"Then another performer fell from a teeterboard. We were all nervous . . . we knew a third accident was going to occur."

The Nocks originate in Switzerland where an uncle still runs a circus bearing the family name. Pio, Jr., said the family can trace itself to the early 1800s at least.



PIO NOCK, high wire clown, is the patriarch of a family of circus performers, which traces itself back eight generations. Three generations of aerialists currently perform with the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

(UPI Telephoto)

THE CURRENT group consists of the patriarch; son Pio, Jr., married to Hungarian-born Katy; son Tony; daughter Isabella, married to Mario Cort. The matriarch retired a few years ago from the high wires and now does all the family's costuming.

There are two children— Sascha Cort, six, already wearing a mini clown costume and learning to walk the wires with grandpa; and Alexandria Nock, 10-month-old daughter of Pio, Jr.

Talking with the Nock family backstage is a little like trying to listen to everyone at once in several languages including fluent English. The adults speak "six or seven" languages and the infant understands three already—English, Hungarian and German.

The schedule of a circus performer is a strenuous one— two performances every day except Saturday when there are three. There's time, however, between shows for daily chores like shopping. Otherwise the only "free" time is travel time to another engagement.

Ringling Bros. opened in Venice, Fla., Jan. 5, and will fold the tents Dec. 2, after performing across the country, East and West, North and South.

They travel in three trailers, one to a family, and the accommodations sound as comfortable as any in a house.

"An 80-gallon water tank for my shower," said Nock, Sr. "Big freezers." Steak is a steady in the diet because of the high protein content—"We use up a lot of energy during a performance," said one of the family.

On the road, they try to encamp where there are good recreation facilities. "This is our fifth season in America," says the older Nock. "I'll bet we've seen more of America than most Americans.

Clever Mobiles With Odds, Ends

Wire coat hangers are the basis of many a mobile, reminds the June issue of Redbook magazine. They may be used singly or in twos and three or opened out into spirals, and the mobile parts may be of cardboard, plastic or metal, suspended on thread, fishing line or wire.

Even old table-tennis balls turned into fish with the addition of paper fins, tails and painted-on eyes and mouths make a clever hanging."

The best balance can be achieved by starting from the bottom up to assemble the mobile.

Valuable Painting Needs Cleaning

If you have a valuable oil painting, dust it. For a thorough cleaning, ask an expert for instruction.

Usually the curator of the local art museum is a good source. Or someone from a local art school.

Spock Offers Summer Advice

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — With the arrival of the playground season, Dr. Benjamin Spock is advising parents who witness disputes over playground possessions to "let them tug it out between themselves for awhile."

"It is good for children to learn to stand up for their own rights and usually the one who is the owner has stronger feelings of possessiveness and therefore a stronger tug," he said.

Dr. Spock explained in an article in the June issue of Redbook magazine that it is very difficult for a child under three to understand the idea of sharing.

"When parents make too insistent demands for sharing it only makes a child more selfish," he said.

ELECTED — Mrs. Ralph Clark Jr. of Terra Linda has been elected secretary of the North Bay Chapter, March of Dimes. Mrs. Walter F. Johnson will continue as chairman of the agency.

Development Is Training Key

Training is the key to developing a young child's concern for others, report National Institute of Mental Health scientists.

Parents also must be responsive to their children's feelings, and point out to them in specific circumstances the desirability and best method for altruistic expression, say Dr. Marian R. Yarrow and associates, Dr. Carolyn Z. Waxler and Dr. Phyllis M. Scott.

Too little is known about "pro-social" behavior, the NIMH investigators believe, and with 104 nursery school children between 3 and 6, have begun a long-term study of the potentialities for altruistic responsiveness in the very young.

GENERATION RAP

Young Men's Breasts Enlarged By Heavy Marijuana Smoking

HELEN AND SUE:

Maybe three cases don't constitute an epidemic, but a Boston newspaper says doctors at Cambridge Hospital there have been treating three young men —all heavy marijuana smokers —for "gynecomastia," or the development of big breasts.

Nothing conclusive has been decided about the effects of grass on the chest, but the theory is that pot ingredient 9-THC is chemically similar to a powerful female hormone called estradiol. Two of the men have asked for surgical removal of the overhang.

I thought your readers who smoke pot might want to know they are running the risk of becoming bosom buddies. — POT SHOT

P.S.:

Interesting. . .Another boobie-trap for pot smokers, maybe? — HELEN

P.S.:

DEAR RAP:

I read recently a statement by a doctor that under no circumstances would "reputable doctors" lighten the skin of Negroes for cosmetic purposes — even if the bleach was fairly safe.

This makes me fighting mad. Whites darken their skins through sun tan. Orientals widen their eyes through surgery, people get face lifts to improve their looks, but if a black wants a lighter tone, suddenly he's discriminated against.

Sure, black is beautiful, but so is warm brown, and it isn't so hard to photograph.

I don't want to "pass," but I want to get ahead and deep black doesn't make it for a — FUTURE MODEL AND ACTRESS

DEAR MODEL:

So far, the "safe" skin bleach hasn't been invented, and "fairly safe" isn't good enough when the go-wrong could mean disfiguration for life.

I don't think the doctor you mention was discriminating. He was simply being cautious. — HELEN

DEAR ACTRESS:

A lot of beautiful black actors and actresses might argue with your last sentence. Didn't you see "Sounder"?

. . .And wait for a safe bleach, though you'll probably have stopped feeling the need, when it arrives. — SUE

THEY JUST LOOK OLD

Fashions Nostalgic But Still Are New

NEW YORK (UPI) — The current fashions breathe the nostalgia of the 1920s and 1930s. But if somewhere along the way you inherited a dress or suit from that period, don't try to salvage it. With rare exception, it'll still look dated.

"Fashion runs in cycles," said one woman veteran of the style world. "But the revivals come back with a different, a today, look."

What's back in the new colections are fluid-looking gowns, shirtwaist dresses and sweaters in all lengths and guises. The Paris couture's "fanny sweater" length down around the hips was the big hit of the fall showings for international buyers.

"We're seeing a lot more fitted silhouettes," said Wanda Wdowka, director of the Traphagen School of Fashion. "You see it in the shirtwaists, even in bridal gowns where the high Empire waistline is being replaced with the natural waistline."

"THE FIGURE-CONSCIOUS shapes are not being done by an elaborate system of inner construction," she continued.

"Designers have learned how to make darts and seams and the supply fabrics do the work."

Even so, Miss Wdowka said, a lot of women will be reluctant to return to belts. "They got so used to the comfort and mobility of the beltless chemise."

One thing's certain, she said. "Today's women now are dictating to the designers."

Christian Dior of Paris was probably the last of the great dictators of style, she said. It was Dior's 1947 mid-calf length, billowing skirts and taut waistlines that became known as the "New Look."

Said the fashion director, "There's no such thing today as ONE look. The accent is on comfort and mobility. And easy care. The sweaters represent comfort. The synthetics mean minimum care. And I don't think women will give up pants."

Miss Wdowka (pronounced wah-dow-ka) talked of fashion as the Traphagen School began observance of its 50th anniversary.

AS PART of the observance, the school staged a fashion show of designs from its nearly 300 students and also dipped into the past with a show from its costume collection — 1,000 items, some originals, some reproductions, dating from the year 1,200 on.

The school was founded in 1923 by the late Ethel Traphagen and calls itself the oldest in the country devoted exclusively to fashion. It brags of the awards its graduates have won, including seven Cotys considered the most sought for Helen Lee, Stan Herman, Geoffrey Beene, Victor Joris, James Galanos, Luis Estevez and Anne Klein.

Miss Wdowka had taken the two-year course herself in the 1940s but went into commercial art for a while. She also worked for Mainbocher, the American courturier, who since has closed business.

Like a homing pigeon, she found herself going back to the school, first to teach, then become assistant director and three years ago full director.

MISS WDOWKA thinks Paris has lost its clout as the world's style center — "that's why Paris designers went into ready-to-wear and boutiques instead of continuing to cater only to the very wealthy woman."

"Even women with money today don't want to look like money," she said.

And as for those annual best-dressed lists, Miss Wdowka simply shrugged and said "they serve no purpose."

Working Mothers Possess Some Unusual Attributes

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

I don't know how working mothers do it.

The "it" is the business of combining all the skills and patience needed for managing a family with the round-the-clock demands of a profession. It's certainly understandable why working mothers have household help, why they even have live-in or by-the-day child-care assistance.

But even with such help, there is something magnificent about juggling both family and professional concerns simultaneously. The good mother supports husband and children continuously. She must be ready at any moment to pick up where the last conversation left off and provide the proper sounding board for each individual need.

That alone is like being the only lifeguard on duty Saturday afternoon at the one beach in town. You can't let your guard down for a moment, and you never know who's going to cry "help" next.

BUT THE working mother also has a profession which she is nurturing. If she's a writer, she must be keeping scripts or plots or sentence structures in her thought, continually attempting to improve them. If she has employees under her, she has the equivalent of a whole other family — a second beach full of swimmers.

Working mothers have to know what their firm's clients want, how to get it to them, how to smooth out past mistakes, and simultaneously provide instant directions on how to complete homework assignments or how to ask a girl out on her first date.

Working mothers have to keep the linen closets in order and prepare memos for their immediate supervisors so that the "front office" will be impressed.

Working mothers have to share their husband's interest in his business, provide him with adequate social support and be a good companion both to him and their children. Simultaneously, they have their co-workers to support, their bosses to serve and their employees to help mature into independence.

The mother who uses part of her home as an office or who is able to conduct most of her business over the telephone isn't any better off than the mother who goes away each day to a professional office. In fact, it may be more difficult to separate activities without the help of a geographic change.

Since I don't know how working mothers do it, and since an ode lasts only so long, perhaps all of us who aren't carrying both loads could step in to help as often as possible.

CERTAINLY, EVERY neighborhood needs a good child-care facility. Working mothers ought to be able to have a warm, lively, clean, wholesome place where they can leave little ones, knowing they will be well cared for.

Working mothers also need someone to do the household chores and some of the meal preparation. There's no reason why every neighborhood shouldn't have adults and older youngsters who offer to provide cleaning and cooking services at reasonable costs.

And what about chauffeur service for working mothers? Teen-agers interested in helping to pay for a car might offer to drive a nearby working mother back and forth to her office each day at a reasonable cost, extending the time she has to spend with her family.

School teachers and adults might well offer tutorial services to the children of working mothers when there is a need for some extra teaching.

And, certainly, husbands of working mothers might look for ways to share household and family duties in such a way that it supports the working mother's profession and does not deprive her of constant, loving contact with her children.

Before I get letters from irate working fathers, let me just say that this column also applies to any fathers who take strong responsibility for children along with carrying out the duties of a full-time professional job.

Eton Fed Up With U.S. Shutterbugs

LONDON (AP) — The student magazine of Eton, that school for young gentlemen who go around in top hats, says American tourists with cameras are turning the ancient college into "the ultimate game reserve."

An article in the Eton Chronicle adds that the students are fed up with having tourists prowling around in hopes of taking a picture of "an animal sired by a real, live lord."

"No sooner has the sole of that polished Gucci shoe touched the ground than its wearer is confronted with the Etonian," the Chronicle says.

"Now he is in the middle of the ultimate game reserve, where the animals are so docile that they will offer only their best profiles to be imprinted on the celluloid.

"Rent-a-native is becoming a well-established means of being shunted around the sights.

"How long will it be before Etonians will be paid to pose for photographs, even to wear perpetual smiles?"

So how does the Etonian, blue-blooded offspring of the nation's elite, feel about the snap-happy Americans who come to stare.

"In short," said the magazine, "he feels himself infinitely superior to the bus-borne, gaily colored rabble."

Deputy Sheriffs Asking For A Grand Jury Probe

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - The Deputy Sheriffs Association asked the county grand jury Wednesday to "investigate and expose the inefficiency and faulty administration" of the Sheriff's Department.

In a letter to the jury, the association accused Sheriff Richard Hongisto of violating civil service regulations; making a "disgrace" of the payroll system, and said that "failing to win the support and confidence of the deputies, he has now fallen to what appears to be the making of threats and intimidation."

The association said it would picket City Hall Thursday at noon to distribute information about its grievances.

Hongisto was out of town and unavailable for comment.

Stephen Bley, the association lawyer who wrote the letter, suggested in it that Hongisto was replacing seniority "with favoritism and the spoils system."

Without training and "in direct violation of Civil Service regulations," Bley said Hongisto appointed a member of the honorary mounted posse to senior deputy above "as many as a hundred permanent employees."

Attacking the payroll system, Bley wrote: "Some men are receiving two and three checks for the same pay periods, while others get their paychecks two months late. Some have gotten no paychecks for weeks."

Bley also said that Deputy Dan Flynn, an association union shop stewart who was subpoenaed by the grand jury during a recent jail investigation, was "continually harassed, threatened and intimidated by the sheriff's administration." The jury's final report was critical of Hongisto's jail programs.

Jury Foreman James T. Rodman said a committee will investigate the association charges.

Hongisto is trying to unseat the current jury, contending in a lawsuit that it does not represent the entire community. The jury was selected from nominations by county judges.

Graves Turn Out To Be Foxholes

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Two teen-aged hikers found what they thought were gravesites while walking through San Francisco watershed property.

They told San Mateo County Sheriff's deputies about the holes Monday night and officers were sent to investigate.

It turned out the holes were filled-in foxholes used by the Army during World War II training exercises.

YES OR NO:

The bigger the diamond, the less the price per carat.

Well, no.
When you buy flour, salt, or sugar, the bigger the package, the lower the price per pound. But not so with diamonds. A 2-carat stone will cost far more than twice the price of two otherwise equal 1-carat stones. Because size itself is a rarity factor in diamonds.

As are color, clarity, brilliance, and excellence of cut. There's a lot to know about diamonds, and from time to time, we'll be telling you more. Meanwhile, you consult us at any time: we shall be happy to discuss with you, in confidence and with complete frankness, anything you'd like to know about diamonds. And there is never an obligation.

ART REVIEW

A Tribute To Adams In Dominican Show

By ADA GARFINKEL

Ansel Adams has been a major influence on the world of photography for decades.

Now in his 70s and living in Carmel, Adams earlier spent many years on the Dominican College campus doing photos for the college catalogs and yearbooks in the 1930s and 1940s.

An exhibit of Adams' work currently on display in Dominican's Alemany Library has been selected from three portfolios and shots of campus sites signed and presented by the artist to the college some years ago.

Though dating back 20 or 30 years, the photos are remarkably timeless. There are no quick, candid shots. Very few are of people. All are in black and white.

The majestic and awesome grandeur of nature in some special manifestation is the theme and subject matter of most of the 24 photos in the show. Some register palpable quiet —others turbulence. Monumentality and epic time are also consistent factors.

The shadowy, precipitous walls of Canyon deChelly National Monument in Arizona extending upward beyond the perimeter of the photo, and dwarfing the ancient Indian cliff dwellings at its base, while sunshine floods a scanty group of trees at the lowest edge, is one dramatic example.

For sheer closeup grandeur, there is a photo of a massive, denuded tree-trunk — its exposed roots and burls speaking louder than words of the passage of eons of time.

Still working — only an assignment in Canada prevented Adams from accepting an invitation to address the graduating senior class at Dominican —he has also compiled 15 volumes on photography, three of which are also in the show.

The exhibit which was sponsored by the graduating photography majors as a tribute to Adams, will continue until July 1, but will be transferred to the second floor conference room of the library on June 14, and may be seen weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Marin Students Winners In Design Contest

Marin County high school students took 11 awards in the fourth annual American Institute of Architects high school architectural design competition out of 61 entries from 14 high schools in San Francisco and Marin County.

The local students took two out of three design prizes and all three of the model prizes.

Gregory Cudworth of Terra Linda High School won first in design and third in model and best entry from his school. Paul Wilbert of Tamalpais High School won second in both the design and model competitions and best entry from his school. Douglas Mobley of Novato High School won first in model competition and best entry from his school.

San Franciscans Face Trial On Felony Charges

Ordered to make a preliminary appearance in superior court June 11 were John Moissant, 26, and Beatrice Darby, 22. Municipal Court Judge Robert A. Smallman ruled Tuesday enough evidence exists to try Moissant on felony counts of burglary and possession of a concealed pistol.

The judge made a similar ruling on charges of burglary and possession of cocaine against Miss Darby.

Sausalito police arrested the pair May 9 near the boutique on Bridgeway after finding a broken window and merchandise strewn in a nearby alley.

The two are free on their promise to appear in court.

Husband Denies Beating Wife

A Marin City man, arrested Sunday on suspicion of felony wife beating, pleaded innocent Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court to two misdemeanor counts of battery.

Sheriff's deputies arrested Tyrone Ruffin after twice receiving reports he was attacking his wife. After the second report, she was found unconscious, deputies said.

Ruffin is to return to court Wednesday for a pretrial conference.

San Rafael High's Officers Selected

Daniel Sheehy and Max Thelen were candidates in a run off election held today for junior class president.

Arts And Crafts Fair Scheduled

An arts and crafts fair sponsored by the San Rafael Meadows Improvement Association is scheduled for 10 a.m. June 9 in a parking lot at 3773 Redwood Highway, association chairman John A. Allen announced yesterday.

Ceramics, paintings, sculpture and photographs will be on exhibit and for sale, he said.

"We just wanted to spark some espirit de corps in the community," said Allen.

Marin's County Theater Not For Marin's Own

The Marin Shakespeare Festival has moved out of Marin, to the Palace of Fine Arts in San Francisco. According to Susie Walker, executive director, the festival hopes to retain a Marin identification despite its move across the Golden Gate Bridge.

There is a story behind the move, and it is one that is recurring with Marin County cultural organizations.

WHEN THE Shakespeare Festival's lease of its outdoor theater in Dominican College's Forest Meadows expired, the college notified the festival the lease would not be renewed because it planned to use the outdoor theater for its own classes and productions. The Shakespeare Festival, which had been thinking of going indoors anyhow, turned to the Marin Veterans Memorial Building — the obvious choice.

No chance! Not only was it impossible to book a sufficient block of dates for the summer festival season, but prices were prohibitive.

The county's charge for the Veterans Memorial theater is $600 per night on week-ends, half that in midweek. That is the basic charge. Ticket sales and ticket taking, special lighting, etc., are extra.

The Palace of Fine Arts, a San Francisco municipal theater looking for resident attractions, welcomed the Marin Shakespeare Festival — at $132.50 per night.

OTHER MARIN cultural groups are trying to use the county-owned, taxpayer-built Veterans Memorial Building despite its high price tags. Marin Music Chest will stage its season there this summer — though reducing it to three concerts.

The Music Chest was able to negotiate a special rate of $400 for each of three performances on Sundays — $400 base, that is. Additional are $25 for ticket sellers and $10 for ticket takers, since the building management will not permit renters to use their own personnel. And there may be additional lighting cost for the September presentation of the San Francisco Ballet.

Some other local groups have booked the building. Marin County Cat Fanciers had it for one week end this spring for a cat show. Terra Linda High School presented its musical there.

And there have been three performances by the San Francisco Symphony. Giving the symphony a "home in Marin" was considered a big plus for the county auditorium, though it had played in some other Marin halls earlier.

IN BETWEEN these, the Veterans Memorial Building has had Bill Monroe and His Bluegrass Boys, Bill Cosby and the Persuasions, Duke Ellington and his orchestra, comedian George Carlin, and Marcel Marceau, "world's greatest mime," among others.

We have no quarrel with this selection. It includes pretty much something for everybody — and it includes some top entertainers.

But the people of Marin paid taxes for two decades to build what was first projected as a veterans' memorial hall, later as a theater-auditorium. They did it to provide a place where Marin can stage its own events.

It is a sad commentary when these must move across the Golden Gate to find a taxpayer-subsidized home at prices they can pay.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

One Skeptical Legislator Reverses Prison Program

By EARL G. WATERS

While it is often thought that a lone voice cannot be heard, state Sen. H. L. Richardson is proving this to be a myth.

His continuing criticisms of the prison administration has brought about a complete reversal of program.

Not too long ago the public was being treated to glowingly optimistic predictions of declines in prison population. There was even talk of razing the state's two largest prisons, San Quentin and Folsom.

Inmate populations were rapidly dropping. For example, the 1968 population of 24,000 had fallen below 18,000 by mid-1972.

MUCH OF THIS was credited to the "success" of the parole program. Prison officials claimed spectacular reductions in recidivism. They said better than 70 per cent of those paroled were making good.

Also contributing to the reduced need for prisons was the probation program. Instead of indiscriminate prison sentences, state probation subsidies were making it possible to retain first-time offenders in the community. This, it was said, avoided the stigma of prison and was more conducive to rehabilitation.

The whole plan sounded good. But Richardson was skeptical. His cynicism was predicated on the fact reported major offenses had skyrocketed from 550,000 in 1968 to 724,000 in 1972.

FROM HIS PROJECTIONS the senator foresaw the trend in crime reaching over one million major offenses by 1974 while the prison population dwindled to 15,000. It was difficult for him to relate the two things.

He expressed his concern and questioned not only the basis of the prison authorities' information but their program concepts as well. His persistence uncovered some peculiar parole accounting practices.

"Successes," he learned, were based upon one-year records instead of a previous standard of five years. This meant that those who had been released only one year and got involved in a new crime were counted as "successes." Those who violated parole by absconding to another state also were "successes." So, too, were those who died on parole, even if their death was the result of being killed while committing another crime.

He also found that many were being continued on parole despite the fact they had been apprehended in other crimes.

Also contributing to the reduction in prison population were escapes. From about 250 in 1968 the figure had risen to nearly 1,000 by 1971. Many of the escapes were made easy by prison officials who granted inmates week-end passes from which they failed to return.

RICHARDSON CHARGED that the reason crime was on the rise while population increases had levelled off was that criminals were being turned loose on the streets to commit new crimes.

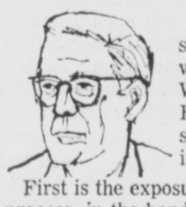
"There aren't more criminals." Richardson contended. "It's just the same ones being let run free to commit more crimes."

For awhile the senator seemed about as successful in stemming the tide as King Canute.

But the other day State Prison Director Ray Procunier announced plans to tear down San Quentin and Folsom were being discarded. He said prison populations had increased by 1,700 during the past year and predicted another increase of 2,000 by mid-1974.

Contributing to the population reversal has been a 75 per cent reduction of escapes and a 50 per cent increase in returns of parole violators. Coincident with this stricter handling of inmates has been a levelling off of the number of major crimes reported. It would seem fair to conclude that Richardson's efforts have brought results.

ERWIN D. CANHAM: Watergate Probes Overlap



Three processes are simultaneously under way bearing on the Watergate situation. Each has its strengths. Each has its dangers.

First is the exposure and informational process, in the hands of the news media.

Second is the investigative process, largely bearing on the operation of the political system, in the hands of the select Senate committee.

And third is the process of investigation and prosecution, in the hands of the Justice Department and whatever special official or group may be chosen to do the job.

EACH OF THESE processes is essential. But they overlap. The problem is that one process, fully legitimate in its own field, should not usurp the safeguarded function of another.

No person should be tried and sentenced in the columns of the news media nor on the air, nor through a Senate committee. The ultimate issue of due process, of establishing guilt or innocence before the law, must be handled by the courts.

The men whose involvement in the whole Watergate business, by which is meant of course the sequence of political events beginning at least in 1969, are being "tried," in a manner of speaking, every day in the newspapers, and even more emotionally on the tube.

Now that indictments have been issued and grand juries continue to be busy, the role of the press becomes increasingly difficult and delicate. That does not mean that the uncovering job the news media has been performing has come to an end. From all indications, there is still much more to be brought to light. But the media should do this as responsibly and dispassionately as possible.

The climate must be one in which a fair trial is possible. There must be few who do not have some preconceptions if not biases about it. The judicial process, like the informational process, will be very much put to the test.

We are all aware of the presumption of innocence, so fundamental to Anglo-Saxon justice. How can this presumption be protected by the news media when the public has every right to know what has been going on, and what kind of cover-up may have been attempted? The press must do its best.

THE ISSUES being explored by the Senate committee will inevitably invade much that is coming before the grand jury and will ultimately come out in court. But the Senate committee might well focus its interest deeply on what has been happening to the political process. It may be that the events it uncovers will not necessarily concern crimes punishable in court. They may well concern ethics and the development of standards which will save the political process.

Every professional politican, every member of Congress, every person who ever ran for office, has much at stake. If politics in the U.S., which has been degraded enough at many times throughout history, should become set in the cloak-and-dagger mold, with all the devices of espionage, forgery, and even thought-control through elaborate psychological processes, the nation is in for a bad time. And so is every aspirant for office.

Even the quasi-legitimate methods of latter-day politics are bad enough, with their costly polls, their intrusion into soft spots of the voters' minds and emotions, their shrewd mobilization of myriad border-line techniques. So the Ervin Committee can explore and lead the way toward clean-up.

The courts have established rules and standards. The Senate committee does not, really. And the news media, least of all, have working rules and restraints. They must be doubly careful, especially from now on.

Hitch-Hikers Should Face Fact This Trip May Be Their Last

(Reprinted from Fresno Bee)

When will they learn? When will the young girls in particular begin to understand their thumbs-up for a free ride is an open invitation to rape, mutilation and murder?

A grisly illustration of the dangers in casual hitchhiking is written in the records of Santa Cruz County where 6-foot-9-inch Edmund Kemper III has been charged with the slaying of his mother and nine other women.

With one exception, all of the victims had been decapitated and Dist. Atty. Peter Chang Jr. says six were students picked up while hitchhiking. Chang quoted Kemper as saying he would not have perpetrated his crimes except for the availability of "naive girls" thumbing a ride.

In recent years there has been a rash of other cases involving other trusting or carefree women who died horrible deaths because they took the same foolish chance.

Women are not the only victims. The menace applies as well to young men who seek adventure on the road. It also applies to some drivers who have lost their wallets, their cars and their lives after offering strangers a lift.

The needless suffering and tragedies will continue until the young people themselves accept the fact —as many finally did with dangerous drugs —that this trip could be their last.

Members Of Panel Deserve Identification

On May 18, your paper announced an American Association of University Women panel at which the wives of a group of men would speak. Each wife on the panel was in an elected or appointed capacity in the county. Several of their names have appeared at the ballot box and each is in a responsible position that demands intelligent decisions, yet your archaic policy will not permit their names to be used on the women's pages.

I feel this is a disservice to the many fine and able women in our county. I would appreciate your listing the AAUW panel as follows:

Jody Becker, Juvenile Justice Commission; Marilyn Bolinger, San Rafael Board of Education; Frances Compton, Marin Community College Board of Trustees; Rae Conner, Marin County Grand Jury; Betty Deedy, chairman of the board, Center Point, and member of the Marin Community College Board of Trustees; Beth Grasham, Advisory Committee of San Rafael General Plan; Linda Knox, charter member, People Park and Open Space.

Feeding Others' Dogs May Not Be Kindness.

This letter is to the many people who love pets, and think they are doing the pet a great favor by giving her scraps or goodies if she should stray into their yard or on the job during lunch time, thus enticing her to return again and again. We had a very sweet shepherd mix female, she was a very loving dog and needed constant companionship, but we both worked and she got lonesome and saw other dogs running the neighborhood and couldn't understand why she had to stay put. With a little resourcefulness and that great need for attention, she found her way out into the great wide world. We worried every evening if she would be there and in what condition. One evening we did find her very badly hurt.

These past few months we felt she had another "home" or "friend" as she got very careless about her arrival time (she used to get home before us and be sitting on the porch as if she had never left). . .

She used to stay with us on our days off, whether they were our regular days or extra days. Of late she couldn't wait to leave in the morning whether we were home or not, she would stand out in the yard and listen and then away she would go. . .

We finally made that decision, the one to call the Humane Society and have her put to sleep as we could no longer cope with her as a "part-time pet." This was only two days ago, but I can't remember when my heart has been so heavy with grief and our home is so empty. I do hope whoever fed her and petted her here in San Geronimo Valley misses her as much as we do and ask this person to please, if the dog has a collar and a current license, to please, in the future, just pet it and send it home as fast as you can.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

One reason why inflation is so successful is that all segments of our society keep giving it a boost.

Inflation is the one thing on which Big Government, Big Business and Big Labor all work together.

It's difficult to keep up with the Joneses when they insist on trying to keep up with you.

Everybody knows that the only cure for inflation is for the other fellow to be satisfied with less money.

Chinese Are 'Going Places' With Newly Released Energy

HANGCHOW — You start in China with the 800 million and, the new social order having released their energies, they are everywhere. For the newcomer the impression is of a people moving irresistibly forward.

On a Sunday the Great Wall is black with masses marching up the steep slopes to the highest watch towers. They have been brought from Peking in trucks and buses provided by commune or factory for the outing on their day off. At the Ming tombs the same crowds pass through the great red gate and queue up to go down into the crypt.

They are good-natured, cheerful seeming, with little pushing or elbowing. Here is a son or a grandson — the Chinese look so much younger than their years, you can never tell — helping an elderly woman up the steep slope. She has the tiny feet, stumps almost, that resulted from the foot-binding custom of the upper class in the old China.

Children, fresh and healthy looking, are all over the place. They suck on popsicles sold by vendors, they munch on half-loaves of bread. Teen-agers march with a leader holding high a pole with the red flag of the People's Republic blowing out stiffly in the strong wind.

HERE IN HANGCHOW the pagodas and pavilions of the old China, or new structures similar in design, reflect the historic past. In the 12th Century the city was the center of a school of painting noted for the landscapes of the dramatic mountains encircling beautiful West Lake.

From the beginning of the Sung dynasty the city, as the seat of imperial power, had a fabulous splendor, Marco Polo wrote of one of its districts that had been entirely turned over to entertainment "as the greatest city which may be found in the world where so many pleasures may be found that one fancies himself to be in paradise."

The shores of West Lake are today handsomely wooded with willows that bend over the water and newly planted trees lining the roadways. The setting of Silk Mill No. 1, which turns out brilliant brocades, is a carefully tended garden with flowering borders and broad passageways.

Hua Kang Park, where President Nixon fed the big goldfish, is bright with flowers and immaculately kept.

As it was seven centuries ago, Hangchow is where the Chinese dream of going. Yet even on a week end the crowds are comparatively small.

TIME AND GEOGRAPHY are part of the mixture of a people who have undergone years of turbulent change as we had reason in a small instance to realize. An overseas Chinese in Washington asked us to try to find in Shanghai a brother whom he had not seen in 23 years. Thanks to the diligent efforts of friendly escorts, he was located even though he had undergone a name change.

He was absent on his regular run on a freighter to Dairen and his wife came to see us in the Peace Hotel. Still young-looking, she could hardly contain her excitement. The good news to take back is that the 83-year-old father is alive and well. One can conjecture that this is happening in thousands of instances as overseas Chinese come in large numbers. They are being encouraged to visit their motherland.

Some, as in the instance above, had gone to Hong Kong or Taiwan, then to Chinese centers in Asia and, a few, to North America.

The knitting together is occurring in a variety of ways, large and small. Mass organizations attacked during the cultural revolution are being rebuilt. Trade unions, youth leagues, peasant organizations — these are an important second channel of communication to the countryside for Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai. This is to say, they supplement the three-cornered organization in every commune and factory of the army, the cadres and the peasants and workers.

IT WOULD BE inaccurate to speak of autonomous authority in the provincial capitals. Yet authority is dispersed inasmuch as the revolutionary standing committees that administer each have a degree of independence in decision-making.

These administrators, as we have discovered, are intensely hard-working alert, intelligent, determined to push on, while frankly stating how far they still have to go. An outstanding example is Lu Cheng-hao of the revolutionary standing committee of the big tea plantation near here. He began life begging with his mother, since his father could not earn enough on the plantation to keep them alive. It is all part of the drama of a people who are to be reckoned with as never before in the future of mankind.

Playing Games With Future: Do As I Say, Not As I Do

In Charles Kingsley's "The Waterbabies" there was a forbidding character known as Mrs. Do-As-You-Would-Be-Done-By; she taught Tom the Chimney Sweep right from wrong. He must not pull the fishes' tails, for instance, because if he were a fish he wouldn't like it.

I spent all day Saturday at the Pro-Total Environment Marin Conference at College of Marin, surrounded on many sides, it seemed, by several Mr. and Mrs. Do-As-I-Say-Not-As-I-Dos.

FOR A START there was noted architect and planner Robert Marquis. Waxing enthusiastic about cramming 40 and 50 apartments to an acre, he told the audience not to be paranoic about density. There's a housing shortage, he warned. Fill in downtown San Rafael with high rises, he adovcated. Fill in Bolinas Mesa with houses and leave everywhere else in inviolate open space.

Then the erudite Mr. Marquis hopped in his car and sped off — not, as Tom the Waterbaby might have supposed — to his San Francisco home He went to his second home, which is in Bolinas. Not on the Mesa, of course.

And there was noted landscape architect Lawrence Halprin, ecstatically described in the program as "choreographer of space." Mr. Halprin, too, advocated closely packed apartments and high rises in New Towns, saying people could live elegantly with dignity because they could walk to work.

He particularly didn't like the single family housing with a backyard, of American tradition, emphasized Mr. Halprin, because it created a "salt and pepper effect" across the landscape.

Off went Mr. Halprin, again, not as Tom might have supposed, to the dignity of a high rise apartment. No. He zipped away to his large house and garden in Kentfield. Where the salt and pepper effect is, presumably, choreographed.

I CHATTED at lunchtime with a charming lady from Corte Madera, who was all for low-income housing. But not, she added hastily, near her. She was terribly opposed to any development on the Corte Madera ridge, particularly because she already lives on it.

Nature Conservancy director Huey D Johnson of Mill Valley plumped for "assuring diversity of residents." In a curious juxtaposition (which gets curiouser the more I contemplate it) Johnson said homogenous Marin communities should attract artists and the elderly. (Perhaps he proposes the one shall paint the other, then sell the results to the undiverse neighbors?)

Then there was Barbara Boxer, onetime candidate for the county board of supervisors. Mrs. Boxer complained that she and her friends had been called elitists because they opposed construction of moderate-income housing, when all the time they really are so concerned about housing for the elderly and low and moderate income families.

TOM AND HIS teacher might well have wondered why Mrs. Boxer neglected to mention that the moderate income housing she and her friends oppose is uncomfortably close to their Kentfield and Greenbrae homes.

In fact, the entire conference seemed to enter the realm of fairy tales in the afternoon, when everyone went upstairs at Olney Hall, laughing merrily, to play simulation games of planning commissions.

There were gamesmasters and commentators and trouble shooters and players, all deciding the future of an imaginary community.

It might be funny, if so many of the gamesplayers were't in such deadly earnest, in their avowed intent to play God with the future of Marin County.

They should all re-read "The Water Babies." And take note of the best character: Mrs. Be-Done-By-As-You-Did.

Ghostly Voices At White House Since Everybody Moved Out

WASHINGTON — I was walking by the White House the other night when I heard an anguished cry from inside. "Alger Hiss! Where were you when I needed you?"

I thought nothing of it and walked a few more steps. Then I heard the same voice again. "Where were those college bums when I needed them?"

A GUARD standing by the gate asked, "Can I help you, sir?"

"That voice coming from inside. It's so eerie."

"Aye," he said, "it's been going on for weeks now. It does give you the willies."

"Who's in there?" I asked.

"Nobody. The house is empty."

"Empty?"

"Aye, they all moved out. There's nobody there."

"BUT THE VOICE! I heard a voice."

"That you did. They say the place is haunted, and full of ghosts."

"Do you believe in ghosts?" I asked the man.

"After what's been happening around here for the last two months, I don't know what to believe any more. I reported the voice to my superiors, and they told me to forget it. They said if anyone asked me, I heard nothing."

"YOU MEAN it's another coverup?" I asked.

"I just follow orders. They say it's a matter of executive privilege, and I can't talk about anything I've heard here, even if it's a ghost who has done the talking."

"It must be lonely work."

"Aye, that it is. Sometimes when the fog rolls in the Rose Garden, I think I hear the U.S. Marine Band playing 'Hail to the Chief.' Once, I saw the White House guards marching in the old uniforms."

The voice came out loud and clear again. "Martha, Martha, why have you deserted me?"

"The voice sounds so familiar," I told the guard.

"That it does. It's somebody I know, but I can't make out who."

"I'm sure it isn't Lincoln."

"And it isn't F.D.R.," the guard said.

"Lyndon Baines Johnson had more of a twang in his voice."

The guard scratched his hear. "It beats me."

"WHEN DID THEY board up the house?"

"About three weeks ago. It seems after all the trouble, they couldn't get anyone to work here. The secretaries were frightened, and after the big shots left no one would take their place. So they closed it down and moved to Camp David."

The voice again: "In our own lives let each of us ask — not just what government will do for me, but what can I do for myself?"

"You don't have any grass on you?" the guard asked.

"No, I'm sorry I don't. Why do you ask?"

"I don't know. You hang around here for a little while, and pot kind of makes you forget what's going on. Tell you the truth, mister, I really got the shakes."

"Why don't you go to a psychiatrist?"

"Not on your life! If I did, somebody would break in his office and steal my records."

Delinquent Taxes Dip In Marin

The percentage of delinquent property taxes in Marin dipped to a 10-year low during fiscal 1972-73, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell reported yesterday.

According to Mitchell, this fiscal year's percentage was 3.58, compared to 4.01 per cent last year on a countywide basis. The high was in fiscal 1966-67 at 6.99 per cent.

Thi year's figure represents $2.9 million in unpaid property taxes. About $80 million was collected by various taxing agencies such as school districts, cities and the county.

Among the 11 Marin cities, Larkspur had the lowest delinquency rate at 1.18 per cent and Mill Valley the highest at 5.07 per cent.

The tax delinquency figures for other cities are: Belvedere, 4.82 per cent; Corte Madera, 1.94; Fairfax, 3.78; Novato, 4.90; Ross, 2.99; San Anselmo, 2.97; San Rafael, 2.62; Sausalito, 3.98; and Tiburon, 5.07.

Sausalito Town Meeting Set On Bond Issues

Two bond issues — totaling $566,000 — which will be presented to Sausalito voters in an election June 12 will be discussed at a town meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Central School.

Sponsored by the Sausalito Citizens Council, the session will include a panel discussion of the measures, as well as a question and answer period. Among the panelists will be Mayor Robin Sweeney and representatives of the Sausalito Library board and Recreation Commission, the Sausalito Foundation and the Citizens Council.

The city is proposing a $306,000 bond issue to purchase Central School for a new city hall and a second measure, for $260,000 to purchase the adjacent Northwestern Pacific Railroad property (now the site of the Sausalito Nursery) for a new library.

Crusade Is Launched To Get Rid Of Nixon

A former television shop owner, who has organized short-lived crusades against women's liberation and capital punishment and in favor of the Hell's Angels and Barry Goldwater, now is after President Nixon.

Frederick L. Ullner of San Rafael said yesterday he is arranging for a post office box in behalf of the Committee for the Resignation of the President.

While the 53-year-old Ullner conceded he was the only present member of the group, "once you get it launched it's hard to say how it will go. There are hundreds of thousands of persons in this country without leadership."

Ullner, of 119 Merrydale Road, Apt. 18, said the still-unfolding Watergate scandal led him to act. "You can't run a country this size with the lack of faith people have in their leaders," he said.

Ullner hopes a burgeoning membership in his new group will force Nixon to resign.

His last campaign was in 1971 when he formed Men Against Women's Liberation (MAWL), saying, "The chicks have been running roughshod over us."

Democrats Will Speak In Marin

Four major Democratic contenders in next year's race for California governor will speak in Marin on June 14.

Appearing at a dinner at Peacock Gap Country Club in San Rafael will be Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti of North Hollywood, Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco and Rep. Jerome Waldie from Contra Costa County. San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto's office said he could not attend because he will be out of town.

Tickets to the fund-raising dinner, sponsored by the Marin County Democratic Central Committee, are being handled by Catherine Waycott at Land Investors Research, Larkspur.

Cocktails will begin at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Rebecca Watkin of Kentfield will be honored at the dinner with the committee's first annual award as Democrat of the Year.

Air Is Cheap

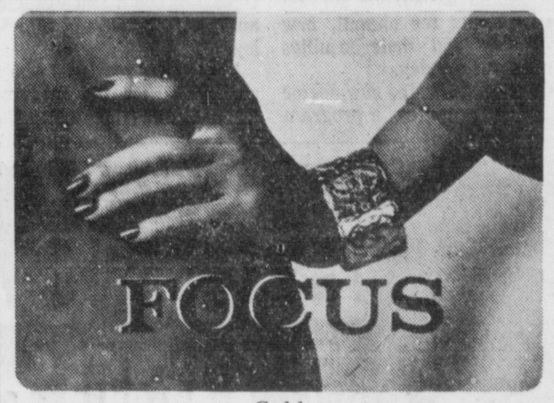
Air is free and proper inflation is a cheap price to pay for safe driving, says the Tire Industry Safety Council. Under or overinflation can cause steering problems and possible damage to tires which may lead to an accident. Check air pressure regularly.

Caution Urged On Job Offers By Tour Firm

The San Francisco Better Business Bureau, which serves Marin County, has issued a warning to high school and college students seeking summer employment to use caution in dealing with Odyssey Enterprises of Castroville, Calif.

The firm is offering jobs as "tour assistants" to Europe, the Grand Canyon and Hawaii and after tentative acceptance of applicants, requires a "rush application" and $2 fee before final acceptance.

The bureau reports that there is no indication from the firm on how many students will be hired or if those not hired will be refunded the $2 fee, according to Donald W. Schwartz, bureau vice president.



Gold

A new gold rush in Europe is causing a 24-karat problem for U.S. jewelers, dentists, and industrial users of the precious metal. After months of fluctuation, the price of gold rocketed to more than $100 an ounce in Europe. The jewelry industry, which accounts for two-thirds of total U.S. gold consumption, is probably hardest hit. The price of wedding bands and solid-gold items no doubt will go up. Dentists, who use gold to fill and cap teeth, are unsure what to charge their patients. Gold, a good conductor of electricity, is used in the manufacturing of many electronic and space components. The high price of gold will ultimately affect the consumer.

DO YOU KNOW — When did the legal use of gold as money stop in the U.S.?

GAMESMANSHIP — Don't look now, but three New York entrepreneurs have created the Watergate Game, designed to capitalize on potentially the biggest political scandal of the century. The object of the game is to stay out of jail. Cheating is permitted.

BASED ON YOU-KNOW-WHAT

The Watergate Game Is Here

By GEORGE NEVIN

It had to happen: Here comes the Watergate Game.

Three New york entrepreneurs, cashing in on what may be the political scandal of the century, are marketing a poster game satirizing the affair surrounding the break-in of the Democratic headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Put simply, the object of the game is to stay out of jail. Players elect a commander-in-chief and then roll dice and move tokens shaped like elephants around a circular track.

"Cheating is permitted," the rules inform players, "if it is not seen by the commander-in-chief or if the commander-in-chief says he didn't see it."

One of the three creators, John D. Bookstaver, 30, paid a visit recently to the offices of the Flea Market Voice and Collector's Guide, a publication aimed at collectors throughout Northern California. The guide, published at 393 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, is handling California distribution of the game.

Depending on what the dice roll totals, players either get to move ahead, go back or go to jail. Once a player is jailed, he's out of the game. The last player left is the winner.

"There's nothing that says the commander-in-chief can't go to jail too," said Bookstaver, a curly-headed New Yorker who dressed in western shirt, pants and boots for his trip to California.

In fact, he said, it's almost impossible to go completely around the game circle without landing in jail. And if a player does finish, he added, the final square is Leavenworth Prison.

After players choose a leader, the rules suggest they may want to name their playing pieces, and furnish suggestions parodying familiar names from the real Watergate case: Jed Marauder, James 'mCaught, Don Zigliar, Spiral Igloo, Don M. Snitchwell and Nick Dixxon.

Then the action starts. If a player is lucky, he rolls an eight and lands on a square marked, "You receive a vote of confidence from White House — advance six spaces."

Another lucky soul could go forward two spaces if he lands on "You are implicated in break-in of psychiatrist's office."

But there are bad breaks, too. Players can get sent back one or two spaces or even back to the start. And, of course, anyone can get sent up the river at any time.

The game, like many inspirations, came about quite by accident, said Bookstaver. "My partners and I were sitting around the office on a slow day waiting for the phone to ring.

"We were listening to the news, and I said, 'What an incredible game that Watergate caper is.' The same thought hit all of us at once, and we got to work on the game."

From idea to reality took three weeks. Bookstaver wrote the copy and his partners helped with the game design. The first printing of 5,000 was ordered from a Cincinnati printer ("A Democrat," said Bookstaver) and the Watergate Game was in business.

His first attempt to sell it was a noticeable failure.

"I went into a stationary store on Madison Avenue in New York and showed it to the man. He started yelling at me, 'Get that thing out of here. Maurice Stans (the former secretary of commerce under President Nixon and campaign fund raiser) is one of my best customers. This is a very Republican neighborhood.' "

But almost every other businessman he approached that day, Bookstaver said, placed orders. "By the end of the day I knew we had a hot item," he said.

Ironically, Bookstaver said his firm is not really in the game or poster business. "We're a sales promotion and graphics design outfit, and our next project is setting up a national pro bridge tour."

With new Watergate news breaking every day, Bookstaver admitted the game could get out of date quickly, but added that two months is about as long as he's expecting it to sell anyway.

His biggest worry, he confided, is that the fast-breaking story from Washington will completely upstage his game, proving once again that real-life games are more bizarre than their counterparts in fantasy.

'Ski Mask' Gang Arrests Made

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police arrested two Chinese juveniles yesterday, bringing to nine the number of persons arrested and charged with being members of the "ski mask" robbery gang.

Wallace Tang, 17, and an unidentified 16-year-old were taken into custody. Robbery inspectors said Tang was a key member of the gang they said was responsible for a series of bank and grocery store holdups.

Police said all arrests that "for all practical purposes the roundup of the ski mask gang."

Tang was held at city prison in lieu of $150,000 bail. The other juvenile was held at Youth Guidance Center.

Novato Council Continues Hearing On General Plan

The Novato City Council last night heard pros and cons on the proposed general plan and continued the public hearing, billed as the last, until 8 p.m., next Thursday at the Novato Community House.

Most of the objections came on a proposed development by Frank Rebello for approximately 250 dwelling units on 737 acres at the end of Vineyard Road, south of Stafford Lake.

A letter from the North Marin County Water District over the signature of Mgr. John O. Nelson, objected to the proposed development, as did Pierre W. Joske, Marin County parks and recreation director, who said Vineyard Road might eventually be connected to Novato Boulevard, cutting by Stafford Lake Park.

Residents of the area, through their spokesman, Stanley K. Gobbin, objected to any increase in traffic on Vineyard Road.

Alene Souza of Stockton, speaking for the Rebellos, told the council that the Rebellos had given land and helped the water district when it was getting Stafford Lake started in 1949. She said they are now losing $5,000 a year through taxes in excess of income from rental of the property for horse riding. She said the water district board had not seen or approved Nelson's letter written Tuesday and asked the council to disregard it.

John Stuber of the Murray-McCormick Environmental group, outlined the plan for the property, saying it fit completely with the designation of equestrian-residential in the general plan.

Richard H. Olmsted objected to changing the density on 108 acres of the 325-acre Anderson Rowe property south of South Novato Boulevard west of Highway 101 to one unit to 10 acres when the land across the boulevard was all zoned multiple, as his had been before.

Beverly Ehreth, a member of the Novato City Planning Commission, speaking for herself, said she was concerned at the amount of multiple and townhouse area in the plan.

Two residents, not speaking on any particular site, were against the designation of open space. "Open space zoning is stealing a man's land," said Miguel Medeiros of 1456 Pastel Lane.

"It's a dangerous situation where people lose their property to open space. Novato offers no jobs and is just a bedroom community. People here should pay for that land they want in open space," said Guy Napolitano of 1900 Novato Boulevard.

After the public hearing was closed, Councilman George Quesada proposed that Novato extend its sphere of influence on the east side of Highway 101 south of Hamilton Air Force Base to Las Gallinas Creek, the San Rafael city limits.

Councilman F. Wayne Sartain agreed that the development of land belonging to St. Vincent's School for Boys and the Silveira Ranch would have a definite effect on Novato."

The council postponed action on this until next week.

It referred several word changes in the proposed text to the city attorney for his opinion for the meeting next week.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Novato Community House to continue its review of the capital improvement budget and possibly receive the full city budget for next fiscal year.

Tapioca Is Eyed For Cattle Feed

LONDON (AP) — Cereal feeds for beef and dairy cattle are becoming so expensive that British farmers are looking around for cheaper substitutes. Tapioca, or cassava, the raw material from which it is made, is high on the list.

Dutch and Belgian farmers have been using the product for some time. Mike Stranks, an animal nutrition expert with the Agricultural Development and Advisory Services, says: "In Holland and Belgium relatively small quantities of cereals are used for livestock feeding because they import a lot of cassava and citrus pulp which are used in preference to cereals as a cheaper source of energy.

Recital Slated By Clarinetist

A public recital will be given by William Tull, principal clarinetist with the Marin Symphony Orchestra at 4:30 p.m., Sunday at the United Methodist Church of Mill Valley.

Works by Bach, Debussy, Schibler and Brahms will be featured by Tull with Patrick Wilber, pianist, and Richard Piipo, cellist, accompanying him.

Five Seek Planning Unit Seats

Five citizens have applied for appointment to two vacancies on the San Rafael Planning Commission, the city administration said yesterday.

Applicants are Richard C. Fox, a research chemist; Carl J. (Red) Brown, athletic director at Sir Francis Drake High School; Robert H. Caro, a San Rafael businessman; Richard P. Rodrigues, chairman of the city's citizen advisory committee, and Donn E. Nissen, president of the Terra Linda Homeowners Association.

In addition, Dixie school board president John A. Starkweather said yesterday he will apply for appointment to the commission.

Applications for the seats must be submitted at city hall before June 30, when the terms of commissioners Thomas R. O'Toole and Albert J. Boro expire, according to the city administration.

Japanese Students Placement Is Success

The coordinator of a program to bring 30 Japanese students to Marin for a month this summer said yesterday he's been so successful in finding homes for them that his quota may be upped.

Michael E. Kaufman said he's found 25 homes and has been so much more successful than the 10 or 11 others in the Bay Area trying to place the Japanese students that more than 30 of them may be assigned to him.

Kaufman and the others are local representatives of Interstudy, a Swedish-based nonprofit corporation which places Asian and European students in American homes.

The Japanese students, all between 17 and 23 years old, will begin arriving approximately July 25 and will be in Marin until about Aug. 23, according to literature supplied by interstudy.

Kaufman said he still needs at least five more homes by June 1, preferably in southern Marin, to meet his quota of 30, and perhaps more if students originally headed for other Bay Area counties are diverted to Marin.

The idea behind the program, he said, is "to let the students experience the American way of life and develop a competency in English." Each student has studied at least two years of English, he said.

Prisoners Lose Job

ATLANTA (UPI) — The use of prisoners to repair and maintain state highways will be discontinued July 1 in Georgia when employes of the state Department of Transportation take over the job.

Teachers Plan Friday Walkout

WALNUT CREEK (UPI) — Teachers in the Mt. Diablo Unified School District plan a one-day walkout tomorrow to draw attention to "the crisis in the schools."

Ralph Lubeck, president of the 2,200 teacher Education Association, said yesterday the strike vote for the action was taken after the district "failed to negotiate in good faith," on a new contract.

The main stumbling blocks in the talks involved nursing services, the library system, overstaffing of administration positions and working and salary conditions, Lubeck said.

Colonel Raised

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Col. Charles C. Rogers, a Medal of Honor winner, is among three black colonels nominated by the Army yesterday for promotion to brigadier general. The others are Cols. Roscoe Robinson, Jr., of St. Louis, Mo., and Fred C. Sheffey, Jr., of McKeesport, Pa.

ORDINANCE NO. 35
AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING A PROGRAM TO PREVENT ENTRY OF RAIN, STORM, AND SURFACE DRAINAGE WATER INTO BUILDING SEWERS RICHARDSON BAY SANITARY DISTRICT

The Sanitary Board of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, Marin County, California, does resolve that

WHEREAS, there is evidence that rain water, storm water and surface drainage water are entering the sewage works of the District in such volumes as to seriously jeopardize the operations of the District's waste water treatment plant and related facilities and to cause backing up of waste water in the District's sewer mains, all to the detriment of the public health, safety and welfare;

WHEREAS, there is further evidence that much of the infiltration of rain water, storm water and surface drainage water into the District's sewage works is caused by direct connection of rain or storm water drains to building sewers, or by broken or leaking side sewers, including building sewers;

WHEREAS, Ordinance No. 29 of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, known as the Sanitary Code of Richardson Bay Sanitary District, enacted on September 15, 1964, as subsequently amended, provides, in part, that no surface or subsurface drainage, rain water, storm water or seepage shall be permitted to enter any sanitary sewer by any device or method whatsoever;

WHEREAS, said ordinance provides, in part, that the installation, use, maintenance, repair and inspection of all plumbing and side sewers including sewers inside private property shall be subject to and governed by such rules and regulations as may be adopted by the District, except as provided in Section 6522.1 of the Health and Safety Code of the State of California.

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY ORDAINED AND ORDERED as follows:

1. A program of periodic monitoring of side sewers including building sewers for leakage or unauthorized connection and the correction of same is hereby instituted.

2. Said program will consist of periodic smoke testing of laterals, side sewers and building sewers to determine points of leakage or unauthorized connection which smoke testing shall be undertaken after mailing notice to the persons owning or occupying those properties within the areas to be tested and the posting of said notice on all public streets of the area to be tested, said mailing and posting to be complcted at least seven days in advance of testing.

3. Should District testing reveal leakage in any side sewer, building sewer or connection thereto of unauthorized drainage facilities, the owner of said property shall be notified in writing of discrepancies and will be given a period of 30 days to correct same. Reasonable extensions of time may be granted upon application to the Sanitary Board, at the sole discretion of said Board.

4. Failure to correct leakage or to disconnect unauthorized drainage connections when and as required within the allowed time period will result in the exercise by the District of any or all means of enforcement as provided in said Ordinance No. 29 or as otherwise provided by law.

5. Upon adoption this ordinance shall be entered in the minutes of the Board, shall be posted in three (3) public places within the District for one week, and shall be published once in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in the County of Marin following its passage and adoption, and shall take effect and be in force and effect immediately upon the expiration of one (1) week from the date of posting and publication thereof.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Medical Problems Are Cause Of Few Accidents On Highway

Does medical fitness have an effect on highway accidents? If we exclude the use of drugs, such as alcohol and tranquilizers, tiredness, and emotional factors, then medical conditions probably are responsible for less than 1 per cent of all road accidents. But this is enough to make authorities in many states refuse to issue or revoke a driver's license when certain physical or mental disorders exist. Most of these accidents center about visual, mental, or neurological defects.

However, very little can be done about unexpected attacks of giddiness or unconsciousness due to heart disease, stroke, diabetes, epilepsy, or hypoglycemia. These people are lucky if nothing happens. They should, however, avoid driving in the future until they get the green light from their physicians.

ALCOHOL IS INVOLVED in at least half of all fatal accidents today. Tranquilizers, barbiturates, amphetamines, and even over-the-counter antihistamines also are responsible for a slice of the yearly death and injury toll. Drivers on drugs also are a menace.

Investigators generally agree that the driver's emotional state also plays an important role in highway accidents. This is evident in young adults aged 15 to 24 among whom traffic accidents are the leading cause of death. Only 21 per cent of all drivers are in this group, yet they cause one-third of all traffic mishaps.

PARADOXICALLY, these young men and women are healthy, have quick reaction times and good coordination. Their accidents could be blamed on lack of experience, but a better possibility is their emotional state. According to William Asher and Michelle K. Shapiro, Purdue University psychologists, during periods of anger, depression, or elation, the young driver expresses his feelings by driving recklessly, at high speeds, or drinking and driving.

At this age, he has little regard for the results of his behavior and uses a car to release his emotions. These researchers have found that young men and women involved in accidents tend to disagree with others, feel held down, are hypersensitive, and lack self-confidence. Reckless driving is the means by which they overcompensate.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal.

'HITCHHIKER' TICKS

L. writes: My son is on a hunting trip. If he brings home ticks or fleas on his clothing, will laundering or dry cleaning get rid of them? Is there any chance some will remain in the house?

REPLY

Laundering or dry cleaning should take care of this, but if ticks remain on his skin, more trouble may be expected. He should use an insecticide on the outside, a repellant on his legs, and wear hunting pants and adequate boots or shoes. After every day of hunting, tell him to inspect his arms and legs for ticks.

ALLERGY

M.V. writes: Will drinking lots of grapefruit juice cure allergy?

REPLY

No, and it might aggravate the condition in a person who is allergic to this product. It may also cause rectal itching which is thought to be of allergic origin. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on allergy.

Bibles Given To Prisoners

LONDON (AP) — When a prisoner asked for a Bible to read in his cell, a search of the police station at Maldon, Essex, revealed there was not a copy on the premises.

A Bible was borrowed from the vicar, and when it became known that Bibles were wanted at the police station, 17 more arrived, including two huge, 100-year-old family Bibles.

Now there is a small Bible in every cell.

American Tourists Up In Switzerland

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — For the first time, American overnight stays in Switzerland surpassed all countries except Germany in 1972, setting an all-time record.

U.S. overnight stays rose to 2,737,676 for 1972 which is the fourth consecutive year Switzerland has realized an increase of Americans staying longer in the country. France was third in overnight stays with the combined total from Great Britain and Ireland fourth and Belgium fifth.

ALMANAC

By U.P. International

Today is Thursday, May 24, the 144th day of 1973 with 221 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn.

Queen Victoria of England was born May 24, 1819.

On this day in history:

In 1626, the Dutch West Indies Trading Company bought the island of Manhattan from the Indians for the equivalent of $24.

In 1883, the Brooklyn Bridge, linking the boroughs of Brooklyn and Manhattan, was opened to the public for the first time.

In 1941, the HMS Hood of the British navy, world's largest battleship at the time, was sunk by the German battlewagon "Bismarck" between Greenland and Iceland.

A thought for the day: American philosopher Vannevar Bush said, "If democracy loses its touch, then no great war will be needed to overwhelm it. If it keeps and enhances its strength, no great war need come again."

Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.

Rep. Mills Found Shot To Death

EASTON, Md. (UPI) — Rep. William O. Mills, R-Md., was found shot to death early today, apparently having committed suicide five days after disclosure that he had received secret financial aid from the Nixon campaign organization in 1971.

Shortly after Mills' Washington office confirmed police reports of Mills' death at 48, William B. Horne, the state's attorney in Talbot County, Md., said Mills' body was found at a farm near his Easton home and "at this time, there is no evidence of foul play."

Investigations were under way by state and local police in Easton, a small community on the Maryland Eastern Shore.

Mills, a member of the House since 1971, had been under investigation for failing to report a $25,000 cash contribution to his 1971 election campaign that allegedly came from secret funds from the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President.

Mills maintained he had done nothing wrong.

The information was contained in a report issued Saturday by the General Accounting Office (GAO), an investigative arm of Congress, that dealt with a variety of financial transactions by the Nixon campaign organization and alleged several violations of federal law.

Following news of Mills's death, House Speaker Carl Albert canceled all legislative business scheduled for the day.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, who held the congressional seat before Mills and employed him as an aide for years, expressed "deep sorrow and a keen sense of personal loss." House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said he was shocked and described Mills as "one of the most promising young members of the House."

The Baltimore News American, where Mills' press secretary, Jack Shaum, worked previously as a reporter, quoted him as saying it was a suicide "from all indications." But Shaum told UPI he did not have such information "at the moment."

Shaum issued a brief statement saying the congressman was pronounced dead at Easton Memorial Hospital, that his death "occurred during the early morning hours" and that it "was the apparent result of a gunshot wound."

A hospital spokesman said there were powder burns on the body, indicating Mills was shot at close range. The body was taken to Baltimore for an autopsy by the state medical examiner.

Shaum said Mills was at the Washington office Wednesday "and it was pretty much business as usual." He also said "we knew he was worried over the reports about the $25,000 contribution, but there was no indication that it would lead to anything like this."

Mills released a statement Tuesday maintaining "I have done nothing improper." But he declined to say if his 1971 campaign had received the $25,000 contribution from the Finance Committee to Re-Elect the President or whether it was reported in accord with Maryland law.

Mills was first elected to Congress May 25, 1971, in a special vote to fill a vacancy created when then Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton resigned to become Interior secretary.

He was married to the former Norma Lea Nichols. Besides his wife, two children survive —Lynda and William O. Jr.

Morton said Wednesday that he arranged for the Nixon Finance Committee to provide the money to Mills' campaign, but said he had never discussed the contribution with the congressman.

According to campaign records in Annapolis, the state capital, the $25,000 was not reported in 1971 as required by Maryland law.

Hugh W. Sloan, former treasurer of the Nixon campaign organization, has told congressional auditors that the $25,000 was part of $1.7 million which was secretly raised and disbursed before the Federal Election Campa

KTIM Is Operating On Full Power Again

KTIM Radio General Manager Robert Dinsmore announced today the resumption of full broadcast power from the station's transmitter on the Silvera ranch north of San Rafael.

The KTIM-AM tower was toppled by vandals April 1, and operated thereafter on a makeshift apparatus. Chief Engineer Richard Marshall says reception throughout the Marin coverage area should have improved considerably with completion of repairs, and readjustment of the signal pattern.

Marshall added that he would appreciate hearing from listeners everywhere in Marin on the quality of their reception of the station's broadcast.

Check Case Suspect Faces Trial

Ronald Alfred Wold, 40, of no fixed address, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a felony charge of using a forged check to open a bank account in Marin.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court ordered him to appear June 4 on the one count, but dismissed a second count of passing five checks totaling $145 at San Rafael businesses without enough money in his account.

The checks were cashed between Jan. 24 and 27.

Wold was returned earlier this month from Inyo County, where he was arrested on a fugitive warrant charging he passed bad checks in San Rafael totaling about $1,000.

Judge Frees Pair Held In Burglary

A Marin municipal Court judge has dismissed burglary charges against two young men arrested following a theft from a Tiburon antique store.

Judge Peter Allen Smith cited insufficient evidence linking Thomas Joseph Tully, 19, of Larkspur, and Todd Ashley Beeson, 20, of Belvedere, and dropped the allegations Monday although Deputy Dist. Atty. Peter J. Andersen sought to reduce the charges from felonies to misdemeanors.

The two were arrested March 14 in Bolinas after Tiburon police had investigated a break-in at the Pandemonium store on Paradise Drive. Items selling for $678 were reported stolen.

Two antique phonographs and two wine casks from the store were found in a parked truck belonging to Beeson near the store, police said.

Larkspur Council Approves Pay Boosts

The Larkspur City Council last night approved 5 per cent cost of living raises to most city employees but differed sharply on whether they ought to be paid $150 a month themselves.

Mayor Alfred J. Malvino, and councilmen Robert H. Lee and William G. Fleckles voted in favor of council salaries, and instructed staff to prepare an ordinance for introduction at the council's June 6 meeting, reported assistant city manager Harlan Barry. Councilmen Joan Sestak and Neil R. Brixon disagreed.

In its second consecutive night of its $1.5 million budget considerations, the council approved cost of living increases for all city employees.

Most had requested 7.5 per cent raises, and these, on average, were trimmed to 5 per cent, said Barry.

City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst got a 2.5 per cent raise, hiking his $22,050 annual salary to $22,601. Barry's monthly pay was raised 5 per cent from $1,405 to $1,475.

Five per cent raises were given to fire chief Craig Schurts ($1,405 to $1,475); assistant fire chief William Lellis ($1,213 to $1,274); police chief Howard Clark ($1,487 to $1,512); police captain Gerald Mattos ($1,248 to $1,306); director of public works Warren Mistron ($1,405 to $1,475); planning director John Roberto ($1,405 to $1,475); community development enforcement officer Graham Lang ($1,135 to $1,213).

The city librarian Richard A. Kilbourne was given a 7.5 per cent raise from $1,074 to $1,155, and the assistant director of public works Joseph Monisteir a 10 per cent hike because he'd been forgotten in previous raises from $974 to $1,048.

Barry said the council approved a 5 per cent raise to police sergeants and patrolmen, with a 7.5 per cent hike to clerks and dispatchers.

The fire department was given a 5 per cent hike, too, and other city employees were given raises ranging from 5 to 10 per cent.

The council reviewed the police, fire, public works and community development budgets, but took no action. Capital outlay projects will be considered later, said Barry.

A Regional Auto Fee Is Proposed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Regional automobile license fees to finance transit development are proposed in a master plan draft by the Metropolitan Transportation Commission staff.

Public hearings will be held next month on the master plan being developed for the nine-county Bay Area. The staff proposals were presented to commission members yesterday.

Among taxes to finance both transit and highway improvements the staff suggested a regional $10 annual registration fee on cars.

It proposed an additional gasoline tax earmarked for public transportation plus a 1-2 per cent surcharge on alcoholic beverages and cigarettes.

The staff also suggested a graduated fee on automobiles based on engine horsepower and aimed at reducing the number of big cars.

Iranian Oil Flow Ensured By Pact

TEHRAN (UPI) — Iran and the Western oil consortium today signed a 25-year agreement ensuring the continued flow of Iranian oil to world markets and giving Iran full control over its own oil industry.

After months of negotiations, today's agreement was signed by the National Iran Oil Company and the British, Dutch, American and French members of the consortium.

"The agreement is unique and is designed to provide long-term stability and growth for Iran's oil industry as well as to ensure the flow of crude oil to markets supplied by the consortium" a communique said.

Queen Elizabeth Beneficiary Of Farm Subsidy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth II is a beneficiary under the U.S. program of subsidy payments to farmers for not growing crops.

At least that's the way Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., sees it.

Conte told the House Wednesday: "Now the farm subsidy program has become a part of our foreign aid program with $68,000 going to the queen of England."

He said the money was paid to Delta Pine Land Co., which owns a 2,500-acre farm in Bolivar County, Miss. Delta, he said, is a subsidiary of Courtaulds Ltd. of London, in which the royal family is listed as the largest investor.

Larkspur Youth Condition Given

A Larkspur boy reportedly injured in a bicycle-auto accident Monday was in fair condition today at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in Redwood City after being transferred there from Marin General Hospital.

Hospital spokesmen identified the youngster as Steven A. Nove, 11, of 50 Elm Avenue, but could not describe his injuries.

Neither Larkspur nor Corte Madera police nor the California Highway Patrol had any report of an accident involving the youngster.

Pitcher Bill Lee In The Headlines

Boston Red Sox pitcher Bill Lee made headlines in the current edition of The Sporting News. "Red Sox Learning to Like Talkative Lee," says the head over the story about the southpaw pitcher who prepped at Terra Linda High School.

The story pointed out that Lee was not expected to be with the club this year and is now one of the regular starters. He is known as the Moon Man because of his "somewhat strange behavior," says the story by Larry Claflin.

Bill is not your everyday "straight." While talking to him before the start of a Red Sox-A's game last year in the Oakland Coliseum, I was told for the ninth time that he wanted to be a starter, not a reliever. Then he got a strange look in his eyes and looking around at the other players warming up on the field he said, "They don't like me here. I'm not conventional enough for them. Nobody in the front office likes me. It's not paranoia or anything, they just don't like me." But he had that strange look in his eyes.

According to the article in The Sporting News, Lee has admitted recently that he thinks of everything but the game when he is pitching. During a game he will carry on conversations on a variety of subjects, with his catcher, the batter, the umpire or maybe one of the fans.

The Red Sox last winter elected Lee as alternate player representative behind catcher Carlton Fisk. If he has to take Fisk's place as player rep things should be very interesting. Lee is not called Moon Man for nothing.

NAPA'S RON CERRUDO, whose parents Mr. and Mrs. John Cerrudo still live in San Rafael, yesterday won his first round match in the Benson and Hedges $50,000 match play championship at Southport, England. Ron, who is 83rd on the Professional Golfers Association money list with $13,024 earned this year, defeated Italian Baldo Dassu on the 19th hole.

WHAT TIMING! No sooner did the Giants publicity boys send out a news release about Willie McCovey approaching the 400th home run of his career than Big Mac went into a horrendous batting slump. Willie can't seem to buy a hit these days. Anyway, if Willie hits home run No. 400 (he has 393 now) in Candlestick Park, all fans at the game in which he reaches that plateau will be able to use their full-priced ticket stubs for a $1 discount on a ticket for any Giants' future game on the '73 schedule. If the homer comes on the road, the same deal will apply for fans who buy tickets for the first home game following the smash.

DICK CREIGHTON, baseball coach at Drake High, has been tabbed starting pitcher by Gary Hughes for the Marin Catholic alumni team which will take on the varsity Saturday at the school's field. Creighton was quite a ballplayer for the Wildcats in the early 50's and I hear he still has a "live" fastball.

Ralph Boccabella, is hoping to get back from watching little brother John and his Montreal teammates play against the Giants in time to get into the 3 p.m. alumni game. John won't make it to the game but is expected for the spaghetti feed that evening.

Blue Having Woes With Mound Control

A's Star Blasted In Win

Combined AP & UPI

Blue lasted only two innings against Texas Wednesday night before his teammates rallied from a 5-2 deficit to an 8-6 victory. It was the fifth win in six games with Texas this season and lifted Oakland into a tie with Kansas City for third place in the American League West.

Blue was bombed for five runs and three hits while failing to go the distance for the sixth time in eight starts. Dave Nelson drilled a two-run homer off him to cap the Rangers' five-run second inning.

"But I'm not discouraged," he said. "Look at the other pitchers in the league. What's Dave McNally ... 3-6 ... and (Mickey) Lolich (2-5)? It's just one of those things."

Horacio Pina took over for Blue and allowed only one run and four hits over the next five innings to pick up the win, his fourth against a single loss.

Bill North singled home Rick McKinney from third base in the sixth inning following a costly, two-base throwing error by first baseman Bill Sudakis to snap a 6-6 tie. A sacrifice fly by Bert Campaneris later in the inning closed the scoring.

A's Manager Dick Williams thinks that Blue, once his star left-hander and the scourge of the American League in 1971, still lacks a little velocity on his fastball.

"I'll be glad to see him throw harder," said Williams. "He threw the ball hard tonight but got it up a little and they got five runs. We have other pitchers so I decided to use them. Pina and Rollie Fingers did an excellent job in keeping the Rangers in check."

In an effort to rest Sal Bando, Gene Tenace and Joe Rudi, Williams started McKinney at third base, designated hitter Deron Johnson at first and Mike Hegan in the outfield.

"Everybody will be back at their normal positions Friday night when we open our road trip in Detroit," said Williams.

Bando was used as the designated hitter Wednesday night and responded by slamming a three-run homer and a double and scoring twice.

Hegan bruised his knee chasing down a hit in the second inning but he said he'll be ready to go against the Tigers.

The A's enjoy an off day today before opening a 10-game road trip that also takes them to New York and Boston.

OVER GIRLS PLAY

Fight Goes On In Li'l League

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jenny Fulle, a 10-year-old fifth grader from Mill Valley, got so peeved she wrote a letter to the White House, marked "personal" to President Nixon.

A blonde leftfielder who could run, hit and slide with the best of them, she complained she wanted to play Little League baseball but they wouldn't let her. It was against the rules.

"It made me mad," said the 5-foot,100-pound girl.

"There are lots of girls who want to play and lots of boys who want us to play. I agree with almost everything I know about women's lib."

The letter was turned over to the Office of Civil Rights, which promised a full investigation to see if Jenny was a victim of discrimination.

In Ypsilanti, Mich., a whole city went on the warpath when pig-tailed, 12-year-old Carolyn King was barred — because of her sex — from a local Little League team. There were threats of carrying the case to the courts — all the way to the Supreme Court, if necessary.

A team in Concord, N.C., is facing suspension from the Babe Ruth League for playing a 13-year-old girl, Yvonne Burch, but another Babe Ruth team in Schenectady, N.Y., is taking no chances and is refusing to play Sheila O'Donnell, 13, although her mother insists, "Sheila can throw and catch a ball like any 3-year-old boy."

Female tykes in braids and with braces on their teeth are creating new waves in the women's lib movement. They are causing great concern among stodgy grown-up men who insist rules are rules and girls have no business playing certain games with boys.

"We are getting a tremendous amount of mail on the subject," said Robert Sirrat, director of public relations for the Little League. "At first, it was heavily weighted against our action in barring girls, accusing us of sexual discrimination.

"Now it has levelled off somewhat, with the reaction mixed, but our directors have taken a firm stand that there is no place for girls in the Little League. We are considering establishment of a special league for girls."

That may not suit Jenny and Carolyn but, as of the moment, they are fighting a losing battle.

"Baseball is a contact sport," said Stirrat. "It can be hazardous. We have a five-page medical report which points out that girls are incapable of competing on the same level with boys. Their bones are more vulnerable, their reactions slower."

The Little League, played by 2.5 million youngsters 12 years old and under, all boys, in 8,500 leagues in 31 countries, was supported in its stand by the Babe Ruth League, with 300,000 players from 9 to 15 and 14,000 leagues in 16 countries.

Stiratt, the Little League publicist, said there had been scattered applications by girls over the years since the league was formed in 1939, but nothing to compare with the current uproar.

Leslie Robin Williams, 7, filed an application, paid her $4 and became a regular third baseman with the Centreville, Va., team in the T-Ball League, a circuit for children aged 5 to 8 and intended to prepare the youngsters for Little League ball. They have 13 players on a side, hit the ball off a tee and play only three innings.

Leslie, a second grade student, quickly made the team and her coach, Ken Roberts, was stunned when he got a telephone call from higher officials and said Leslie had to be dropped from the squad.

Singer, Braves' Skipper In Duet

Combined AP & UPI

ATLANTA — In between cloudbursts, Atlanta Braves Manager Eddie Mathews and country music star Loretta Lynn warbled "You Are My Sunshine."

But it didn't work—even with Mathews strumming a guitar. Moments later the Braves met the San Francisco Giants—for exactly four minutes before another deluge halted play. After a one hour, 12 minute delay, and after the ground crew had rolled and unrolled the huge tarp at least a half a dozen times, the game was postponed.

It was the third rainout at home this season for the Braves, who hoped the Loretta Lynn show would help hypo the sagging attendance. And it had the makings of a good crowd, but those who did show up spent most of the night running for cover almost as often as did the ground crew.

Mathews, parked in his office after the game was called, nonetheless was pleased with the way things have been going lately.

The poor start the Braves have experienced, winning 16 and dropping 23 for a next-to-last-place position in the National League West and nine games behind the Giants, he said, is "a temporary thing."

"I think this club is playing good ball, excellent ball," Mathews said. "Sure, we've made some mental mistakes, but now we're scoring runs. Still, those mistakes are overshadowing everything else. But we're not making the same mistakes twice. They're learning: I'm learning. I think I'm getting smarter."

The Giants are 3-5 on the current road trip and 10-11 for the month, but they retained their one-game hold on first place when Houston lost at Cincinnati, 4-3 Wednesday night.

The Braves and Giants will reschedule the rained out game for a later date and plan to go with the same pitchers, Ron Reed and Sam McDowell in Thursday night's finale. Reed pitched to one batter Wednesday night. He walked Bobby Bonds, who promptly stole second. Then the rains came.

MUNICH ROW REVISITED

Coach Wright Raps Cosell Interview

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was Stan Wright's "Watergate", but even in this era of "coming clean" the Olympic sprint coach was unable to completely vindicate himself from the debacle of Munich this past summer when sprinters Rey Robinson and Eddie Hart were disqualified after reporting late for their heats.

Wright, while emphasizing he was not seeking vindication in the now infamous schedule foul-up, nonetheless singled out ABC sportscaster Howard Cosell for what he called a "misleading and derogatory" interview following the incident.

But when questioned about why only his two sprinters were late for the event, Wright answered: "I am still at a loss to explain it. All I can say is that of the other coaches I talked to, many of them said they were lucky to have gotten their athletes there on time themselves. No one, to my knowledge, had the right time schedule."

Wright, while stating a lawsuit against Cosell and ABC would require too much money and time, then outlined in a four-page press release what he considered numerous incorrect and misleading facts that Cosell said during the interview. Included were comments by Cosell that Robinson had labelled Wright "the culprit" in the entire affair and that the Paris Edition of the Herald Tribune listed the correct starting time of the 100-meter heats.

"I have here a copy of that Herald Tribune edition which Mr. Cosell said had the correct starting time," Wright said, "and as you can see it does not carry the schedule."

"Further, to my mind, the worst thing Mr. Cosell said during the interview was that Rey Robinson called me the culprit. This was simply not so and that comment was a disservice to this young athlete."

WHA Cougars Land Maggs, Goalie Newton

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association today announced the signing of two National Hockey League players, wing Darryl Maggs of the California Seals and goalie Cam Newton of the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Both signed multiyear contracts, director of player personnel Jacques Demers said.

Maggs, 24, formerly played with the Chicago Black Hawks and said he was "looking forward to playing" in front of Chicago fans again. "There is an atmosphere toward hockey in Chicago that a player doesn't find in California."

Maggs scored seven goals and 15 assists during the 1972-73 NHL season, while the previous year he had 14 goals and 36 assists with the Dallas Black Hawks minor league team.

Wristwrestle Queen In Surge To Crown

By BETTY HOPPER

SEATTLE (AP) — Jill Edwards went from novice to world's champion in seven flicks of an uneducated wrist, and she's the most surprised person of all.

"It's really kind of a gas, isn't it?" the 18-year-old blonde bookkeeper said after winning the women's World Wrist Wrestling Championship in Petaluma last weekend.

Jill won the Northwest championship at Pasco, Wash., last March in three matches and defeated four opponents at Petaluma.

"I don't know why my arm is strong because I never trained or lifted weights or anything," Jill said. "I was in gymnastics in high school, which may sort of contributed, but trampoline was my thing and that doesn't really do much for your arm.

"I used to sail a lot, like small open boats, and you use your arms there," added Jill, whose family moved to Seattle from Victoria, B.C., about five years ago.

Wrist wrestling contests in Petaluma began as entertainment for the patrons of Diamond Mike Gilardi's tavern in 1953, and a decade later evolved into the world championships. About 400 persons competed this year in the Veterans Memorial Building, and the televised finals drew a crowd of 3,000.

Doctorate For Former Rams' Star Towler

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dan Towler, a bruising ball-carrier for the Los Angeles Rams, 1950-56, has earned a doctorate in education at the University of California, it was announced Wednesday.

Towler was known as "Deacon" during his playing days and has been a chaplain at Cal State Los Angeles and pastor of the Lincoln Avenue Methodist Church in Pasadena, Calif.

He wrote his doctoral dissertation on "The Secularization of Higher Education in the United States as Reflected in the Inaugural Addresses of Selected College and University Presidents from 1860 to 1972."

Pond, Louie Omitted From All-Star Team

The names of Bob Louie and Jeff Pond were omitted from yesterday's story on the Marin County Athletic League all-star baseball team due to a typographical error.

Pond, a junior first baseman from Novato High School, and Louie, an infielder from San Marin, were named to the second team by the league's coaches Tuesday.

Coach Tangles With Hair, Bible Principle Issues

By LEW CODDINGTON

Athletes who grow long hair have always known they'd be letting themselves in for an occasional snide wisecrack here and there, but up to now, I bet they didn't realize they're going against the natural order of the universe and defying the will of God.

Setting them straight on this point is Tony Simpson, head football coach of Northshore Junior High in Galena Park, Tex., writing in the May issue of "Texas Coach." United Press International recorded his comments for posterity.

"It is time that American coaches stopped allowing themselves to be personally represented by male athletic teams and individuals that look like females.

"It is time that American coaches realized that a male's hair is not just an American tradition but an issue involving Biblical principals (sic); time that coaches stopped rationalizing and compromising their common sense; time to show the American athlete that his most valuable characteristic is not physical ability but respect for authority . . .

"A good hair code will get the abnormals out of athletics before they become coaches and bring their losers' standards into the coaching profession . . .

"A male with long hair is a sign of rejection of authority — his own authority over himself as well as the authority of the laws of the establishment. Under the laws of the establishment, God designed the male to dominate the woman just as He designed Christ to dominate man," and that long hair on women represented a sign of submission and that man's short hair was a sign of authority over women.

I'm glad Simpson informed us of this, because we certainly would never have realized it otherwise.

Those Marin coaches present at Tuesday night's banquet who had heard of the article were duly appalled by its statements, but perhaps not as appalled as they were at the statement of featured speaker Dave Meggyesy, who said after the dinner that his travels across the country had convinced him that Simpson's beliefs were widely held among coaches and that Simpson was "a spokesman."

END OF THE LINE — Most of the time, baseball scores are phoned in by the respective coaches, but sometimes they are delegated to a reliable student. Two of the most reliable, Bill Kappelman of Redwood and Dave Bare of Tamalpais, will graduate next month.

Both have been reporting scores ever since I got here two years ago. Having broken me in, they are now ready to go to college: Bare to Pacific and Kappelman to USC.

GRACIOUS HOST — According to a list furnished by the North Coast Section after its meeting last week, several important post-season meets will be held in Marin next school year.

They include the NCS Division III cross-country meet Nov 20 at an undetermined site, the Division II swim meet May 4 at Redwood (hosted by Terra Linda), and the NCS track and field meet May 25 at College of Marin (hosted by Terra Linda).

SOME TENNIS — As might be expected, Redwood High School's various No. 1 tennis players were undefeated against MCAL foes going into today's final match. Steve DeMartini is 9-0, Mark Strasser 2-0, Matt Khourie 1-0 and Bruce Manheim 1-0 for a combined 13-0.

Records of other No. 1 players are John Doherty of Marin Catholic 10-3, Doug Carlisle of Terra Linda 10-3, Mark Sabella of San Rafael 6-6 (Bill Sockolov is 1-0), Gene Lachelt of Drake 5-8, Jeff Edwards of Tamalpais 4-8 (Steve Livingston is 0-1), San Marin's three players 3-10 and Novato's three players 0-13.

SOME GOLF — According to Terra Linda coach Bill O'Bayley, who keeps the figures, 11 golfers were averaging 40 strokes or less for nine holes — Steve Gaddis of Tamalpais, Gregg Cudworth of Terra Linda, Jim Vaughan of Novato, Jeff Bordalampe of Redwood, Rick Anderson of Novato, John Fahrner of San Rafael, Doug Henderson of Novato, Rich Purtle of Terra Linda, Doug Talley of Terra Linda, Steve Taylor of San Rafael and Larry Cartmill of Terra Linda.

San Marin's Nagel Wins Batting Title

Marty Nagel of San Marin High School, who went two for two in the season's final game Saturday night, won the batting championship of the Marin County Athletic League with his effort.

Nagel, a senior, lifted his average to .410 on 16 hits in 39 times at bat, according to statistics compiled by the Independent-Journal. He edged John Sims of San Rafael (.395), Matt Gondak of champion Redwood (.385), and teammate George Hoberg (.382), who entered the game hitting .406 but went zero for two.

Gondak led the league in doubles with five and tied teammates Mike Connor and Gene Frey (a pitcher) for the lead in triples with two. Jeff Pond of Novato and Dave Thomsett of Tamalpais tied for the home run lead with two.

Hoberg won the runs-batted-in title with 14, three more than Pond, while Lance Loughlin of San Rafael led in runs scored with 12. Rich Lopez of Marin Catholic had the most hits, 17.

San Rafael's Mike Farris, sidelined since April 24 with an arm injury, won the earned-run-average title with 1.35. Novato's Ray Stratford hurled a shutout Saturday night at San Marin to tie Farris for the lead in victories with five and tie four other pitchers for the shutout lead with two. Redwood's Frey, Mark Ruggles and Ed Andersen threw two shutouts each.

Sims was the only player to rank in the top ten in both batting and pitching. He completed every game he started and led the league in route-going performances with seven. Marin Catholic's Joe Ducey completed six games and was the strikeout leader with 58.

Drake's Don Asay led in appearances (12) and innings pitched (51) in the 14-game season. San Marin's Tom Bowen started nine games to lead in that department.

Redwood Awards To Connor

Connor won the Mike Kavanagh Memorial Award for the graduating senior athlete who has contributed most to his team, school and community, and the E.E. Boyden Award as the outstanding senior athlete, first time in the school's history the same athlete won both awards.

Possessor of a 3.97 (4 point is perfect) grade point average, Connor won senior scholastic awards in baseball, basketball and football. He also won captain awards in those three sports.

Scott Hickman won the Brian Brown Memorial Award which goes to the outstanding sophomore athlete. It was the first year for the award, named in honor of a Redwood athlete who died in an electrical accident in April of 1972. He was a sophomore at the time of his death.

Other senior scholastic award winners:

Nicklaus Is Favored In Atlanta Golf

ATLANTA (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus went into today's opening round of the $150,000 Atlanta Golf Classic as the favorite on the simple reasoning that whenever the "Golden Bear" plays, he almost automatically becomes the man to beat.

Of course Nicklaus doesn't win all the time; that would be asking too much, even for a man of his talent. But he's seldom out of contention.

Nicklaus played in only nine of 20 previous tournament this year and he has already won $146,000 —an average of better than $16,000 per tournament.

In those nine outings, he posted three victories (Crosby, New Orleans, and the Tournament of Champions); tied for second in the Hope; tied for third in the Masters and was sixth at Los Angeles and in the Gleason at Inverrary.

Today was Nicklaus' first tournament round since winning the Tournament of Champions on April 22.

"I find I play better golf when I space my tournaments out," said Nicklaus in explaining why he has skipped 11 tournaments so far this year.

Nicklaus returned to the tour here this week to start tuning his game for the U.S. Open three weeks hence. Winner of 47 tournaments and more than $1.8 million in 11 years as a professional golfer, Nicklaus wants the U. S. Open to break his tie with the late Bobby Jones for most "major" titles (13).

Nicklaus has plenty of competition here this week, including South African Gary Player who is making his 1973 U. S. debut after a prolonged layoff forced by an operation.

Player was second here last year, two strokes behind winner Bob Lunn, and third in each of the three previous Atlanta Classics. Nicklaus lost the 1971 Atlanta title in a playoff with his Florida neighbor Gardner Dickinson.

Nicklaus could regain this year's money lead by winning here this week. He currently trails Bruce Crampton by more than $21,000, but Crampton isn't playing here. Neither are Lee Trevino nor Arnold Palmer.

Eighteen of the top 25 money winners, including Dave Hill who won last week at Memphis, and Billy Casper are present for the four day grind.

Seals' Smith Joins WHA

Combined AP & UPI

OAKLAND — The California Golden Seals, who lost many of their stars to the World Hockey Association last season, have lost another player to the WHA.

Defenseman Rick Smith signed with the Minnesota Fighting Saints Wednesday for a reported $75,000 annual salary.

Most of the key Seals already have signed with the team for next season.

Still unsigned, however, are defensemen Darryl Maggs, also reportedly WHA-bound, and forwards Ivan Boldirev, Stan Gilbertson and Ted McAneeley.

More Hockey

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Flyers announced Wednesday that coach Fred Shero's contract has been extended through the 1975-76 National Hockey League season.

Shero, last season, guided the Flyers to a second-place finish in the NHL West. Shero's original three-year contract was due to expire at the end of next season.

NEW YORK — Camille Henry, coach of the New York Raiders of the World Hockey Association today signed another one-year contract. Henry coached the Raiders to a 33-43-2 record last season, good for a sixth place finish in the Eastern Division of the WHA.

Football

DALLAS — The judge who handed pro football star Lance Rentzel a five-year probated sentence in 1971 on an indecent exposure charge says he wants Rentzel to return to court and explain a recent conviction in California on a marijuana possession charge.

Judge John Mead said, however, he would delay asking Rentzel to return until after action is taken on Rentzel's appeal of a 90-day jail sentence handed down in the California case

OAKLAND — Bob Mischak, assistant athletic director and offensive line coach at Army for the past seven years, has joined the Oakland Raiders as administrative coach.

Mischak, 40, played for the Raiders from 1963 to 1965. He'll be used primarily in personnel and scouting work.

"I'm excited about returning to pro football and my family is quite excited about returning to the Bay Area," Mischak said Wednesday.

Tennis

PARIS — Second-seeded Chris Evert of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. easily defeated Australia's Marilyn Tesch, 6-1, 6-0 in the women's singles play of the $150,000 French Open Tennis Championships today. In action Wednesday, Margaret Court of Australia defeated Pam Teeguarden of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-2.

Baseball

WASHINGTON — Sen. James P. Pearson, R-Kans. feels they're picking on U.S. amateur sports again. Pearson said Wednesday the International Amateur Swimming Federation may suspend American swimmers if they insist on competing in a series of Chinese exhibition meets.

Top Choice Of Braves Is Balking

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The National Basketball Association Buffalo Braves planned to dine on Kentucky fried chicken and Italian meatballs today to celebrate the signing of the No. 1 draft pick, Ernie DiGregorio.

Instead, the feast and a scheduled news conference were canceled because "problems have arisen" in finalizing a contract with Ernie D.

DiGregorio was scheduled to arrive in Buffalo Wednesday night for a team physical and sign his multi-year pact with the NBA club today.

The plane arrived but he wasn't on it.

At last reports, team owner Paul Snyder and General Manager Eddie Donovan were in New York conducting additional sessions with DiGregorio and his lawyer. A team spokesman said there would be no further comment "until the problems are resolved."

Snyder told a Wednesday morning news conference that the club and the six-foot guard from Providence had reached an agreement in principle and DiGregorio had "accepted."

The little guard was scheduled to be at Wednesday's press session but he did not show because he was still involved in lengthy negotiations with the Kentucky Colonels of the rival American Basketball Association.

Golfer Crampton Dreams Of $200,000

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — In each of the past five years Bruce Crampton of Australia has won more than $100,000 on the PGA golf tour. In January he won the Phoenix and Tucson Opens and collected $30,000 for each victory. Now he's thinking of earning $200,000 on tour in 1973.

"When you start that way," says the 37-year-old Crampton, "you have to give the rest of the year some thought. I'm thinking about winning $200,000. I might even do what Jack Nicklaus did last yar and win more than $300,000.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

'Killer's' Bat Aids Twins

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

For a team not many expected to be among the contenders in the American League West this year, the Minnesota Twins are doing a pretty good job of holding their own.

And it probably would not be too far off to suggest that much of their current success is the result of a hot bat by "washed up" 36-year old Harmon Killebrew.

Killebrew, a month shy of his next birthday and saying "I'm feeling as fit as ever," has been wielding a hot bat the last few days to raise an anemic batting average to a level of respectability.

The "Killer," who owns the fourth highest home run total in baseball history (543), rapped out two singles and a double against Kansas City Wednesday night, giving him six hits in the last 10 at bats, and with three RBI's paced the Twins to an 8-6 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

The triumph was the Twins' third straight, ninth in their last 12 games and enabled them to remain only 3 ½ games behind the first place Chicago White Sox. The Royals, who collected 16 hits but left 14 runners on base, had a chance to tie the game in the seventh but Cookie Rojas was thrown out at home trying to score from first on Amos Otis' two-out single.

In other AL action, Chicago dumped California 5-3, New York edged Detroit 6-5, Boston beat Milwaukee 5-3, Oakland defeated Texas 8-6 and Cleveland at Baltimore was rained out.

In the NL, Cincinnati nipped Houston 4-3, Chicago beat Montreal 4-2 in 10 innings, San Diego downed Los Angeles 4-3 and St. Louis at New York, Pittsburgh at Philadelphia and San Francisco at Atlanta were rained out.

Carlos May's three-run homer capped a four-run seventh inning that gave Chicago and reliever Terry Forster the victory over the Angels and Bill Singer.

May, troubled by a muscle strain in his left thigh which has allowed him to serve only as a designated hitter three times since May 12, homered after consecutive singles by Ken Henderson, Dick Allen and Bill Melton produced a run.

Matty Alou doubled with two out in the ninth inning to score Gene Michael from second as the Yankees beat Detroit.

Joe Coleman (8-3) gave up a single to Michael to open the ninth. Michael was bunted to second before Alou's double.

Royals Call Up Angelini, Sign 2nd Pick Davis

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Kansas City Royals today bolstered their pitching stable by calling up lefthander Norm Angelini from their Omaha farm club and signing 19-year-old righthander Brad Davis, assigned to the Billings, Mont., club.

Angelini, 25, has pitched nine games in relief at Omaha, compiling a 1-1 record and two saves plus a 2.14 ERA. In 21 1-3 innings he has struck out 28 batters.

While with the Royals for the last 2 ½ months of last season, he compiled a 2-1 record with two saves and a 2.25 ERA in 21 games.

Angelini was to join the team today at Minnesota, bringing Kansas City up to its 25-man limit.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

Dangerous Curves

By LEE TREVINO

Yep, there are some dangerous curves on a golf course, but you can duck a lot of trouble by hitting an intentional draw. A draw is a controlled hook.

I don't hit an intentional hook like most pros. They change their hands and feet — turn the V's to the right and close their stance. You can hook a ball that way, but it may take a wrong turn at Altoona.

I hook with a "quit" shot. I slow my downswing and turn my hands over at impact. This spins the ball to the left and the result is a hook.

Swing easier than you normally do. To insure a smooth stroke, I suggest using more club — a 5-iron instead of a 6. Don't try to force it.

Line up with a tree or shrub to the right of the target, then shoot at it. Or draw an imaginary line along the trajectory.

An intentional draw usually is a trouble shot. You're either trying to skirt some trees or a boundary has you jittery. That's when the lefthand curve looks good to a happy hooker.

Final Indy 500 Dress Run Today

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) The final dress rehearsal for Monday's Indianapolis 500-mile auto race was scheduled today with the traditional carburetion tests at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

This was the only chance this week for the drivers and crews to test their finely tuned, turbocharged engines under raceday conditions.

The great majority of the 33 starters were expected to participate in the three-hour practice, running with full fuel loads and testing their chassis setups.

The final practice, under the watchful eyes of chief steward Harland Fengler and his corps of officials from the United States Auto Club, was to be followed by pit rehearsals for two more hours — but with engines silent.

This session consisted mostly of pit strategy and tire changing. Then the famed 2½-mile oval will be closed until Monday's race.

KNBA radio station, 1190 on the AM dial, will broadcast the Indy 500 race live, starting at 8:15 a.m. Monday.

Most of the drivers have indicated they plan to run final practice at racing speeds — anywhere from 188 to 192 miles per hour. The fastest lap in competition last year was run by race winner Mark Donohue at 187.539 m.p.h. Thus, barring major accidents which slow the pace of the field, the million-dollar Memorial Day race was expected to be the fastest by far.

Mauch's Kudos To Clemente's Skills

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Gene Mauch of the Montreal Expos says he never saw a baseball player do all the things Roberto Clemente could do. "And you know," said Mauch, "they never can make a movie about Clemente because nobody around is good enough to play his part."

Clemente, who lost his life with four other men in a plane crash off San Juan on New Year's Eve, will be inducted posthumously into baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., on Monday, August 6.

22ND YEAR WITH 49ERS

Mill Valley Man On 'Chain Gang'

By RON LENT

A Mill Valley man who joined the National Football League in 1952 with the San Francisco 49ers is looking forward to the start of his 22nd season this fall.

Chain man Jean A. Wegscheider boasts: "I broke in with (sterling halfback Hugh) McElhenny in 1952 and I've been with it ever since. I love it."

Wegscheider, 48, is a member of the three-man chain gang which serves at all 49er home games by spotting the place of the football and denoting the down plus the yardage needed for the next first down.

The 5-foot-7, 145-pound Wegscheider has only performed these duties on the sidelines at Candlestick Park and Kezar Stadium. "I've never officiated in any other capacity. I've never officiated in college or high school."

He is content with his Sunday job and his duties with the Mill Valley post office. "I'm a mailman, and I enjoy it." True, he likes his vocation, but Wegscheider professes passion for his avocation.

"I've been going to 49er games since 1946 when they started. And I got my (NFL) job quite by accident. Jack O'Brien (also of Mill Valley) had the job before me, but he had to give it up; so, he asked me if I wanted to do it.

"I took the job just to see how it would work out, and I immediately became an avid 49er fan." He confesses that probably the toughest part of the job is "remembering you're working for the NFL and you're not a spectator. You've got to move along as the game progresses and stay out of the way."

GETTING READY — National Football League game official Gene Wegscheider of Mill Valley adjusts his uniform cap as he awaits the start of the new season at Candlestick Park where he is a member of the chain gang.

Keeping out of the line of fire is no easy matter — just ask Jean. As he recalls: "My most embarrassing moment happened one year when (quarterback) Y. A. Tittle was rolling out on a broken play. I became transfixed as Y. A. ran towards the sidelines looking for a receiver. He finally crashed into me, he and I and the chain got all tangled up. Y. A. suffered some nasty scratches on his throwing arm, and he gave me what-for."

Wegscheider got a reminder of this scene Nov. 12 last year when Baltimore visited the 49ers at Candlestick. "Bubba Smith (injured defensive end) came up to us and said, 'Remember what happened to me in Tampa; stay out of the way.'" The massive Colt star was sidelined for the season with a leg injury when he collided with the chain and the "gang" during an exhibition game in August.

Another Colt star also has had words with Wegscheider. When the late Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscomb was with the Colts, he always managed to show his sense of humor. During a Colt-49ers game in the late 1950s, "I was kneeling down in front of their (Colt) bench when I heard a voice over my shoulder — 'I saw you move that chain.' I looked up and there was Gene smiling. He was the most awesome looking football player I've ever seen. What else could I do but smile back!" says Wegscheider.

Injuries are also a part of the game, and, in his 22 years, Wegscheider has had his share. The most poignant one was inflicted several years back at Kezar when John David Crow, a wily old halfback, was confronted with Chicago Bear defensive back Dave Whitsell.

"Crow was running along the sidelines," he continues, "but he knew Dave had the angle on him so he just fell down. At that moment, Whitsell sailed through the air and speared me with his helmet. I was wearing the Chicago Bears emblem on my chest for the next couple of weeks."

The life-long Marinite also learned a lesson on alertness from former 49er quarterback and coach Frankie Albert. "I was the front man on the crew when our chain got tangled — only we didn't know it. The other team advanced the ball for what looked like a first down, but Albert came over and noticed that the chain extended only nine and one-half yards in front of the 49er bench. We unravelled the chain, and they were forced to punt."

A graduate of Tamalpais High School and San Francisco State, Wegscheider says his favorite players were fullback Joe Perry and McElhenny, and his most exciting season was 1957 when the 49ers tied for the Western Division crown only to lose a heartbreaking playoff, 31-27, to Detroit.

All these represent fine memories for a 49er game official and fan who eagerly awaits the opening kickoff for a promising 1973 grid season.

Two Held For Theft In Tiburon

Tiburon police said today they have arrested two persons in connection with the theft of $3,000 worth of stereo equipment and recovered $1,200 of the loot.

Arrested yesterday morning was Howard Earl Rhodd, 23, of no known address. Police said a 17-year-old Tiburon youth was arrested Tuesday.

Officers said an investigation into the theft from the home of Paul E. Lyme on Loma Lane revealed Rhodd had received some of the goods and he was arrested yesterday in a stake out on Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael.

Rhodd then led officers to a home he had been staying at in Novato, where equipment valued at $1,200 was found.

He was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary, held in lieu of $10,000 bail and scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said the youth they arrested is suspected of doing the actual burglary and they don't think Rhodd entered the house. The youth was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of burglary. His identity was withheld on standing order of Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court.

Alien Spaceman Said Buried In Texas Grave

AURORA, Tex. (UPI) — A grave in a small north Texas cemetery contains the body of an 1897 astronaut who "was not an inhabitant of this world," according to the International UFO Bureau.

The group, which investigates unidentified flying objects, has already initiated legal proceedings to exhume the body, and will go to court if necessary to open the grave, director Hayden Hewes said Wednesday.

"We hope by exhuming the body we may obtain some of the same type of unusual metal from either his clothing or bones that was unearthed at the well site when we checked it with metal detectors," he said.

Hewes said pieces of metal found near the grave and crash site are now being analyzed by scientists.

July 4 Landing On Mars Is Set

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — Earthly plans for America's 200th birthday party may have bogged down, but the space agency is preparing a Martian spectacular for July 4, 1976.

Dr. Harold Klein, director of life sciences at NASA's Ames Research Center, said the agency hopes to parachute an unmanned spacecraft to the surface of Mars on that date.

When the Viking capsule comes to rest, the U.S. will begin its first comprehensive search for life on the fourth planet.

West Marinites In Favor Of Resident Deputy Idea

By ANNE WEST

While impressions of unequal treatment by law enforcement officers in West Marin were aired last night, a possible solution to such a feeling — resident deputies — appeared doomed by the taxation it would require.

Complaints, their cause and their resolution, were hashed out last night in Point Reyes Station by about 50 civilians and representatives of the law session sponsored by the Marin County police-Community Relations Department.

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos told the assemblage that whenever it is proposed to increase the number of deputies to provide resident officers, complaints of "double taxation" by the cities force the county supervisors to back off.

Providing resident deputies would mean tripling the 14 officers now serving West Marin in order to give each officer an eight-hour shift, he explained. The cities argue that they pay for their own police force and they object to increases in their county taxes to pay for more police protection in unincorporated area, Mountanos said.

"About two million city people come to our area each year to fish, boat, and see the parks," argued Michael Hawley of Point Reyes Station from the audience. He said that for city people to say they stay in the cities and never come to West Marin is "strictly asinine."

Asked about the area covered by the West Marin sheriff's substation, Sheriff's Lt. William Johansen said it includes about three-fourths of the county. (He said after the meeting that the permanent resident population totals about 10,000 people, but the tourist population on one weekend day can go as high as 50,000.)

Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini said he endorses a resident deputy system because he feels West Marin is "definitely understaffed," but that every time the suggestion was put forward "there is a hue and cry from the cities."

Lee C. Richardson of Inverness said that while he favors the idea of resident deputies, he pays "a vast amount" of taxes already. "I'm not sure I can afford any more federal, state, or county taxes for protection and I wish you'd keep that in mind," Richardson said.

One man in the audience asked about the possibility for combining all city and county forces into one countywide police force and Mountanos replied he hoped a survey could be made on the possibility.

Charges of unequal enforcement of laws were raised by Inverness residents Fred Bauer and Frank Cerda and Susanna Jacob of Inverness Park. "We see this all the time, how longhairs are ticketed and straight folks aren't," declared Bauer. he offered to provide evidence and was invited by Mountanos to meet with either him or Lieutenant Johansen.

Cerda questioned Johansen on an alleged statement that "90 per cent of the crime in West Marin is caused by hippies." Johansen replied that his statement referred to the Bolinas-Stinson Beach area where he believes that to be true.

Johansen continued, amid laughter from some of the audience, that "a majority of hardcore hippies is coming into this area from other areas where warrants of arrest are pending against them."

Mrs. Jacob complained that teen-agers are often stopped and questioned by police in situations where adults would be left alone. "Young people out here are growing up with the idea that they don't have a firm grip on their civil rights," she said.

California Highway Patrol officers James C. Dukes and Eric Denton fielded questions on enforcement of traffic laws. The meeting was moderated by William Scalapino of the College of Marin.

Pump For Grass Fires Purchased

The Novato Fire Protection District board last night awarded a contract for a pump unit for a grass fire rig, according to Chief Jack W. Kidder.

The contract was awarded to Western Fire Co., lone bidder, at a cost of $45,787.

The board will have a closed meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at Fire Station No. 3 to instruct its representative, Chief Jack Kidder on salary negotiations with the Novato Professional Firemen's Association, which will be meeting in a separate room at the station. A state conciliator will be present as a mediator.

Condition Improved Of Bridge Employee

A Golden Gate Bridge employee seriously injured in a traffic accident Tuesday was improving today, according to Marin General Hospital spokesmen.

Earl H. Scheurman, 25, of Sonoma, was struck by an auto while attempting to retrieve a lane marker cone on Highway 101 near Marin City. Originally listed in critical condition, he was reported in satisfactory condition today.

Magazine Award Winners Named

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Atlantic Monthly, Psychology Today, New York, Horizon and Business Week were named yesterday as winners of this year's National Magazine Awards.

The awards, presented at a luncheon today, were announced by Elie Abel, dean of the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism.

The awards were:

General excellence—Business Week, for "consistently high level of performance as a business news magazine."

Specialized journalism —Psychology Today, for "imaginative and skillful interpretation of a complex field to a general audience."

Visual excellence — Horizon, for "consistently high level on the quality of its reproductions."

Fiction—Atlantic Monthly, for "Enormous Changes at the Last Minute," a short story by Grace Paley.

Freeze Put On State Agencies Purchasing Of New Vehicles

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — All state agencies in California have been ordered not to purchase any new vehicles while a master plan is being developed to deal with possible gasoline shortages, Larence Robinson Jr., director of general services, said today.

The freeze on all vehicles except police cars will continue for "about 30 days," he said, while a study of compact, economy cars is being conducted.

Under the study, Robinson said, the feasibility of the state buying cars such as the Valiant, Vega, Pinto and Hornet instead of larger, more gas consuming cars would be considered.

"I think it's wise for us to anticipate a problem and be prepared for it," Robinson said. However, he added that "this is not a very meaningful freeze because most of the purchases (of vehicles) have been made already this year."

He said he had been asked to head an administration committee, suggested by Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, to deal with possible petroleum shortages affecting California's 30,000-vehicle fleet.

The committee, he said, would also considered as part of the master plan speed restrictions to conserve gasoline, and use of commercial buses instead of state cars for travel between cities.

The freeze was initiated Monday, Robinson said, although the state has not yet faced any gas delivery problems.

"We have inquired from our gasoline contractors as to their position on rationing. We haven't had answers yet because the letters have just gone out," he added.

"I think we're really feeling the impact now of the environmental problem resulting from not building new refineries in the United States for five years," he said. "The gasoline people have told us for five years that they have not been allowed to start construction on a new refinery."

Nixon Given Medal By Mint Director

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mary Brooks, director of the mint, yesterday presented President Nixon with the first strike of a three-inch bronze medal commemorating his second term.

The medal has a portrait of Nixon on one side. The other side carries the word "peace" above an eagle. Below that is a map of the world and a sentence from Nixon's inaugural address—"We stand on the threshold of a new era of peace in the world."

TRUCKER ROPES HORSE

Commuters Are Treated To Wild West Display

Southbound commuters on Highway 101 at Corte Madera were treated to a mini rodeo yesterday as a lariat-swinging truck driver roped a horse galloping north in the south-bound lanes.

The great roundup of Corte Madera started at 8:35 a.m. when police were surprised to note a sleek brown horse grazing outside the police station in Town Park.

Two police cars tried to head off the horse, which galloped along Tamalpais Avenue to the Sizzler Steak House, back up Lucky Drive, on and off the freeway, round and round the Corte Madera Center and back on 101.

By this time, reported police, the unsuccessful roundup crew included one police chief, one police captain, one police sergeant, several patrolmen, a Larkspur police captain, a crossing guard, a Westinghouse security man, and a whole host of excited Corte Maderans.

As the mini rodeo charged around the shopping center Ballou (who later told police he had some experience roping) parked his truck, got out his lariat, and joined the chase.

He succeeded in roping the horse on the freeway near the Marin Municipal Water District offices, and a long backup of commute traffic finally went on its way to the city.

Corte Madera police turned the animal over to the Marin Humane Society. They guessed the horse — described as "beautiful, sleek, dark brown" — had wandered over from the grazing lands in the Scott Valley area of Mill Valley.

Hear Strange Sound? Find Trouble Source

Love of money in drivers can lead them astray, especially if they refuse to take care of minor car repairs.

When you hear a strange sound from your car engine, advises the National Automobile Club, get the source of trouble fixed immediately or learn a costly lesson in the future.

Motion Rejected In Houston Strike

HOUSTON (UPI) — A district judge rejected a motion yesterday to order the Port of Houston Authority to help end a longshoremen's strike that has shut down a grain elevator loading wheat for Russia.

The Louis Dreytus Corp. said the port should see the company has "peaceful and quiet use" of the elevator, District Judge W. Ervin James turned down the motion.

The elevator, which handles 20 per cent of the grain shipments for Russia, has been idled since May 8 except for one day.

Crosswalks For Pedestrians

To keep a vehicle from killing you, advises the National Automobile Club, use only those crosswalks designed for your safety at intersections.

Surplus In Trade Noted For April

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent announced today the United States registered a trade surplus in April of $193.6 million — its first in 18 months.

At a news conference, Dent said: "This is a constructive development from the standpoint of international markets." He cautioned however that "monthly figures are not necessarily indicative of longer trends."

The surplus was based on exports of $5,487,000,000, up 2 per cent from March, and imports of $5,291,000,000, down 2.6 per cent. Imports declined for the second successive month.

"Most of the favorable shift in the April trade balance resulted from a decline in the deficit with Canada," Bent said.

"The continued improvement in our trade position in April is thought to be significant since exports are showing considerable strength and imports are turning sluggish," he said.

"These trends indicate that the currency shifts of the past two years are having a stimulating effect on sales of U.S. made goods ... and are dampening our purchases of foreign products."

Dent added: "It is too early, however, to predict the extent of improvement in the trade balance for the year as a whole." He also cautioned of possible "perverse effects" of the dollar devaluation in February that "have not surfaced in the figures here."

Break-In Period

New tires need a short break-in period for maximum safety and wear. Staying under 60 miles per hour for the first 50 miles allows the body cords to adjust to the tread, the Tire Industry Safety Council explains.

Four Fail To File Campaign Forms

Four Marin County citizens who won school district board contests in the April 17 election will have to go to court before they can take office in July.

They are Jerrold M. Ladar, Tamalpais High School District; Gloria Riccardi, Kentfield; Carolyn L. Brown, Bolinas-Stinson, and Marilyn C. Marioni, Lagunitas.

The four failed to file the required campaign financial statements by the deadline Tuesday, according to Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer. Under state law, they must appear before a superior court judge and win a court order permitting late filing of their election contribution and spending statements, Meyer explained yesterday. Only then may they be declared legally elected.

Detailed financial statements are required if the candidate received more than $200 in contributions or spent more than $200 campaigning. Names of all campaign contributors must be listed but the amount they gave need only be listed if it was $500 or more, Meyer said.

If the candidate received or spent less than $200, only a brief document attesting this is required. But a court order still will be needed to file it late, Meyer said.

The statements filed before the deadline in Meyer's office showed Lotte Schiller, elected to the Tamalpais High School District Board, was the top spender among all the races. She listed campaign contributions of $1,414 and expenses of $1,402.50. A total of 5,959 votes was cast for Mrs. Schiller.

Maurine Ballard, who was edged out by Mrs. Schiller, received $168 in contributions but spent $1,198.28, and received 5,852 votes.

John G. Eliot Jr., re-elected to the Mill Valley board, received contributions of $1,080.03 and spent $1,168.25, receiving 2,805 votes. Dr. Thomas D. Spencer, also elected to the Mill Valley board, received and spent $1,076.09, according to his statement. He got 2,894 votes.

James Kimo Campbell, who ran fourth in an eight-way race for three seats on the Marin Community College District Board, reported contributions of $1,117.62 and expenses of $1,102.26. He was the only candidate to list a contribution exceeding $500 from any single source, $850 from Philip S. Ehrlich Jr.

All the rest of the candidates filing by Tuesday listed expenses of less than $1,000 and in many cases, less than $200.

In addition to the statements previously reported in the Independent-Journal, listed were, by districts:

Bolinas-Stinson — Susan F. Washington, under $200.

Dixie — Carol Kay Beckmann, no contributions, spent $289.39; Thomas Neal McNamara, no contributions, spent $216.43, and Janice W. Pechauer, no contributions, spent $226.34.

Fairfax — Joann R. Walla, $10 contributions, spent $344.50.

Kentfield — Winifred A. Setrakian, $265 contributions, spent $411.82; Joan N. Brownstein, $738.50 contributions, spent $725.61; Neil M. Park, under $200 and Gloria May Riccardi, $100 contributions, spent $249.87.

Lagunitas — Richard C. Sloan, under $200.

Larkspur — Howard C. Harvey, Anthony J. Moreno and Oliver Larson Jr., each under $200.

Marin Community College District — Alvin H. Buckelew, under $200; Joseph E. Doherty, $827.50 contributions, spent $822.01, and Elizabeth M. Deedy, under $200.

Novato — Mabel W. Croughan, Thomas J. Cleary and John D. Kassenbrock, each under $200.

Reed — Donald Furlong, no contributions, spent $290; John Jay Osborn, $535.25 contributions, spent $625.25; Robert K. Ockner, $431.40 contributions, spent $495.96, and Charles Patterson, $370 contributions, spent $319.40.

Ross — Thomas Guerin, no contributions, spent $263 and Elizabeth F. Way, under $200.

Tamalpais — Fred C. Hannahs, $385 contributions, spent $396 and Elaine S. Brockbank, $150 contributions, spent $331.85.

Uncontested elections — Affidavits showing contributions and expenses of less than $200 each were filed by Kenneth P. Kehoe, Shoreline Unified School District; Donald J. Moreda, Laguna; Charles W. Spaletta, Lincoln; Harold A. Drady, Nicasio, and Douglas J. Fancher, Sausalito.

Meyer said California Secretary of State Edmond G. Brown Jr. has warned that unsuccessful candidates who fail to file campaign expense statements are guilty of a misdemeanor, but that he knows of no prosecution ever happening in such event.

Salary Raises Said Not Enough

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California State Employes Association has urged a $10 million boost in the 1973-74 budget to bring them to "parity" with private industry.

The request was made yesterday to the State Personnel Board.

Walter Taylor, general manager of the 101,000-worker association, said the board's "spring salary survey data shows that private industry salaries rose at a faster rate between October 1972 and March 1973 than the SPB anticipated."

"As a result," he declared, "the 11.9 per cent average pay increase proposed for state employes beginning July 1 won't be enough to bring them to parity with salaries paid in private industry."

Macaroni Firm Slashes Prices

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Globe A1 Macaroni Co. struck a blow for inflation-battered shoppers Wednesday. As "an individual thrust" toward halting the rise in food costs, the company cut prices of more than 36 types of macaroni by 5 per cent.

"I hope that other food processors will follow suit," said sales manager Ron West. "The rollback in price is essential to the country's economy, and happily it doesn't adversely affect our present profit position." He said the price cut was made possible by a six month crash program to increase the efficiency of the macaroni making process.

By GORDON B. GREB

The Passing Parade! If you know the year each of these headlines appeared, you can guess the ages of today's celebrities.

1. BOB DYLAN was born when newsboys were shouting, "Japanese Planes Hit Pearl Harbor and bookstores were running out of copies of "Berlin Diary." Born in Duluth, Minnesota, this youngster taught himself to play the piano, guitar, and harmonica. Today he is a composer and singer. His hits include "Blowin' in the Wind," "Desolation Row," and "Mr. Tambourine Man."

2. LILLI PALMER was born the year Archduke Ferdinand was assassinated. Folks were singing the popular tune, "Too-ra-loo-ra-loo-ral." Born in Posen Germany, Lilli graduated from high school in Berlin and was acting on the London stage when World War II broke out. Her Hollywood movie credits include roles in "The Four Poster," "Counterfeit Traitor," and "Oedipus."

3. WILBUR MILLS was born the year front pages carried the news, "Peary Reaches North Pole," and libarians were ordering "The Girl of the Limberlost." Events were to take this youngster from Arkansas to law school at Harvard and into politics. He has been a Congressman since 1939.

4. SIOBHAN MCKENNA was born the year President Harding took ill and died in San Francisco. The hit song was "Yes, We Have No Bananas." This actress called Belfast, Ireland, her home and went on to starting roles in London, New York, and Hollywood.

One Mistake Is Always Plenty So Position Should Be Noted

West made just one mistake in the defense but it was enough. The position is worth remembering, but it takes courage to make the right play in actual combat.

JACK OPENING

West opened the jack of clubs, and South won with the king. South returned a low spade, West played low and dummy put up the ten.

When is West going to make that mistake? The alert reader will understand the meaning of this question. West has already made his fatal error.

East dared not win the first spade trick with the queen, for then South could take four more spade tricks by way of a second spade finesse.

REFUSES TRICK

East refused the trick, giving South only two spades instead of four. This left declarer in the dummy, in position to finesse with the queen of hearts.

The finesse worked, so South led a spade to dummy's ace and took another heart finesse. This gave declarer three heart tricks, and two tricks in each of the other suits — just enough for game.

SHOULD DEFEAT CONTRACT

West should put up the king of spades when that suit is first led. This play costs nothing, since West's king is worthless unless his partner has the queen. (If South has the queen of spades, he will surely finesse.)

If declarer wins the first spade with dummy's ace, he will never win another spade trick. What's more, he gets to dummy only once for a heart finesse.

South can do no better by refusing the first spade. A daring declarer might let West hold the king of spades and might later finesse with dummy's ten of spades in the hope that West started with K-Q-x.

This play would yield South no spades at all!

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1-NT (16-18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - A J 10 7 4
♥ - 7 2
♦ - 8 7 3 2
♣ - 6 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

You will probably be safer at a part score in spades than at 1-NT. If your partner always bids again in this situation, let him play the hand at 1-NT.

Charge Dismissed In Burglary Case

A burglary charge against Richard Bernard Lucas, 26, of Mill Valley, has been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court at the request of the district attorney's office.

The prosecution said Lucas was not the person who smashed a window of the Accurate Television Shop at 1 Throckmorton Avenue on May 14, but was merely in the neighborhood when Mill Valley police responded to a silent alarm at the shop.

Summer Story Hours Planned

The summer series of story programs for preschool children, ages 3 to 5 years, will be at 11 a.m., Wednesdays from June 6 through August 29 at the Civic Center Branch of Marin County Library.

Further information may be obtained from Barbara Rauhala, children's librarian.

Major Facelifting Is Planned For The Nave Shopping Center

Nave Shopping Center at South Novato Boulevard and Center Road in Novato will get a major facelifting job this summer in conjunction with the opening there of Alpha Beta Market and Thrifty Drug Store late this year or early next year

Robert Nave, manager of the shopping center, said he will build a new 25,000-square-foot building between the old Purity Store and the existing post office to house a new Alpha Beta store. Alpha Beta's first Marin outlet opened in Larkspur last November.

Thrifty Drugs will take over the old Purity building, which will undergo extensive remodeling.

Nave estimated that construction and remodeling would begin in about three months, and he is shooting for completion by the end of this year or early 1974.

Other improvements planned in the nine-acre Nave Shopping Center include painting and clean-up of various buildings, overlay of the parking area, and upgrading of lighting including some new light standards in the parking lot.

When the remodeling and improvements are completed, the center will have room for additional businesses, said Nave. Existing businesses include a Standard station, post office, Sierra National Bank, and a series of service shops. The center is owned by William Nave and Sons.

M. GORDON GADDY, 36, of Novato, vice president and controller of Fireman's Fund American Life Insurance Companies, was elected senior vice president and put in charge of underwriting and actuarial activities.

Four others promoted to assistant vice presidents include the following three from Marin: ERNEST M. DEWEY, 37, and THOMAS A. SKIFF, 29, of San Rafael and ROBERT W. KELLY, 43, of Corte Madera.

Dewey will succeed Gaddy as controller Kelly is responsible for individual and group policy administration, and Skiff manages actuarial department financial statements and reserves.

Louis W. Niggeman of Kentfield, chairman of the board of Fireman's Fund, announced the promotions.

Gaddy began his insurance career with United Family Life in 1960 and joined Fireman's Fund as controller in 1968. He was elected vice president two years later. He won his master's degree in business administration in 1968 from Georgia State University.

MARY MORISON of Mill Valley, a free-lance fashion coordinator and professional model, just joined the League of the Formerly Fat in Sausalito as weight control consultant and fashion coordinator.

The League of the Formerly Fat is operated at 3000 Bridgeway in Sausalito by Shirley and Leigh A. Silliphant of Mill Valley. It specializes in a nutritional method of weight control.

EL ROY A. (BUD) BARTZ of Terra Linda took over as manager of Merrill's Drugs in San Rafael this month, succeeding David Reese, who returned to the main office in San Francisco.

Bartz has been with Merrill's at Market and Seventh in San Francisco for 15 years and was assistant manager there before he was assigned to San Rafael

PEZAN'S FLOWER GALLERY at 23 Broadway in Fairfax will sell antiques in addition to flowers, beginning this weekend.

Grand opening of Pezan's antiques department is set for 9 a.m. this coming Sunday, with a display of a big shipment from New York including Tiffany silver and pewter. The shop also carries wedding gifts that have never been used.

Stan Pezan and Jim Tousley have operated the shop for eight years.

W & J SLOANE furniture, dealer at Northgate Mall in Terra Linda, has just received a valuable collection of about 300 Oriental rugs that will be on display through the end of May.

Walter Hotzner, veteran salesman for Sloane, described the display as "simply fabulous". Items in the collection range in price from $49 to collectors items priced at $5,000 and $7,000 each.

Sloane is also getting the first items from Red China such as the decorative temple lions.

First Impressions Key To European Economies

By RICHARD NENNEMAN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

LONDON — Journalists and many tourists share a common belief that they can absorb most of the character of a new place in two or three days. Beyond that, they figure, they have to stay for a year or more.

There is a great deal of truth to this. If you can trust your impressions generally a few days' intensive experience anywhere unveils quite a bit about the place. After that, as you dig into the facts behind the impressions and learn to qualify everything you originally thought, it gets very complicated — until you find that your first impressions came very close to being an accurate summary after all.

Applied to the business scene, it is remarkable how much the surface impressions one gets in Britain, France, and the Federal Republic of Germany parallel the growth tracks of those respective countries, as shown in the accompanying chart.

(The lines indicate how far each nation's industrial production has come since 1967, the base year; they do not compare the absolute levels of production in each country with each other.)

Life in Britain is, as always, extremely pleasant. And, for the first time in years, Britain has at least temporarily broken away from some of the constraints its persistently weak balance of payments used to force on it. With the pound floating and the government trying a version of an incomes policy, there is more than just hope that economic growth can emerge from the stop-go alternations of the 1960's.

In the past year, productivity has climbed some 9 per cent. If this trend can continue, the British will have something to talk about.

But there is a general feeling that the present boom is not sustainable. Surprisingly, one leading banker was not even aware that his nation's productivity had picked up so substantially. The same gentleman was desirous of faster growth, though, and bemoaned the fact that England too often is thought of as just a pleasant place to live

Yet, by their attitudes toward work, many of the British still give a foreigner the impression that is is "living" that comes first. This is not said out of criticism. But it is most interesting that what one senses as an observer on the scene here correlates so closely with the growth track on the chart, in which Britain trails Germany and France so noticeably.

As for Germany, its well-reported successes for 20 years have begun to create some problems. The guest workers from the south of Europe and even Turkey are a potential social problem in its cities.

The waves of monetary speculation, as weak currencies have sought a refuge in the strong Deutschemark, have made it even harder for West German monetary authorities to contain the growing inflation felt there today.

Yet Germany remains, even with some present problems, on top of the heap today. With post-war reconstruction long past, its citizens more relaxed and able to enjoy life, Germany goes on to make its country more modern and more enjoyable for its citizens.

In both Frankfurt and Stuttgart, which were visited on this trip, construction is underway for the U-bahn (subway system) and S-bahn, which is a railway network linking the city centers to the suburbs farther out.

New housing projects attempt to combine the rich green of the south German countryside with fast links to the city. In Stuttgart, the authorities have agreed to build no more parking facilities in the inner city. This move will eventually turn more people to public transport.

And then there is France, whose rapid growth curve might surprise a tourist if he kept only to the old center of Paris and to a tour of chateaus and cathedrals. But take a trip outside Paris, and one sees very quickly the results of the system of French planning. Several entirely new cities are under construction, including some wholly residential cities such as Val d'Yerres, near the new industrial center of Evry.

Or take Le Defense, two miles west of the Arch of Triumph. There a new group of skyscrapers, eventually with some 15 million square feet of office space, is rising. This will in the 1980s be the business center of Paris, and will take some of the pressure off the clogged streets of the city itself.

The "secret" to French growth seems to lie in the fact that almost all the long-term financing comes from institutions that are either controlled by the state or closely linked to it. While the public press talks about politics and social protest movements, the French economy goes ahead at a steady 5 to 6 per cent each year, at least partly as a result of its system of indicative planning.

Some bloopers may occasionally result (and one wonders in a country of such refinement about this generation of French architects), but the planning and governmental control of financing seem so far at least to have channeled funds into many useful and progressive projects.

Positive Note Given Economy

"Concerns over inflation are expected to abate in late 1973, as will many negative elements now influencing stock prices."

This is one of several positive notes sounded in the just published "Positive Investment Policy - Midyear 1973 Outlook" of Dean Witter & Co. The report, prepared by the firm's national research and economics departments, states that "It is almost certain that the growth rate of the economy will be slowing down by the end of this year so that rampant inflation is bound to slow down too."

Victor J. Melone, Dean Witter's Director of National Research, had this comment: "What the market needs is not good earnings reports but more buyers."

Shares In Levitz Should Snap Back

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. So far I have a small loss in the 350 shares of Levitz Furniture (NYSE) which I hold. I would appreciate very much your opinion about it. — P.G.

A. Levitz' market performance since mid-1972 reflects negative publicity and the loss of institutional support which was responsible in large part for the sharp rise in share price prior to that. In fiscal 1972 — ended Jan. 31, 1973 — profit margins narrowed resulting in a slowdown in the company's previous fast-paced growth. During the year 17 new units were opened bringing the total number of showrooms in operation to 49. This year 18 openings are scheduled including outlets on Long Island and Florida. In recent months sales per square foot of space have deteriorated from earlier high levels. However, March sales were strong and an improvement in this ratio should be apparent this year. At only 11 times estimated fiscal 1973 earnings, shares should be held for long-term recovery.

Q. What is your view on the most talked about stock — Curtiss-Wright (NYSE) — V.A.

A. American Motors has agreed to pay $1.5 million plus royalties to Curtiss over the next three years to produce Wankel engines. If the engine is used in production models, up to $20 million would be paid after 1976. American is the fifth company to sign with CW in connection with the rotary motor. Thus far, General Motors has paid $11.4 million under its sublicensing pact with CW, with a similar amount due over the next 3 years.

In 1972, royalties on the engine, in addition to the $4.5 million from GM, amounted to $1.6 million. CW receives $10 in royalties for every Mazda sold in the U.S. GM has sent commitment letters to two parts suppliers stating that it expects to start production on key parts of the Wankel next April. Inferences drawn from the letters suggest 12-month, 100,000 car production with introduction of the model in the summer of 1974. Additional licensing agreements are vital for the continued growth of this source of income. Shares are rated businessman's risk.

Stocks Edge Up Slightly

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices edged ahead cautiously today in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Investors remained hesitant in the face of mixed news developments, but reduced price levels made some issues attractive buys.

The Commerce Department reported the United States had its first trade surplus in 19 months this April, amounting to $196.3 million, compared to a deficit of $52.6 million in March. News of the surplus gave the sagging dollar a big boost in European currency markets.

But the announcements by many leading banks of a quarter point boost to 7 ¼ per cent in the prime lending rate was taken by Wall Street analysts as a bearish development. They said the "cost of doing business" would thereby go up.

Delta Airlines rose 1, leading the airlines higher.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange picked up ground on light trading. Leading the activities, TWA warrants were ½ higher at 11 ⅛ on 24,100 traded.

Hearing Halted By TV Cameras

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A State Senate committee hearing was broken off before it started today when television camera crews refused to leave the hearing room on the order of the committee chairman.

Sen. George Deukmejian, D-Long Beach, the committee chief, called off the hearing after Senate Sergeant-at-arms K. H. Kenealy, a retired police officer, began to push one cameraman.

"Everybody out and when I say out, I mean out," Kenealy said.

Deukmejian then told Kenealy, "Pete, I don't want you to have to force them out."

Deukmejian added, "Perhaps there are other kinds of sanctions" that could be taken against the camera crews.

He recessed the hearing indefinitely.

The unwritten rule in the Senate is that no television cameras are allowed to film committee sessions if any member of the committee objects.

As the hearing started, Sen. Jack Schrade, R-San Diego, a longtime foe of televising hearings, made a formal objection and Deukmejian directed the television crews, totaling about nine men, to leave.

Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, then made a formal motion that the cameramen be allowed to stay. The motion failed on a 2-2 vote.

The TV crews stayed, their cameras whirring. There was an awkward silence in the room and then murmurings in the audience.

When no one moved, Kenealy pushed cameraman Greg Chaston of station KABC in Los Angeles, who was standing in an entranceway to the elevated area where the senators were sitting. Chaston backed up silmultaneously and remained standing. He was not hurt.

It was then that Deukmejian called off the session.

Beilenson and Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, voted to allow the camera crews to stay. Schrade and Sen. James Whetmore, R-La Habra, author of the bill in question, voted no. Deukmejian abstained, saying the motion was, in effect, to overrule the chair.

Whetmore said he would like to have publicity for his measures but that he would have to adhere to Senate tradition until the issue was resolved by the Senate Rules Committee.

Dolphins In Training For Missions In Navy

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — You remember "Flipper," of course, television's lovable performing porpoise. But "killer porpoises"?

Well, he may or may not be a killer, but there is today a new breed of porpoise—the warrior. He has that same infectious smile on his face, but his is a deadly, secret mission that is a source of growing controversey.

Some of the activities conducted here are known but most are secret.

The Navy freely discusses some missions of its porpoises. They are known to be trained to detect enemy mines and frogmen. Whales or sea lions get similar assignments.

The sea mammals also have been taught to detect and retrieve military hardware from the ocean, saving thousands of dollars and aiding in weapons research. They also are taught to rescue frogmen and to protect divers from sharks.

If, as has been reported, the porpoises are being trained in more aggressive assignments, little is being said about it."

The porpoises' "sonar system" —much like manmade radar—is so well developed that it is highly accurate in distinguishing between types of metals, sizes of objects and even types of submarines.

Tests here have shown the porpoises nearly 100 per cent accurate in selecting between the smaller of two steel balls both barely two inches in diameter. (And that was with the porpoise blindfolded.)

In short, the porpoise is highly intelligent and has a brain as large and as complicated as that of man. Porpoises learn quickly, can communicate well with man and lend themselves to sophisticated military uses.

Although the Navy has generally refused comment on military missions of its mammals, published reports in recent years have hinted at some types of training military porpoises are receiving, including the "Kamikaze" porpoise. He allegedly is trained to carry explosives and blow up enemy submarines—and himself as well.

Others are reported to be trained to detect and attack enemy frogmen by pulling off their face masks, tearing their regulator hoses and pulling off their swim fins.

Although the Navy won't discuss the mission, a team of porpoises trained here reportedly spent a year in Vietnam guarding Cam Ranh Bay against Communist frogman infiltration. Rumors said several Communist guerrillas were killed by porpoises armed with switch-blade devices on their snouts. The porpoises assertedly were controlled by radios operated by sailors from patrol boats.

A British scientific publication suggested last year that a "man to dolphin" translator has been developed that transforms human speech into pitch modulated whistles understood by the porpoises. According to his report porpoises—naturally friendly to man—were being taught aggressive behavior by the implantation of electrodes in the pleasure and pain centers of their brains.

In reply to the various reports of hostile activities by the porpoises, the Navy's last official comment on the matter was: "In spite of science fiction, conjectural and sensational so-called news stories to the contrary, the Navy has never, is not and has no plans to train any animal to injure itself in any way in connection with any alleged military mission or tactic."
